

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

PREFACE.

This volume is the Tenth, in order of newspaper dates, of the "First Series" of newspaper extracts, and comprises copies of practically all newspaper items and advertisements in the New York and Philadelphia newspapers during the period from July, 1773, to and including the year 1774.

At the time of the death of Mr. William Nelson, which occurred August 10, 1914, the extracts to page 374 had been edited by him and were in type; he had read the proofs of the same, excepting a few pages, and the matter had also been mostly printed. The delay in progressing with the work until the present time has been due to the lack of a sufficient appropriation by the Legislature to complete other volumes still more advanced in the printing, but which have now appeared.

Following the example set in Volume IV of the Second Series, issued earlier in this present year, and in order that extracts to the end of the year 1774 might be comprised in this volume, smaller type has been used for the matter succeeding page 374. The alterations in the style of printing, which, it is hoped, will be commended, are: First, modernizing the original overcapitalization; second, abrogating such display lines as were used when the matter was an advertisement; third, changing the numerous and unnecessary italic letters of words and entire articles. Such changes make easier reading. The language, however, is faithful to the original, including spelling and punctuation. The retention of both spelling and punctuation seemed desirable, as giving a quaintness to the original. True, some of the spellings may have been only blunders of type, but we cannot always be sure of it. For example, the word "gaol," as jail was formerly spelled, is often spelled "goal," but the very frequent repetition of this mode of spelling seems to indicate that both modes were in use.

That which is sure to hold the attention of many readers of this volume is the definite and determined stand taken by leading patriots of New Jersey on the "tyrannous acts" of the British Parliament. Events were swiftly leading toward the near time when the Colonies were to declare themselves free and independent of Great Britain. Vigorous communications early began to appear in the newspapers both against and for the measures adopted by the mother country, and soon in the various counties of the State meetings of the freeholders passed sturdy resolutions on the subject. The first resolutions chronicled appear to have been passed by the freeholders of Lower Freehold township, Monmouth County, June 6, 1774 (see page 413), and others to follow were held in the counties of Essex, Bergen, Morris, Somerset, Hunterdon, Middlesex, Salem, Sussex and Gloucester.

One more volume, to be numbered Volume XXX, should contain the newspaper extracts for 1775, and this will probably complete the entire series of extracts contemplated for publication by the New Jersey Historical Society. There would then have been published transcripts from newspapers relating to New Jersey during the period from 1704, when the first American newspaper was published (in Boston) until July, 1782, almost at the close of the American Revolution.

V.) to leave this Continent, takes this usual Method to acquaint his Friends and others, whom it may concern, of his design; desiring those, who have any lawful Demands against him, to bring in their Accounts, to be settled before the Expiration of this present Month, and if any know themselves to be indebted to him, to do the same.

New-Castle County, August 24, 1773.

TWENTY DOLLARS Reward.

WAS STOLEN, on the 16th instant, out of the pasture of William Patterson, near Christiana bridge, a bay HORSE, about 9 years old, near 14 hands high, a well made horse, in very good order, paces and trots, a hanging mane, switch tail, has neither brand nor ear-mark, has a feather low down on the near side of his neck, and something like one on the off-side; a few white hairs in the fore-top, a blackish spot on his withers, which was hurt with the cart-saddle; said horse has something of a cramp or lameness in the near hind foot, which may be observed when he is first rode, was shod before. I have great reason to believe the said horse was Stolen, by a certain ROBERT JONES, a very great villain and a noted horse-thief; who broke out of Gloucester goal, about 3 years ago, and was then servant to one Allen Gillaspie, of this County; the said Jones was on the plantation the day the said horse was stole: he had on a brownish coat, white breeches, brown worsted stockings; he is a lusty strong made fellow, about 35 years of age, about 5 feet 9 inches high, has short brown hair, was born in Ireland, speaks a little on the brogue. Whoever takes up said horse and thief, shall be intitled to the above reward, and for the horse only, ten dollars, paid by

WILLIAM PATTERSON.

N. B. It is supposed the said Jones is gone by way of Carlisle, towards Virginia.—The Pennsylvania Gazette, No. 2332, September 1, 1773.

AS the subscriber intends removing next October to the Natchez, on the Mississippi, he will sell his plantation, in Bucks county, on very reasonable terms: It contains 320 acres, whereof 250 are cleared; the whole tract has been lately fenced, chiefly with cedar rails and white oak posts. . . .

The situation of the place renders it an agreeable habitation, being in a very healthful part of the county, and good neighbourhood, 31 miles from Philadelphia, 11 from Bristol, 7 from Newtown, 3 from Trenton, and 1 below Mr. Yardley's ferry. Whoever inclines to purchase the above plantation, with or without the stock, may know the terms, by applying to Doctor WILLIAM BRYANT, near Trenton, to THOMAS YARDLEY, Esq; Mr. THOMAS BARCLAY, or on the premises to DANIEL CLARK.

NEW-YORK, September 6. | Thursday last his Excellency Governor Franklin, and his Lady, arrived from Albany, but last from Livingston's Manor.—The New-York Gazette, No. 1141, Sept. 6, 1773.

New-York, August 6, 1773.

Mr. Hugh Gaine,
Sir,

You will be pleased to print the inclosed letters in your next Monday's Gazette, and you'll oblige, Sir,

Your most obedient humble servant,

D. WRISBERG.

New-York, August 3, 1773.

Mr. ROBERT ERSKINE,
Sir,

IN a letter subscribed by you, dated the 10th of July, 1773, directed to the printer of the New-York Gazette, and published in that paper on the 22d of July, you threw out such general and illiberal reflections indiscriminately, on the managers employed by Peter Hasenclever, that in justice to my own reputation, (who was a manager) I must insist on an apology being made to me, in said Gazette, in as full a manner as possible to the following paragraphs, viz. Now at last he pretends to produce evidence to this fact, in his pamphlet,—but who are they? Why the very negligent, to say no worse again, whose faults it was his honour and interest to repair, whose expences he reduced one third, and whom he himself blames so highly—a justification from such a quarter, has so much the appearance of a mutual release, that it can have very little weight, either in a court of equity, or with any thinking person.

Again, I could bring proof that sums of money have been paid by some of the managers, from handfulls of bills carried loose in the pocket, without either acknowledgement or receipt. I expect you'll comply with my request, as the bearer has my orders to wait for your answer, in which I beg to be explicit to

Your very humble servant,

D. WRISBERG

To Mr. Robert Erskine, at New York

New-York, August 4, 1773.

SIR,

YOUR requesting me to retract publicly an avowed sentiment, is what no gentleman can comply with, unless convinced by argument of his error. For your satisfaction, however, I shall observe, that the first paragraph you mention, (which as a manager of Mr. Hasenclever, gives you uneasiness) is a general deduction, from general principles: as Mr. Hasenclever neither accuses nor acquits any one particularly, so neither can I: If the inference I have drawn, is false, its unreasonableness may be pointed out; if true, it is impossible to alter the nature of things. I assure you so far, that my intention was not to reflect upon characters, but to point out absurdities in Hasenclever's case, of which I take this to be none of the least; if what I say, therefore, implies a particular reflection, Mr. Hasenclever, who ought to have exculpated the innocent, is to blame, not me.

So much for the first Paragraph; with respect to the second, I can give you still more satisfaction, and hereby inform you, that it was Mr. Bateman who carried money loose in his pocket, and paid it without taking a receipt. This intelligence I had from Mr. John Zabrisky, sen. of Hackinsack. I never heard of such carelessness laid to your charge, or indeed to any other of the managers besides; if, therefore, the publication of this intelligence will be any particular satisfaction to you, you may cause the intelligence in this letter to be printed; the only satisfaction for an imaginary injury to be expected from

Sir, Your most humble servant,

ROBERT ERSKINE.

To Capt. D. Wrisberg. at New-York.

New-York, August 5, 1773.

SIR,

I Received your letter of the 4th instant, and I am sorry I am obliged to inform you, that it is not satisfactory as I think I am intitled to. You, Sir, have in a public manner reflected on the managers by Peter Hasenclever employed, and as I was one of them, you have indiscriminately involved me in the general reflections you made on them. This, Sir I think justifies my requesting an explicit declaration from you whether you intended to include me in the reflections or not. In the sixtieth page of Mr. Hasenclever's pamphlet is published an affidavit by several managers, one of which I am, and to what I think you must allude in your general reflections of mutual release. Your explanation of the last paragraph relating to Mr. Bateman, is satisfactory, the other is not; for if Mr. Hasenclever has cast reflections on the managers, it will not justify another person doing the same. Mr. Hasenclever is in England, and cannot be called to an account by the people here. General deductions of censure from general principles, are either ill founded, or not justifiable when they stigmatize the innocent men, equally with the guilty.

I shall stay in town till this matter is settled; the bearer is my servant, by whom I expect an answer,

I am, Sir,

Your most obedient humble servant,

D. WRISBERG.

To Mr. Robert Erskine, at New-York.

New-York, August 5, 1773.

SIR,

IN my last I told you that I meant to point out the absurdity of Mr. Hasenclever's case, and not to reflect upon characters; it was certainly ridiculous for Mr. Hasenclever to produce those persons in his justification why¹ by the lump he accuses of mismanagement. This was the point I meant to expose, and not to reflect upon you, or any other of the managers. Whether Mr. Hasenclever's accusations are just or not, it is impossible for me to tell; I don't accuse you, or any of the rest, of mismanagement, nor did I mean by the words mutual release, any reflection on you, or others, but only made use of the expression as a natural thought that as Mr. Hasenclever does not inform us he called those who mis-managed his affairs to account, it may naturally be supposed there were faults on both sides to be forgiven. I therefore again repeat to you that in no part of my publication I meant either general, or particular reflections, but merely to expose Mr. Hasenclever's absurd pamphlet, industriously and ungenerously circulated here to the prejudice of a set of gentlemen, whose property is most immediately under my inspection; I can say nothing more satisfactory on the subject, and therefore shall be sorry Capt. Wresberg gives himself or me any further trouble upon a matter that concerns only Mr. Hasenclever.

I am, SIR,

Your most humble servant,

ROBERT ERSKINE.

To Capt. D. Wrisberg.

NEW-JERSEY:

To Mr. JAMES RIVINGTON, Printer of the NEW-YORK GAZETTEER.

Morris-Town, Aug. 30, 1773.

SIR,

AS the public are interested, so they must be anxious to know the result of a special court of Oyer and Terminer, held here lately for the discovery and trial of the persons concerned in the counterfeiting the paper currency of the provinces of New-York, Pennsylvania, and New-Jersey.

I shall give you a brief narrative of the transactions of the Court, and the facts that appeared, that you may communicate them, if you think proper, through your paper.

This account you would have had sooner, but it was thought (for certain reasons) prudent not to publish it until this time.

You have already mentioned in your paper that Samuel Ford and John King had escaped from goal. Their escape made it extremely difficult to discover their accomplices. The Court opened on Tuesday the 11th, and it was the Friday following before the least intimation could be got of any person concerned, when one of them, who lay under the censure of three convictions, the one for aiding Ford and King in their escape, and the others for high misdemeanors, on being hard pushed, and in order to mitigate his punishment for these crimes, began to make a confession, this soon alarmed another of the accomplices, who made an ample and full confession.

By which confessions, and those of the persons afterwards apprehended, these facts appeared—That Ford has been in the business of money making many years, that in the year 1767, or 8, he followed it in New-York; but was apprehended on suspicion of making money, and admitted to bail, and even then set about preparing materials to renew the business, that he soon removed back into this county, where he again entered into it, and made a connection in Philadelphia, with a certain Captain Joseph Richardson, from whom he got a supply of types, he then attempted the New-York emission of Three Pound Bills, and made a considerable sum, but complained of the thinness of the paper, and the bad credit of the currency; at least in this and the neighbouring provinces, and gave a preference to the Jersey currency; but it is thought did little at it till the Pennsylvania emission of 1769 came out, when he with Captain Richardson went to Ireland, and from thence to London and the manufacturing towns, and Ford applied himself to learn the business of an engraver and type maker, and from his knowledge before in the art of carving, and an uncommon natural genius, he in the course of three months became so perfect a master of the business, that (on his return to America) he made all the types for his press, and in so masterly a manner, that the imitation of the Jersey and Pennsylvania bills, which were struck by them of Three Pounds, and Thirty Shillings is so exact that the difference cannot be discovered without the most strict examination of a person well acquainted with the true bills.

From the time of his return, till he was apprehended, he went on with uninterrupted success, and emitted large sums of the Jersey and Pennsylvania currency; but principally of the latter, for these two years past, and was the less apprehensive of being detected for the following reasons:

1st. His bills had stood the test of the several treasurers examination, and had had their sanction, which he ever made an invariable rule to secure before he passed any of his new emissions.

2dly. His press and all his implements were in an almost impenetrable swamp, and in which the water, most part of the year, was half leg deep, so that no person could track him, and he must crawl on his belly some rods before he could reach it.

3dly. As no person, except King and Richardson, knew where he did work, or had ever seen the place, and these, and all others concerned, were sworn to secrecy.—He used to go to his work at day light, in the morning, with his gun, so that no person could suspect him. Ford was called the Treasurer for the three provinces. He signed his own bills. By direction of the Court a number of persons went into the swamp, in search of his types, &c. but found only his press, and a leather that covered the bills when they were struck, on which was the impression of a Pennsylvania Bill of £3, of the emission of 1769.

Upon these facts the following (who were only concerned as passers of the money, except Reynolds, who procured some types for Ford) to wit, Benjamin Cooper, Esq; Doctor Bern Budd, Samuel Haynes and David Reynolds, were indicted and plead guilty to their several indictments, and on the nineteenth they received sentence of death, to be executed the 17th of September next. Few scenes ever were more truly affecting than the one in the court-house, at the time of sentence passing.—These four persons are remarkably handsome fine looking men, three of them about thirty, the other 40, they are all married and have children. All are descendants from the first families in the province, and all have parents living, and numerous relations—the attendance of their relations and friends added much to the solemnity of it; so much that it is better conceived than described—among a thousand people there was scarce a dry eye. The spectators were more sensibly affected for those unhappy persons, as it appeared they had been drawn into it by the art, cunning and perswasion of that VILLAIN FORD.

These were all the persons apprehended for capital crimes, except justice Ayres, whose crime was committed in Sussex county, it appeared he had not been in the practice for some time past, and if any judgment can be found of his repentance, by his conduct and carriage, it was sincere before he was suspected, as his life had lately been so exemplary, that the congregation to which he belonged had promoted him to the rank of deacon, and the parson was so fully convinced of his innocence, that on the Sunday after his committment he PRAYED for his protection from false accusers, and the Sunday following a report prevailed that he was released, when the Parson returned thanks for it; but alas! before the next Sunday certain accounts were received that he had confessed his crime.

During these enquiries, sufficient evidence appeared to convince every one present, that Ford was one of the Persons that robbed the Treasury of this Province some years since, both, from his own confession to one of the convicts, who declared it on oath, as also from many other circumstances.

From this account of Ford, the Public must view him in the light of the most accomplished Villain, that this country ever produced, and it is hoped it will stimulate every well-wisher to the community throughout the continent, to be watchfull for, and active in apprehending him, especially when they have the promise of 500l. from the Governor of Pennsylvania, for convicting the Person who counterfeited the Currency of that Province, and of his being the man, against whom there is the fullest Proof.—It is supposed he is gone to the Ohio, and intends going down to the mouth of the Mississippi, Richardson has also made his escape.

The Grand Jury in a polite Address, thanked the Court and Attorney General for the great Pains they had taken, in aiding them in their discoveries, and in a very particular manner gave their thanks; and those of the County to some Persons, whose activity had laid a foundation for detecting and breaking up this nest of public robbers.

You should have had this at large with the answer to it, but too much of your Paper would be taken up thereby, for one subject to ingross.

Thus Sir, I have given you a brief account of the facts that appeared to the Court, so far as they relate to the Paper Currency, and should any thing further occur at the meeting of the Court the 28th instant, to which day it is adjourned, worth the attention of the Public, you may depend on receiving it from

NEW-YORK, September 16.

On the 3d instant a further and very strict search was made for printing materials (concealed by Ford, the money maker) in the swamp where the press was found, when, after much diligence exerted, a sett of plates for printing the currencies of Maryland; Pennsylvania. New-Jersey, and New-York, with a quantity of types and other utensils for carrying on the counterfeiting bills of each province, were discovered and secured. In the course of his flight he put off some Jersey bills of his own manufacture, amongst the Indians, who being afterwards apprized that they were counterfeited, very cheerfully joined in the pursuit of the most pernicious artist.

Positive accounts are received that Ford and King were at Fort Augusta, near Susquehannah, on the 29th of August, he was hovering in a canoe on one of the branches of that river, so he is not very likely to escape.

We are just now informed that Ford and King were on the 5th instant at a village called Annaquanga, and the chasseurs expected to be up with them the next night. —Rivington's New-York Gazetteer; or the Connecticut, New-Jersey, Hudson's River, and Quebec Weekly Advertiser, No. 22, September 15, 1773.

NEW-YORK, September 20. | We hear from New-Jersey, that the following melancholy Accident happened about three Weeks ago at the New Moravian Settlement, in Sussex County, in that Colony; a remarkable fine Child, about 10 Months old, Son of Mr. Leinbeck, Store-keeper there, was dropped by a Boy into a Bucket of scalding Water, which was at the same Time, overset by the Boy, which threw the Water all over and under the Child, and scalded the Skin in the Parts most exposed in a terrible Manner, so that it came off in undressing. The distressed Parents committed it to the Care of a Woman in the House, who pretended to understand the Cure of Scalds: She immediately applied Salt to the scalded Parts, which threw the Child into Convulsions, and in less than an Hour put an End to its Life and Misery.

PHILADELPHIA. We hear from Morris-Town, New-Jersey, that on Friday last was executed there David Reynolds, pursuant to his sentence, for counterfeiting the paper currency of that province; he appeared very penitent, and trembled at the approach of death. The other three, who are under sentence for the same crime, are respited till the 15th of October.—It is imagined by some present, that there were at least 15,000 people attended the execution.—The Pennsylvania Journal; and The Weekly Advertiser, No. 1607, September 22, 1773.

NEW-YORK, September 23.

Last Friday between ten and twelve o'clock, was executed at Morris Town, East-Jersey, David Reynolds, who was convicted of counterfeiting and passing of base money; he died very penitent. Cooper, Budd and Haines, condemned with him, are respited to the 15th of October. The public shall shortly be made acquainted with many interesting and authentic particulars relative to this dangerous confederacy. The last accounts of Ford, the most heinous of this destructive community, are, that he was seen asleep under a tree, guarded by King and another man well armed; they take their rest alternately in this manner. Ford is reduced by a fever, joined to a complication of the most loathsome distempers, which prevent his travelling now any more than five miles a day, and as there are some very determined people engaged in the pursuit, it is expected he is ere now either found dead or taken alive.

Had on when he went away, a Tow Shirt and Breeches, and took with him an uncut Velvet Waistcoat, a Wilton Coat, and a Pair of white Worsted Stockings and Pumps. JOHN RICHARDS.

NEW-YORK, September 27.

On Friday the 17th Instant at Morris Town in East New Jersey, was executed, David Reynolds, a Native of Ireland, about 32 years of age, for counterfeiting the money Bills of Credit of that Colony. He arrived there about ten Years ago, and chiefly followed the farming business, till getting acquainted with one Rosecrans (executed some time ago for the like Crime, but without declaring his Accomplices) he was by him led into the Scheme of making and passing counterfeit Money; after the Execution of Rosecrans, Reynolds accidentally met with Capt. Richardson (of Philadelphia, who is fled) and getting acquainted with each other's Characters, was by him introduced to Ford, Haynes, Cooper, Budd, King, and the rest of the Gang. Ford the Principal, termed by the Rest, the Treasurer of the three Provinces, had counterfeited the Money Bills of New York, New-Jersey, and Pennsylvania, in so Masterly a manner as not to be distinguished from the true Bills without the nicest Inspection, and also several of the Gold and Silver Coins current in the British Colonies: and in passing these, Reynolds and the Rest of the Accomplices continued, till Ford and King were apprehended and imprisoned in Morris County Gaol, from whence they soon after made their escape, as mentioned in the Papers. One of the Gang being convicted of aiding them in their Escape and other high Misdemeanors, to mitigate the Punishment, made some Confessions tending to the Discovery of the Rest, which alarmed another, who made an ample confession of the whole, in Consequence of which Reynolds, Haynes, Cooper, and Budd, were tried, confessed their Guilt, and were condemned to be hanged. Their Execution was ordered to be on the 17th Instant; before the Time, Budd and Haynes were respited for a Month, but Reynolds and Cooper were ordered to prepare for Execution at the Time appointed. A few Minutes before the Time, Cooper confessed himself privy to the Robbery of the Treasury at Amboy, and that he received Three Hundred Pounds of the Money; on which he also was respited till he should make further Discoveries. Reynolds was therefore ordered for Execution alone, at which he seemed much affected and burst into Tears, but thro' the Assistance of a Minister who attended him, he grew Calm, and resigned to his Fate. His Behaviour during his Confinement and after his Sentence, was penitent and submissive; he shewed a proper Sensibility of his unhappy Situation, and earnestly exhorted his Companions in Guilt, to a sincere Repentance. On the fatal Day, he took an affecting Leave of them; and they all discovered the most lively Expressions of that Distress to which their Crimes and Follies had reduced them, which drew Tears from the Eyes of the Spectators. At the Place of Execution, Reynolds sung and prayed very earnestly, and in a short but pathetic Speech, warned the People to avoid the Vices that had undone him, and earnestly requested them not to reflect on his innocent Wife and helpless Infants.

Cooper confessed that he was privy to the robbery of the Treasury at Amboy, and received 300l. of the Money, that it was concerted by Ford and perpetrated by him and three Soldiers then quartered there; that the Plan was, first to attempt to carry off the Iron Chest, if that fail'd, next to take the Key from Mr. Skinner's Bed-room, and to kill him or any Person who should discover them; and that if afterwards any of them should be suspected and convicted, they were to turn King's Evidence and accuse Mr. Skinner as being the only Accomplice with them. When some of them were shocked at this Proposal as thereby an innocent Person might lose his Life; Ford replied, no, damn him, he will only be condemned, he has Friends enough to save him from the Gallows. That after breaking into the Treasurer's Office adjoining to his Bed Room, they attempted to carry off the Chest, but finding it difficult, set it down again, and breaking open a Desk in the Room, in hopes to find Money, they therein found an old Key to the Money Chest, which was rusty and thought unfit for Use (the Key then used being in Mr. Skinner's Bed Room) with this old Key, they opened the Iron Chest, and thereby the Lives that would have been exposed by their Search for the other Key, were probably preserv'd. The Governor and Council of New-Jersey, are to meet in a few Days, when further Particulars relating to this Matter will be known.—The New-York Gazette; and The Weekly Mercury, No. 1144, September 27, 1773.

PHILADELPHIA. | We are informed that Summonses are issued for the General Assembly of New-Jersey, to meet at Burlington, the 10th of November next.—The Pennsylvania Journal; and The Weekly Advertiser, No.

NEW-YORK, September 30. | The principal pursuer of Ford and King, Mr. Scott who, on account of his particular attachment to one of the present unfortunate persons at Morristown, was extreemly interested in taking the first of these men, is returned without being able to come up with them, the persons he had chased in expectation of their proving to be those he went after were two Indian traders, all that he could learn from these was, that Richardson of Philadelphia, and Thomas Budd joined Ford and King a little beyond Juniata, from whence they all sat out together, well armed for the Mississippi, so that there remain very little hopes of their being secured.—Rivington's New-York Gazetteer, No. 24, September 30, 1773.

NEW-YORK, September 30. | On Tuesday next, the anniversary Meeting of the CORPORATION, FOR THE RELIEF

OF THE WIDOWS AND CHILDREN OF Clergymen, in the Communion of the Church of England, in America, is to be held in this City. A Sermon suitable to the Occasion will be preached at Trinity Church:—Divine Service will begin at Eleven o'Clock:—Solemn Music will be performed.

As this truly benevolent and charitable Design, has, since its first Institution, fully answered the most sanguine Expectations; and, as the very worthy Members of the Church of England, in this City, and other respectable and benevolent Christians, have largely contributed to the Fund, it cannot be doubted, but that they will continue to honour the Corporation with their Company at Church; and further contribute to alleviate the Distresses and Misfortunes of those, who, may by Death be deprived of a fond Husband, or an affectionate Parent, whose Life and Service was spent in promoting the Religion of our blessed SAVIOUR, and the Happiness of Mankind:—New-York Journal, or the General Advertiser, No. 1604, September 30, 1773.

PURSUANT to an order of the Inferior Court of Common Pleas for the county of Morris; Notice is hereby given, to the respective creditors of Thomas Pollen and William Walton, insolvent debtors, now confined in the common goal of said county for debt, that they be and appear before Jacob Ford and Samuel Tuthill, Esqrs, two of the judges of said court, at the court house in Morris town, on Wednesday the 27th day of October instant, at two of the clock in the afternoon of the same day, to show cause, if any they have, why the said insolvents should not be discharged agreeable to the directions of a late act of the governor, council and general assembly of the province of New-Jersey, entitled, "An act for the relief of insolvent debtors."

NEW-YORK, October 4, | We can assure the Publick, That Raynolds lately executed at Morris Town, was not a native of Ireland. but born in Pennsylvania, where his Father and Mother are yet living; and we are told, that Samuel Ford embarked at Barnagat some Time ago for St. Kitts, and from thence intended for St. Eustatia.

To be SOLD,

A FARM whereon Mrs. Elizabeth Bradberry,¹ deceased, lately lived, joining Passaick River, (commonly called Second-River) near Third River, in the county of Essex, and province of East New-Jersey, about five miles from the town of Newark, and about 10 from New-York; containing 240 acres, upon which is a large dwelling-house, with three rooms on a floor, and a fire-place in each; a good cellar and garret; and a convenient linto, very cool in summer. Adjoining the house is a kitchen, and contiguous to the kitchen is a brew-house, with a copper and other necessities for brewing. There is an excellent well of water, and about fifty yards from the well is a very fine never failing spring. Also a large barn, orchard and garden, with sundry sorts of excellent fruit. There is about seven acres of fresh meadow, and as much more may be made at a very little expense. . . . This farm is a very good soil, and is as pleasantly situated as any farm along Passaick River, and if divided into two lots, may be made two as agreeable country seats as can be desired. There is to be sold with or without the farm ¹She was the widow of John Bradbury, who bought March 18, 1698, and thereafter, several tracts on the Third River, at what is now known as Avondale, on the Paterson and Newark branch of the Erie Railroad, and established a grist-mill and other industries. TO BE SOLD,

THE GRIST MILL, SAW MILL and PLANTATION, late the property of JOHN BAINBRIDGE, situated upon Rocky Brook, in the township of Windsor, county of Middlesex, and province of New-Jersey. The plantation contains about 56 acres of excellent land, on which are erected, besides the mills, two good frame dwelling houses, a blacksmith's shop, store houses, &c. The grist mill is in good order, has two pair of stones, one of them French burr, and stands upon as fine a stream as any in the province, for in the driest season, it was never known to fail; and being in the heart of a fine wheat country. it has every advantage for carrying on the business extensively. The saw mill is likewise in good order. This stand is also one of the best in the province for a store, one having been kept there for many years past; and as it lays about midway between Philadelphia and New-York, the communication to both these places (the stages from Burlington and Bordentown going twice a week) renders the transportation of goods to and from either of them extremely convenient and at a small expence.

Any person inclining to purchase, may know the terms, by applying to Mr. JOSEPH POTTS, at Cranberry, Mr. ROBERT MONTGOMERY, near Allentown, or to the subscribers, who will give an undisputable title and immediate possession.

RUN AWAY from the subscriber, living in Burlington, a well-looking Dutch servant woman, named ANNA MARGARETTE FRELUHEN, about 22 years of age, has black hair, swarthy complexion, and pock-marked; carried with her a large bundle of different kinds of Dutch cloaths, likewise her Indentures: She came in the Britannia, Capt. Peters, from Rotterdam, about two weeks since, and cannot talk a word of English.—It is thought she will aim for Lancaster or Frederick-town. Whoever takes up the said servant, and secures her in any of his Majesty's gaols, so that her Master may have her again, shall be entitled to the above reward.

JOHN POOL.

THE subscriber begs leave to inform the public, that he still continues to teach the Grammar School at Freehold; he has procured a house, in which five and twenty persons may be comfortably boarded: The peculiar advantages boys must be under, when the master is thus constantly with them, are too obvious to need mention. This house is situated about one mile from Monmouth court-house, and about three quarters of a mile from the Revd. Mr.

Tennant's. The subscriber pays a special attention to the pronunciation of his pupils: Reading English and writing letters, are established exercises in his school, and these letters are to be on any subjects of business, diversion or friendship. Writing is also taught, together with psalmody, a much neglected though desirable accomplishment, in this last mentioned article, a skilful teacher is employed, under whom the scholars have made rapid progress. A healthful air, a pleasant situation, a degree of retirement, which invites to study, while it is very free from vicious examples, are characters for which this place is remarkable. Articles of any kind may be conveyed to this place from New-York or Philadelphia, with the utmost conveniency and speed. The price of board, including fire-wood and washing is Fifteen Pounds: The price of tuition Five Pounds. Those gentlemen who shall think fit to intrust the subscriber with the care of their sons, may depend upon his giving steady attention to their improvement and good behaviour.

NEW YORK, October 7.

Tuesday last being the anniversary for the meeting of the corporation for the relief of widows and children of clergymen in communion of the Church of England, in America, a sermon, suitable to the occasion, was preached at Trinity Church, by the Rev. Dr. PETERS, to a very numerous and respectable audience; and afterwards a very handsome collection was made for the benefit of the fund.

Although it is positively asserted, in some parts of

New-Jersey, that Ford, Budd and King have made their escape on board a vessel, bound to the West-Indies, there are few here that give credit to it. The counterfeit specie lately put off by them amongst the Indians, on Susquehannah, is an incontestible proof of their flight towards the Ohio, as they were exactly described to the pursueres by the very Indians who had received the bills in payment from them.

THE THIRD class of the lottery for the benefit of St. John's Church, in Elizabeth-Town, is drawn, and the fortunate numbers will be published in our next paper. The fourth class will begin drawing on Monday the 25th instant, and the adventurers in the third class, who are desirous of the same numbers in the fourth, are requested to apply for them with all convenient speed.—Rivington's New-York Gazetteer; or The Connecticut, New-Jersey, Hudson's-River, and Quebec Weekly Advertiser, No. 25, October 7, 1773.

THE public is hereby informed, that the vacation in the Grammar School here, ends on the 28th instant, and that of the College on Monday the 8th of November, and all Members of College are desired to remember that they lose all claim of preference in their chambers if they are absent one day after the time appointed.

In the Grammar School Youth are instructed in the Greek and Latin Languages, according to the methods most approved in the schools in North Britain, and such as are intended for business are instructed in Writing, Arithmetic, and Geography.

As there are some Gentlemen who desire to have their Children fitted for public life, without going through a full academical course to obtain degrees, there is liberty granted to those to study what branches are requisite for them with the classes, particularly the practical parts of the Mathematics and Natural Philosophy. They may also learn the French Language, and have access to attend the Lectures on Composition and Criticism, and on Chronology and History, and to live in College, provided they submit entirely to the regulations of College in point of behaviour, and the hours of study and recreation. Great pains have been taken to introduce a taste for the study of the English Language, not without considerable success, and it is earnestly recommended to all masters of schools, that they be at pains, not only to make their pupils well acquainted with the Grammar and construction of the Latin and Greek Languages; but with the Orthography, Punctuation and Grammar of their own Language, in which, if they be defective, when they come to enter College it is extremely difficult afterwards to remedy.

The pursuit of Ford and King¹ was continued until it was found that they were certainly making for the Ohio; the party not prepared for proceeding to so great a distance, desisted, after having dispatched a man down to that river, who was to follow them to the city of New-Orleans; from this person no accounts have been yet received. But we are assured some hopes are still to be entertained of apprehending them, as Colonel Guy Johnson, on hearing of their escape, some time ago, dispatched a Mohawk Indian, one of the best runners of that nation, with exact description and proper instructions to follow them down the Ohio. In quest of these fugitives there have not been discovered the least traces of either Richardson or Budd, as has been reported, they are supposed to have taken another route.—Rivington's New-York Gazetteer; or, The Connecticut, New-Jersey, Hud-

STATED PILOTS OF THE

PORT of NEW-YORK, and all others whom it may concern; GENTLEMEN,

WE need not inform you, that the ship is hourly expected with the tea from England, which, if landed here, will entail slavery on this colony, and ruin its commerce. No class of men are more interested in the last than you; nor none have it more in their power to prevent the introduction of that which the tyrannical Ministry intend as the badge of our slavery. You are, therefore, called upon to give the first obstruction. The ship cannot enter this port, unless you direct her. Acquit yourselves in this, as become free men and friends to commerce. Much depends on your conduct in this interesting crisis; no less, than whether you and your posterity shall be free men or slaves—Whether you and they shall have property, or be beggars. You have had many proofs of the disapprobation of your fellow citizens to the importation of any article, subject to a duty by the British Parliament, for the purpose of raising a revenue in America. And it is not many days since you have had a very recent one. You have therefore nothing to fear from doing your duty to your country. The merchants and all the inhabitants, friends to liberty, are concerned in your giving the obstruction, and will support you. We cannot therefore doubt, but these are sufficient motives to induce you to demonstrate to all the world, that you will not have the least agency in the destruction of your country. But if, contrary to our just expectations, any of you should be so lost to all sense of obligation to your country, as not to follow the directions hereafter mentioned, the vengeance of a free people, struggling for their liberties, await and will surely be executed upon you. Should you be told, that the Wardens will remove any of you who may refuse to pilot the ship into this port, or prosecute your bonds; they dare not do either, for they are within the reach of the same vengeance, and therefore will not hazard their own safety; so that you are secure in the approbation of your countrymen, and it is the best and only security any man can have.

Whenever you board a vessel, enquire carelessly of the sailors, where she is from, and if from London, whether she has any tea on board; for the Captain of the tea ship may conceal it from you. If the sailors were not on board at the loading of her, and cannot inform you, enquire of the Captain. If he is unwilling to tell you, rest assured the tea is there. In this case, or your being informed, that the tea is on board, bring her to anchor in Sandy-Hook Bay, and no farther, where she may be supplied with any provisions, or other articles she may want for her return. Upon her anchoring, quit her immediately, and make the best of your way to this city, and inform the citizens of her arrival. You should be provided with a red flag to hoist as a signal to the other Pilots, whenever you discover her to be the tea ship, in order that they may keep clear of her after you quit her.

Let every pilot possess himself with a copy of this for his government.

New-York, Nov. 10, 1773.

To the PUBLIC.

WHEREAS the inhabitants of a certain village, situate at Passaick-River, on the main road that leads from Elizabeth-Town to Morris-Town, found themselves under a considerable disadvantage from the place's not having a particular name, as the river runs through the country 40 or 50 miles, and letters directed to persons at Passaick River only, would be sometimes carried above and sometimes below them; upon which the principal freeholders and inhabitants assembled together on Friday, the 19th inst. and unanimously agreed to call it CHATHAM; and all persons that should hereafter direct letters, or any thing else to any person living at or near the above place, are desired to direct at Chatham, on Passaick River.

CHATHAM, Nov. 22, 1773.

NEW-YORK, November 29.

The 19th Inst. his Majesty's 47th regiment, commanded by Lieutenant Colonel Nesbit, was reviewed at Perth-Amboy, by his Excellency General Haldimand, commanding in Chief, attended by the Gentlemen of the Staff. The appearance of the officers and men induced the spectators to consider them as the sons of those veterans that composed the battalion whose firmness and discipline, animated by the immortal Wolfe, was so eminently distinguished in the late war.

On Monday night died, in an advanced age, at Perth-Amboy, Dr. Lewis Johnston, a physician of the highest reputation, and greatly beloved by all who knew him.

About 4 o'clock on Thursday morning the 18th inst. a fire broke out in the house of Mr. Hugh Taylor, of Cranbury, in Monmouth County, New-Jersey, who kept the noted tavern known by the name of Campbell's Tavern, occasioned as is supposed by an oven that stood in the kitchen, which had been used the evening before. The house, which cost Mr. Campbell 500l. about seven years since, is entirely consumed, with the greatest part of the furniture. Mr. Taylor and his wife narrowly escaped the flames, having been late up the preceding night, never awoke until the door of the house was burst open, and alarmed of their danger by Mrs. Campbell, one of their neighbours, who came to their assistance.

WILLIAM FRANKLIN, Esq;

Captain General, Governor and Commander in Chief, in and over the Province of NEW-JERSEY, and Territories thereon depending in AMERICA, Chancellor and Vice-Admiral in the same, &c.

To the GENERAL ASSEMBLY of the said Province, convened at Burlington.

Gentlemen of the Council, and Gentlemen of the General Assembly,

A Discovery was made some Time in the Beginning of last Summer of a Number of Persons in the Counties of Middlesex and Monmouth, concerned in making a base Kind of Half Johannes and Spanish Dollars, which happily led to the Discovery of another Gang of Villains in the Counties of Morris and Sussex, who had for several Years past been employed in counterfeiting and passing the Paper Currency of this and the neighbouring Colonies. From the Confessions of some of them, corroborated by many striking Circumstances, the Affair of the Robbery of the Treasury, which had remained so long enveloped in Darkness, has likewise been brought to Light.—Unluckily some of the Gang have made their Escape out of the Province; but all of the former who were apprehended, and one of the Chief of the latter have received their Punishment for their Crimes which the Law would permit. Three others, who were sentenced to Death, have been respited, for very particular Reasons, as you will see by the Papers I shall order to be laid before you. No Endeavours have been, or shall be wanting on my Part, to have those who escaped, apprehended and brought to Justice.

As the Mischief in which these Persons were engaged is of such extensive and pernicious a Nature, I cannot but congratulate you upon the Stop which has been put to its further Progress: Nor can I doubt but you will think with me, that the Thanks and grateful Acknowledgments of the Public are due to those Gentlemen who have with great Zeal and Abilities, and with considerable Trouble and Expence, been the Means of detecting and apprehending the Authors of it.

On this Occasion, I think it proper to recommend to you the passing of a Law to make it Felony to counterfeit in this Province the Silver and Gold Coins of foreign Countries. Many of them have now so general a Circulation here, that the Mischiefs resulting from their being counterfeited may be as destructive as the counterfeiting of our own Paper Currency.

Gentlemen of the General Assembly,

Besides making due Provision for the Support of Government, I have to request that you would grant a Supply for the King's Troops now stationed in this Colony. As I apprehended it would have been very inconvenient to your private Affairs, had I called you together at the Season when the Troops arrived, I desired Major-General Haldimand to let the Barrack-Master-General furnish the Troops with the usual Necessaries supplied by the Province, and gave him Reason to expect that you would, at your first Meeting, provide for any reasonable Expence which might be incurred on that Account. This the General was so obliging as to do, and I trust you will not be deficient in evincing that you have a proper Sense of the Kindness. The Barrack-Masters' Account shall be laid before you as soon as they can be prepared.

I must likewise recommend it to you to enable me, as soon as possible, to offer such Rewards and Encouragements for apprehending and bringing to Justice the Persons accused of counterfeiting our Paper Currency, and robbing the Treasury, as will become the Honour of the Province and the Importance of the Occasion. For Want of a Fund appropriated to answer contingent Expences, this Province often labours under considerable Disadvantages. In all Probability if Government had been empowered to hire a Number of active Men to have gone off immediately in different Parties, in pursuit of those Delinquents, they would ere now have received the Punishment due to their Crimes.

Gentlemen of the Council, and Gentlemen of the General Assembly,

I am never so happy as when I have an Opportunity of promoting the public Welfare, and as I know of nothing which has a Chance to contribute more to that desirable End than Harmony between the several Branches of the Legislature, I shall not fail to cultivate it as much as may be in my Power, and I flatter myself that I shall, during the Course of the ensuing Session, meet with the same Disposition on your Parts.

THE Lottery made in Favour of a Protestant Minister, will be drawn on the fourth Day of January next, at the House of Mr. Andrew Van Boskirk, at New-Barbados.

Mr. RIVINGTON,

IN your news-paper of the 18th of November last, appeared an advertisement, forewarning all persons not to credit ANNA VANDERVOORT, wife of PAUL VANDERVOORT, of Matewan.—We her neighbours being highly incensed at his conduct, both as to that act, and many others, think it our duty to inform the public of his proceedings since he became our neighbour, and after informing you that Matewan is a valuable farm, and belonging to the heirs of Anna's former husband, (viz. seven children) to whose will, Anna was left an executrix; for the time of her widowhood.

Know then, that in the time of Anna's widowhood, the father of said Paul, bought a farm adjoining said Matewan, from the executrix, and the then acting executor, which he declared was for his son Paul; shortly after Paul paid his addresses to said Anna, and with every fascinating pretence, & tender promises that her children should receive the most paternal treatment from him: Paul obtained Anna's consent, and married her about five years since.

From his behaviour after marriage, to his wife, who was genteely brought up, and has ever supported a most amiable character in the opinion of all that knew her; we are confident his ingratitude is not to be paralleled, for instance, on his marriage, Paul received six hundred pounds and upwards in money and stock; about six months after, Paul got a lease of Matewan farm, with liberty to cut wood, at which he has been very diligent; and this is all the property we are sure, that he is possessed of; we allow that Paul's father bought the aforesaid farm adjoining Matewan, but he lives on it, and as he has not given it to Paul, 'tis likely he never will, so that the whole seems to be a piece of chicanery, to illustrate themselves, wherein 'tis generally believed, that Paul's father is Paul's evil dæmon. Anna in her former husband's time had all the comfort a wife could wish for, but since Paul's marriage with her she has been deprived of every consequence as to acting, nor did Paul put it into her power to extend her maternal care to her children, in matters of the smallest consequence, which properly come under the government of a woman, she has been deprived of. Nor has Anna had it in her power to lay out for her own or her children's necessities to the amount of five pounds for this five years, and it was common for him to say, that now he had got the loaf under his own arm, that he would cut it as he pleased, and it is shocking to know how he has cut it: The conditions of the lease, were, that Paul should have the sole use of the farm and timber, to bring up the children in a decent manner, till they were of age to go to business; but their cloaths were so few, and so mean, that it was scarcely better than being naked, one of them he turned out of doors, three of them have scarcely been at the place for this three years. The eldest son being of age, about three months ago qualified himself as executrix to his father's will, and then demanded possession of Matewan farm, from Paul, who behaved himself very unbecoming, so that the heir had no means of avoiding a law suit to possess himself of the farm, without making a division of the land, or paying a legacy of 160l. in case his mother should prefer it to her dower, which she did, and the heir having paid the legacy into the hands of his mother, took her, and her husband's receipt for it: She having experienced the deportment of Paul to herself and children, was not willing to trust to any future generosity of his, (a sentiment he is utterly void of,) therefore reserved it in her own possession. Then Paul removed off to his father's house and farm, all the negroes, horses, cattle, hogs, farming utensils, household furniture, beds and bedding, nor did he leave one mouthful of victuals for his wife or her children to eat, (though some of them were very unwell) save one tea cup and saucer, he gave his wife, when he was going away, (the utmost bounty of his nature.) And as he became possessed of those things by the mother and father of those children, how despicable he will appear we leave to the public, and his advertisement for the finishing stroke to his own character, given of himself: Having pledged ourselves to the public for the truth of these assertions, we join in our requests that you print this in your next paper, and are

Please to insert the following, and oblige your humble Servant,

SAMUEL OAKFORD.

December 11, 1773.

Chester County, ss.

THIS eleventh day of December, A. D. 1773, appeared Ephraim Lloyd, of Lower Penn's Neck, in the county of Salem, Farmer, and made oath, That he is well acquainted with Samuel Oakford, of Salem town, Shallop-man, for several years, and that the man, now before me, is the said Samuel Oakford of Salem aforesaid. and he knows of no other person of that name, Shallop-man, whatsoever, &c.

EPHRAIM LLOYD

Sworn the day and year aforesaid,

THIS may inform whom it may concern, That some time past, a certain person (name forgot) made oath before me respecting some contraband goods being taken out of a brigantine, near Newcastle, by Robert Moulder's shallop, which person was brought before me, (with his deposition already drawn up) by a certain Richard Swanwick, Captain of the Custom-House Boat, which person was then unknown to me, having never seen him before nor since to my knowledge; but he called himself a Shallop-man, out of Salem, and I do not remember his name,—but I am certain that the man now sworn to be Samuel Oakford, by Ephraim Lloyd, is not the person that made the oath respecting the contraband goods as aforesaid, as that man was considerably less in stature, with sore eyes, and he made his mark to the deposition: There appears such a manifest difference between the man that made the oath as aforesaid, and the man that Mr. Lloyd has made oath to be Samuel Oakford, that removes every doubt from me, and that he, the said Samuel Oakford, as proved aforesaid, is not the man that made such deposition as aforesaid.

Witness by hand, this 11th day of December, 1773.

RICHARD RILEY.

TO BE SOLD,

SEVERAL tracts of LAND, lying between Great Egg-harbour and Tuckahoe rivers, in Gloucester county, containing in the whole about 1500 acres, on one of which tracts there is a two story frame dwelling-house, with two rooms on a floor, and a stone cellar under it, a large barn, and stables; also several good apple orchards, and other fruit trees, about 50 acres of cleared land; the place is very convenient for raising a large stock, as there is a great quantity of salt marsh, and a swamp, containing about 100 acres, that will make very good meadow, and may be cleared and drained at a small expence, as it has been in part done already; likewise a large outlet for cattle in the summer season; this tract contains about 1000 acres. The other tracts lie near the above, and have on them several branches of cedar swamp, and good pine timber, they are handy to the saw mills, and but a small distance to several landings, the whole being late the estate of Andrew Griscom, deceased. THE subscriber takes this method to inform the public in general, and his friends in particular, that he has taken the house, at the corner of Second and Lombard-streets (opposite to the New-market) where Mr. Samuel Chestnut formerly lived, known by the Sign of the Pennsylvania Farmer, and has provided himself with a stock of good liquors, bedding, stabling, hay and oats, also a yard for the reception of market-horses and waggons. As business from the lower counties, both of Pennsylvania and the Jerseys, chiefly center at the lower parts of the city, and as there are few or no Inns for the entertainment of travellers, to the southward of Chestnut street, it must be inconvenient for those, whose business calls them to the lower parts of the city, to be so far from their lodgings, for which reason he hopes for the public's favour, and in return they may depend on civil usage, and good entertainment, from their humble servant,

JOSEPH PRICE.

GILES LOVERING.

—The Pennsylvania Gazette, No. 2348, December 22, 1773.

WHEREAS the Subscriber did on the 23 day of November 1773, purchase from a certain John Chambers of Hunterdon county, West New-Jersey, (Shoemaker,) a small tenement containing two acres of land, with a double logg-house at the price of Eighteen Pounds, for which he the Subscriber did execute two Bills, (that is) for Nine Pounds each, the one due at six months end, and the other at twelve months end. And the said John Chambers on his part, did covenant and agree, to make a good and sufficient Deed to me the said Subscriber, for the premises. at the payment of the first Bill. And whereas it appears, the original Deed for the premises is now in the hands of Joseph Beavers, Esq; as also an actual conveyance from the said Chambers to said Beavers, for said premises, which makes it doubtful, how the purchaser can have justice done him, agreeable to bargain. These are therefore to forewarn all persons whatsoever, from taking an assignment of the said Bills, as I am determined not to pay the money to any person, untill the consideration for which the said Bills were given, be performed to me. And which I think most reasonable to dispute with Chambers himself. Given under my hand this 2d day of December, 1773. JOHN POLEN.

A LARGE well built brick-house in Dock-Street, in which Mr. Samuel Farmer now lives, three stories and a half high, with a large brick building adjoining, and a lot of ground to the same belonging. Also, to be sold, two smaller houses with the lots of ground to the same belonging, adjoining the above lot in Dock-Street in the rear. The house in Dock-Street is as good a stand for either a private gentleman, or a man of business as most in the city, being nearly opposite to the Coenties-Market (but at the same time so far removed from it as not to be incommoded by it) in the neighbourhood of a principal trading part of the city. The lot upon which the above houses are built, is an excellent lot, extending from Dock-Street, throughout to Bayard-Street, and contains in breadth in front to Dock-Street, about twenty-four feet, and containing that breadth the length of the house, it then widens, and contains in breadth to Bayard-Street, thirty-seven feet, including a gang-way leading into Bayard-Street. They will be sold either separately or together. The title is as good as any in the city, and the terms of payment will be made very easy to the purchasers, as no cash will be required, provided such bonds can be given as will be approved of. For further particulars apply to Messrs. Philip and John Van Horne, at Raritan in New-Jersey, or to the subscriber in New-York.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 27. | This Morning, at 10 o'Clock, agreeable to printed Notifications and the ringing of Bells, the Inhabitants of this City assembled at the State-House, to consult on suitable Steps to be pursued respecting the chartered Ship, Captain Ayres, arrived at Gloucester Point Yesterday, with the East-India Company's Tea, and we learn that the Result of the Meeting was, that no Report should be made at the Custom-House, that the Ship should this Day proceed to Reedy-Island, about 60 Miles from hence, and that the Captain should depart To-Morrow to go on board, and proceed instantly to London; which Requisition he, with great Politeness and Cheerfulness, readily consented to.

The glorious Opposition to the Measures formed by the British Ministry to enslave this happy Country, is now universal throughout the Continent; and it is with a singular Pleasure we perceive that the Inhabitants of Charlestown, South Carolina, have determined immediately to send back the ship London, Capt. Curling, with Two Hundred and Fifty-seven Chests of the East-India Company's Tea, imported there the beginning of this Month, the Consignees having refused to accept the Commission. Thus will those Vultures on the other Side the Atlantic find their last artful Scheme totally defeated: and from the noble Spirit and inextinguishable Ardor that glows through all the Colonies, 'tis presumed the Ministry will drop any further Attempts to extort Money from us without our Consent, as such infamous and detestable Artifices, Chicanery and Collusion, will never obtain among the genuine Sons of Liberty in America. —The Pennsylvania Chronicle, and Universal Advertiser, No. 363, December 27, 1773.

TO HIS EXCELLENCY

WILLIAM FRANKLIN, Esq;

Captain-General, Governor and Commander in Chief in and over the Province of New-Jersey, and Territories thereon depending in America, Chancellor and Vice Admiral in the same, &c.

The humble ADDRESS of his MAJESTY'S COUNCIL for the said Province.

May it please your Excellency,

WE his Majesty's most dutiful and loyal Subjects, the Council of the Province of New-Jersey, beg Leave to return our Thanks for your Excellency's Speech at the Opening of this Session, in which we discern such Sentiments of Zeal for the Honour and real Welfare of the Province, as justly call for our warmest Acknowledgements and Approbation.

The mischievous Consequences resulting to the Public, from the Frequency of the Crime of counterfeiting the current Money of this and the neighbouring Colonies, became of late so truly alarming, that we must consider it a very fortunate Event that some of the Perpetrators of that Crime have been apprehended, and brought to Justice in this Province. The Advantages to the Public from the Prosecution of those Offenders will, we hope, be greatly augmented by the Discovery of the Robbery of the Eastern Treasury, which the Confession of some of those Criminals, confirmed by so many corroborating Circumstances since brought to View, seem fully to evince; and we earnestly hope that the Measures taken by Government to attain the Justice due to the Public, for the Perpetration of such daring Crimes, may at length be crowned with that Success, which may reasonably be expected from Endeavours so laudably exerted for that Purpose.

We heartily concur with your Excellency, that the Thanks and grateful Acknowledgements of the Public are due to those Majestrates, and others, whose Zeal, in the Cause of public Justice, exerted in the several Prosecutions alluded to in your Speech, reflect the highest Honour upon themselves, and must be productive of very beneficial Consequences to the Public. We have so high a Sense of the Merit and Services of those Gentlemen, that we think them entitled to more substantial Marks of the Favour of Government than mere Thanks and Commendations; as it must ever be consistent with sound Policy, and with the Principles of good Government, to encourage, by every persuasive Incitement, Zeal to maintain, and Resolution to enforce those Laws, upon the due Execution of which, secret Villanies, and open Violences, may be detected and brought to Justice.

We trust, Sir, that a Disposition for Harmony and Moderation, so essential to the regular Dispatch of public Business, and which this House would ever wish to convince your Excellency they are actuated by, will be evident in their Transactions of this Session; and be perfectly consistent with the Duty we owe to our Sovereign, to the public, and to our own Station.

Council-Chamber,

By Order of the House,

Dec. 10, 1773.

PETER KEMBLE, Speaker.

To which his EXCELLENCY was pleased to make the following REPLY:

GENTLEMEN,

I RETURN you my hearty Thanks for this obliging Address. The Experience I have had of your Attention to the public Good, convinces me, that I may always rely on your Assistance in promoting the Reputation and Prosperity of the Province; and it ever affords me Pleasure, to find my Opinion in public Matters concurring with your Sentiments, and my public Conduct meeting with your Approbation.

A PROCLAMATION.

WHEREAS, His Majesty, by his order in council at St. James's, bearing date the first day of September last, hath been graciously pleased, with the advice of his Privy Council, to declare his royal approbation and allowance of an Act of the Legislature of this province, passed in September 1772, intituled

"An Act to enable all persons who are His Majesty's
"liege subjects, either by birth or naturalization to in-
"herit and hold real estates notwithstanding any defect
"of purchases made before naturalization within this
"colony."

AND WHEREAS His Majesty, by one other order in council at St. James's, bearing date the said first day of September last, hath been pleased, with the advice of his Privy Council, to declare his royal disallowance of three other Acts of the Legislature of this province, passed in August and September 1772, intituled as follows,—viz.

1. "An Act for the relief of Benjamin Ayars now
"a prisoner in the goal of the county of Cumberland."
2. "An Act to naturalize John George Felthausen."

GIVEN under my Hand and Seal at Arms, in the city of Burlington, the third day of December, in the fourteenth year of the reign of our sovereign Lord GEORGE the third, of Great-Britain, France and Ireland, King, Defender of the Faith &c. Anno Domini 1773.

PHILADELPHIA, DECEMBER 28. | At a Court of Oyer and Terminer held at Easton, before the honourable John Lawrence, and Thomas Willing Esqr's. for the county of Northampton, the 17th inst. Alexander Buchanan was convicted of burglary, and received sentence of death: And the next day Thomas Wilson was convicted of murder, for shooting William Hewit through the body with a bullet and three swan shot, the 29th of October, 1768. After he had committed this horrid murder he robbed the deceased of his hat and 4l. 17s. 6d. in money, which Wilson saw him receive the night before; he then made his escape, and remained undiscovered until about three months ago, having committed a felony in Sussex county, New-Jersey; he was discovered while at the barr there, by a person who had seen him at Hewit's a few days before the murder, and who had heard that Wilson was the person suspected.

On his trial this murder was clearly proved upon him, and he received the sentence of death.—The Pennsylvania Journal, and The Weekly Advertiser, No. 1621, December 29, 1773.

PHILADELPHIA. | MONDAY, December 27, 1773. |

THE unanimity, spirit and zeal, which have heretofore animated all the colonies, from Boston to South-Carolina have been so eminently displayed in the opposition to the pernicious project of the East India Company, in sending Tea to America, while it remains subject to a Duty, and the Americans at the same time confined by the strongest prohibitory laws to import it only from Great Britain, that a particular account of the transactions of this city, cannot but be acceptable to all our readers, and every other friend of American liberty.

Upon the first advice of this measure, a general dissatisfaction was expressed, that, at a time when we were struggling with this oppressive Act, and an agreement subsisting not to import Tea while subject to the Duty, our fellow subjects in England should form a measure so directly tending to enforce the Act and again embroil us with our parent state. When it was also considered, that the proposed mode of disposing of the Tea tended to a monopoly, ever odious in a free country, a universal disapprobation shewed itself throughout the city. A public Meeting of the inhabitants was held at the State House on the 18th of October, at which great numbers attended and the sense of the city was expressed in the following resolves.—

1. That the disposal of their own property is the inherent right of freemen; that there can be no property in that which another can, of right, take from us without our consent; that the claim of Parliament to tax America is, in other words a claim of right to levy contributions on us at pleasure.

2. That the duty imposed by Parliament upon tea landed in America, is a tax on the Americans, or levying contributions on them without their consent.

3. That the express purpose for which the tax is levied on the Americans, namely for the support of government, administration of justice, and defence of his Majesty's dominions in America, has a direct tendency to render Assemblies useless, and to introduce arbitrary government and slavery.

4. That a virtuous and steady opposition to this ministerial plan of governing America, is absolutely necessary to preserve even the shadow of liberty, and is a duty which every freeman in America owes to his country, to himself and to his posterity.

5. That the resolution lately entered into by the East India Company to send out their Tea to America, subject to the payment of duties on its being landed here, is an open attempt to enforce this ministerial plan, and a violent attack upon the liberties of America.

6. That it is the duty of every American to oppose this attempt.

7. That whoever shall, directly or indirectly, countenance this attempt, or in any wise aid or abet in unloading, receiving or vending the Tea sent, or to be sent out by the East India Company, while it remains subject to the payment of a duty here, is an enemy to his country.

8. That a Committee be immediately chosen to wait on those gentlemen, who, it is reported, are appointed by the East-India Company to receive and sell said Tea, and request them, from a regard to their own character, and the peace and good order of the city and province, immediately to resign their appointment.

In consequence of this appointment the Committee waited upon the Gentlemen in this city, who had been appointed Consignees of the expected cargo. They represented to them the detestation and abhorrence, in which this measure was held by their fellow Citizens, the danger and difficulties, which must attend the execution of so odious a trust, and expressed the united desire of the City, that they would renounce the commission, and engage not to intermeddle with the ship or cargo in any shape whatever.—Some of the Commissioners resigned, in a manner that gave general satisfaction, others in such equivocal terms as required farther explanation: However in a few days the resignation was complete.—In this situation things remained for a few days. In the meantime, the general spirit and indignation rose to such a height, that it was thought proper to call another general Meeting of the principal Citizens, to consider and resolve upon such farther steps as might give weight, and ensure success to the unanimous opposition now formed. Accordingly a Meeting was held, for the above purpose, at which a great number of respectable Inhabitants attended; and it appeared to be the unanimous opinion, that the entry of the Ship at the Custom-House, or the landing any part of her cargo, would be attended with great danger and difficulty, and would directly tend to destroy that peace and good order, which ought to be preserved.—An addition of twelve other Gentlemen was then made to the former Committee, and the general Meeting adjourned till the arrival of the Tea Ship.—Information being given of that, the Price of Tea was suddenly advanced, though this was owing to a General Scarcity of that Article; yet all the Possessors of Tea, in order to give strength to the opposition, readily agreed to reduce the price, and sell what remained in their hands at a reasonable rate. Nothing now remained, but to keep up a proper correspondence and connection with the other Colonies, and to take all prudent and proper precautions on the arrival of the Tea Ship.

It is not easy to describe the anxiety and suspence of the City in this interval. Sundry reports of her arrival were received, which proved premature. But on Saturday evening last, an express came up from Chester, to inform the Town, that the Tea Ship, commanded by Capt. Ayres, with her detested Cargo, was arrived there, having followed another ship up the river so far.

The Committee met early the next morning, and being apprized of the arrival of Mr. Gilbert Barclay, the other Consignee, who came passenger in the ship, they immediately went in a body to request his renunciation of the commission. Mr. Barclay politely attended the Committee, at the first request; and being made acquainted with the sentiments of the city, and the danger to which the public liberties of America were exposed by this measure, he, after expressing the particular hardship of his situation, also resigned his commission, in a manner which affected every one present.

The Committee then appointed three of their members to go to Chester, and two others to Gloucester Point, in order to have the earliest opportunity of meeting Capt. Ayres, and representing to him the sense of the Public, respecting his voyage and cargo. The Gentlemen, who had set out for Chester, receiving intelligence that the vessel had weighed anchor about 12 o'clock, and proceeded to town, returned. About two o'clock she appeared in sight at Gloucester Point, where a number of Inhabitants from the town had assembled with the Gentlemen from the Committee. As she passed along, she was hailed, and the Captain requested not to proceed farther, but to come on shore. This the Captain complied with, and was handed thro' a lane made by the People, to the Gentlemen appointed to confer with him. They represented to him the general sentiments, together with the danger and difficulties that would attend his refusal to comply with the wishes of the Inhabitants; and finally desired him to proceed with them to town, where he would be more fully informed of the temper and resolution of the People. He was accordingly accompanied to town, by a number of persons, where he was soon convinced of the truth and propriety of the representations, which had been made to him—and agreed that upon the desire of the Inhabitants being publicly expressed, he would conduct himself accordingly.—Some small rudeness being offered to the Captain afterwards in the street, by some boys, several Gentlemen interposed, and suppressed it before he received the least injury. Upon an hour's notice this morning, a public meeting was called, and the State-House not being sufficient to hold the numbers assembled, they adjourned into the Square. This meeting is allowed by all to be the most respectable, both in the numbers and rank of those who attended it, that has been known in this city. After a short introduction, the following resolutions were not only agreed to, but the public approbation testified in the warmest manner.

1. RESOLVED. That the TEA, on board the ship Polly, Capt. Ayres, shall not be landed.

2. That Capt. Ayres shall neither enter nor report his vessel at the Custom-House.

3. That Capt. Ayres shall carry back the Tea immediately.

4. That Capt. Ayres shall immediately send a Pilot on board his vessel, with orders to take charge of her, and proceed to Reedy-Island next high water.

5. That the Captain shall be allowed to stay in town till to-morrow, to provide necessaries for his voyage.

6. That he shall then be obliged to leave the town and proceed to his vessel, and make the best of his way out of our river and bay.

7. That a Committee of four Gentlemen be appointed to see these Resolves carried into execution.

The assembly were then informed of the spirit and resolution of New-York, Charles-Town, South-Carolina, and the conduct of the people of Boston, whereupon it was unanimously resolved,

That this assembly highly approve of the conduct and spirit of the people of New-York, Charles-Town, and Boston, and return their hearty thanks to the people of Boston for their resolution in destroying the Tea rather than suffering it to be landed.

The whole business was conducted with decorum and order worthy the importance of the cause. Capt. Ayres being present at this meeting, solemnly and publicly engaged, that he would literally comply with the sense of the city, as expressed in the above resolutions.

A proper supply of necessaries and fresh provisions being then procured, in about two hours the Tea-Ship weighed anchor from Gloucester Point, where she lay within sight of the town, and has proceeded, with her whole cargo, on her return to the East-India Company.

The Public think the conduct of those Gentlemen, whose goods are returned on board the Tea-Ship, ought not to pass unnoticed, as they have, upon this occasion, generously sacrificed their private interest to the public good.

Thus this important affair in which there has been so glorious an exertion of Public Virtue and Spirit, has been brought to a happy issue; by which the force of a law so obstinately persisted in to the prejudice of the national Commerce, for the sake of the principle on which it is founded (a right of taxing the Americans without their consent,) has been effectually broken—and the foundations of American Liberty more deeply laid than ever.—The Pennsylvania Gazette, No. 2349, December 29, 1773.

WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 28.

The ground, which was covered by the people, on Monday last, in the State-House Square, being measured, it was calculated, by two different persons, unknown to each other, that there was near 8000 people collected there; and many hundreds, who were on the way, were disappointed reaching the place of meeting, before the business was over, owing to the short notice that was given.

Yesterday at three quarters of an hour after two o'clock, Capt. Ayres, of the TEA-SHIP Polly, with Mr. Barclay, late one of the Consignees, left Arch-street wharf, on board a pilot boat, (having been 46 hours in town,) to follow the ship to Reedy-Island, and from thence transport the East-India Company's Adventure to its OLD ROTTING PLACE, in Leading-Hall-street, London.. He was attended to the wharf by a concourse of people who wished him a good voyage.

The PUBLIC return their acknowledgements to the PILOTS, and EVERY CLASS of MEN, who have shewn such Virtue and Resolution on the present Occasion.—The Pennsylvania Journal, and The Weekly Advertiser, No. 1621, December 29, 1773.

A PROCLAMATION.

WHEREAS his Majesty, by his order in Council at St. James's, bearing date the first day of September last, hath been graciously pleased, with the advice of his Privy Council, to declare his royal approbation and allowance of an act of the Legislature of this province, passed in September 1772, intituled

“liege subjects, either by birth or naturalization, to in“herit and hold real estates notwithstanding any defect
“of purchases made before naturalization within this “colony.”

AND WHEREAS his Majesty, by one or other order in council at St. James's, bearing date the said first day of September last, hath been pleased, with the advice of his Privy Council, to declare his royal disallowance of three other acts of the Legislature of this province, passed in August and September 1772, intituled as follows,—viz.

1. "An act for the relief of Benjamin Ayars now a "prisoner in the gaol of the county of Cumberland."
2. "An act to naturalize John George Felthausen."
3. "An act to dissolve the marriage of David Baxter "with Margaret his wife, late Margaret M'Murtry."

I HAVE THEREFORE thought fit, by and with the advice and consent of his Majesty's Council for this province, to publish his Majesty's gracious allowance and affirmance of the act first above-mentioned, and his Majesty's royal disallowance and repeal of the said three mentioned acts, by proclamation, to the end that all his Majesty's subjects, whom it may concern, may take notice thereof, and govern themselves accordingly.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 3. | At the court of Oyer and Terminer held at Easton, before the Honourable John Lawrence, and Thomas Willing, Esqrs. for the county of Northampton, the 17th inst. Alexander Buchanan was convicted of burglary, and received sentence of death: And the next day Thomas Wilson was convicted of murder, for shooting William Hewit through the body with a bullet and three swan shot, the 29th of October, 1768. After he had committed this horrid murder, he robbed the deceased of his hat and 4l. 17s. 6d. in money, which Wilson saw him receive the night before; he then made his escape, and remained undiscovered until about three months ago, having committed a felony in Sussex county, New-Jersey; he was discovered while at the bar there, by a person who had seen him at Hewit's a few days before the murder, and who had heard that Wilson was the person suspected. On his trial this murder was clearly proved upon him, and he received sentence of death.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 3. The Unanimity, Spirit and Zeal, which have heretofore animated all the Colonies from Boston to South-Carolina, have been so eminently displayed, in the Opposition to the pernicious Project of the East-India Company, in sending Tea to America, while it remains subject to Duty, and the Americans at the same Time confined, by the strongest prohibitory Laws, to import it only from Great-Britain, that a particular Account of the Transactions of this City cannot but be acceptable to all our Readers, and every other Friend of American Liberty.

Upon the first Advice of this Measure, a general Dis-satisfaction was expressed, that at a Time when we were struggling with this oppressive Act, and an Agreement subsisting not to import Tea while subject to the Duty, our Fellow-Subjects in England Should form a Measure so directly tending to enforce the Act, and again embroil us with our Parent State. When it was also considered, that the proposed Mode of disposing of the Tea tended to a Monopoly, ever odious in a free Country, a universal Disapprobation shewed itself throughout the City. A public Meeting of the Inhabitants was held at the State-House, on the 18th of October, at which great Numbers attended, and the Sense of the City was expressed in the following Resolves. . . .

It is not easy to describe the Anxiety and Suspence of the City in this Interval. Sundry Reports of her Arrival were received, which proved premature. But on Saturday Evening last, an Express came up from Chester, to inform the Town, that the Tea-Ship, commanded by Captain Ayres, with her detested Cargo, was arrived there, having followed another Ship up the River so far.

The Committee then appointed three of their Members to go to Chester, and three others to Gloucester Point, in order to have the earliest Opportunity of meeting Captain Ayres, and representing to him the Sense of the Public, respecting his Voyage and Cargo. The Gentlemen who had set out for Chester, receiving Intelligence that the Vessel had weighed Anchor about 12 o'Clock, and proceeded to Town, returned. About two o'Clock she appeared in Sight of Gloucester Point, where a Number of Inhabitants from the Town had assembled with the Gentlemen from the Committee. As she passed along, she was hailed, and the Captain requested not to proceed any farther, but to come on Shore. This the Captain complied with, and was handed through a Lane, made by the People, to the Gentlemen appointed to confer with him. They represented to him the general Sentiments, together with the Dangers and Difficulties, that would attend his Refusal to comply with the Wishes of the Inhabitants; and finally, desired him to proceed with them to Town, where he would be more fully informed of the Temper and Resolution of the People. He was accordingly accompanied to Town by a Number of Persons, where he was soon convinced of the Truth and Propriety of the Representations, which had been made to him . . . and agreed that, upon the Desire of the Inhabitants being publicly expressed, he would conduct himself accordingly. . . . Some small Rudeness being offered to the Captain afterwards in the Street by some Boys, several Gentlemen interposed, and suppressed it before he received the least Injury. Upon an Hour's Notice this Morning, a Public Meeting was called, and the State-House not being sufficient to hold the Numbers assembled they adjourned into the Square. . . .

. . . Captain Ayres being present at this Meeting, solemnly and publicly engaged, that he would literally comply with the Sense of the City, as expressed in the above Resolution.

Proper Supply of Necessaries and fresh Provisions being then procured, in about two Hours the Tea-Ship weighed Anchor from Gloucester Point, where she lay, within Sight of the Town, and has proceeded with her whole Cargo on her Return to the East-India Company.

THANKSGIVING,

JOHN GUILJAM KALS,

MINISTER of the GOSPEL,

GIVES his humble and hearty Thanks to all GENTLEMEN and LADIES in Maryland, Virginia and Pennsylvania, who have assisted him in propagating the Gospel among the English and Germans, among whom he found a great Number who were worse than INDIANS and NEGROES; for they show more Devotion when they see and hear that one goes to Prayer, than the former, for Prayers are almost every where mocked and laughed at, by a great Number of false named Christians. He promised to all his Friends that he shall continue in his Prayers for them, that they may be rewarded after the Promises done by our LORD JESUS CHRIST, Matt. x. 41, 42.

He gives also Notice at their Desire, that he

By what way he came to Philadelphia is too tedious to mention. He hopes to have an Opportunity to make that appear, as he comes where the Press is more free for faithful Ministers; for tho' he has learned of PERIANDER, to conceal his Misfortunes that his enemies may not make them Pleasure, and rejoice at his Ruin, yet he rejoices thereby, as he knows that he suffereth as a Christian, I Pet. iv. 16, &c. Matt. v. 11. Being now here, he offered his Service for teaching Boys and Gentlemen, as in former Time, and on former Terms, all Sorts of Languages, Arts and Sciences, quick and sure: Would to GOD that Gentlemen who have given him witness, that he was accounted to be the only Man they knew, fit to teach HEBREW and DIVINITY, saying thereby, that PHILADELPHIA and NEW JERSEY, they should be accountable to have not made application of him, would consider to have written their own Sentence, when they applied short thereon at NEWARK, one who was at that very Time a Scholar of Mr. KALS. And when Gentlemen may apply a Country-born young Man to a Latin School of twelve Boys, paying for each Boy £10 per annum, he pretended to ask them £25; for he can produce Instances that he is able, a Boy of ten and above Years, when he hath good Parts and Humours, to make able in Three Years Time to speak good Latin, and to explain any CLASSIC AUTHOR. A Gentleman of Age Two and Twenty or more Years can, with one Hour daily applying to a dilligent Attendance, arrive sooner to that Capacity, in a private Institution, either in his or in the Lodging of Mr. KALS,¹ which is at the Golden Swan, on Third street.—The Pennsylvania Chronicle, and Universal Advertiser, No. 364, January 3, 1774.

for the county of Morris, notice is hereby given to the respective creditors of Ephraim Watkins, an insolvent debtor, that they be and appear before Samuel Tuthill and Jacob Ford, Esqrs, two of the judges of said court, at the Court-house in Morris Town, on Wednesday the 26th day of January inst. at two of the clock in the afternoon, to shew cause, (if any they have) why the said Ephraim Watkins should not be discharged from his imprisonment, and have the benefit of a late act of assembly, entitled, "An act for the relief of insolvent debtors."

TO HIS EXCELLENCY

WILLIAM FRANKLIN, Esq;

Captain General, Governor and Commander in Chief | in and over the Province of New-Jersey, and Ter- | ritories thereon depending in America, Chancellor | and Vice-Admiral in the same, &c.

The humble ADDRESS of his MAJESTY'S | COUNCIL, for the said Province. May it please your Excellency,

WE his Majesty's most dutiful and loyal subjects, the Council of the province of New-Jersey, beg leave to return our thanks for your Excellency's speech at the opening of this session, in which we discern such sentiments of zeal for the honour and real welfare of the province as justly call for our warmest acknowledgements and approbation.

The mischievous consequences, resulting to the publick from the frequency of the crime of counterfeiting the current money of this and the neighboring colonies, became of late so truly alarming, that we must consider it a very fortunate event that some of the perpetrators of that crime have been apprehended and brought to justice in this province.
The advantages to the publick from the prosecution of those offenders will, we hope, be greatly augmented by the discovery of the robbery of the Eastern Treasury, which the confession of some of those criminals, confirmed by so many corroborating circumstances since brought to view, seem fully to evince; and we earnestly hope that the measures taken by government to attain the justice due to the publick for the perpetration of such daring crimes, may at length, be crowned with that success which may reasonably be expected from endeavors so laudably exerted for that purpose.

We heartily concur with your Excellency, that the thanks and grateful acknowledgements of the publick, are due to those Magistrates and others, whose zeal in the cause of publick justice, exerted in the several prosecutions alluded to in your speech, reflect the highest honour upon themselves, and must be productive of very beneficial consequences to the publick. We have so high a sense of the merit and services of those Gentlemen, that we think them entitled to more substantial marks of the favour of government than mere thanks and commendations; as it must ever be consistent with sound policy, and with the principles of good government to encourage, by every persuasive incitement, zeal to maintain, and resolution to enforce those laws, upon the due execution of which, secret villanies and open violences may be detected and brought to justice.

We trust, Sir, that a disposition for harmony and moderation, so essential to the regular dispatch of publick business, and which this House would ever wish to convince your Excellency they are actuated by, will be evident in their transactions of this session; and be perfectly consistent with the duty we owe to our sovereign, to the publick, and to our own station.

Council-Chamber,
Dec. 10, 1773.

By Order of the House,
PETER KEMBLE, Speaker.

To which his EXCELLENCY was pleased to make the following reply:

"Gentlemen,

"I RETURN you my hearty thanks for this obliging
"Address.

"The experience I have had of your attention to the "publick good, convinces me that I may always rely on "your assistance in promoting the reputation and pros"perity of the province; and it ever affords me pleasure "to find my opinion in publick matters concurring with "your sentiments, and my publick conduct meeting with "your approbation."

To be SOLD by PUBLIC VENDUE, to | the highest bidder, on Monday, the 10th of January inst.

THE Grist-mill, Saw-mill, and Plantation, late the property of John Bainbridge, situate upon Rocky Brook, in the township of Windsor, county of Middlesex, and province of New-Jersey. The plantation contains about 56 acres of excellent land, on which are erected, besides the mills, two good frame dwelling-houses, a blacksmith's shop, store-houses, &c. The grist-mill is in good order, has two pair of stones, one of them French burr, and stands upon as fine a stream as any in the province; for, in the driest season, it was never known to fail; and being in the heart of a fine wheat country, it has every advantage for carrying on the business extensively. The saw-mill is likewise in good order. This stand is also one of the best in the province for a store, one having been kept there for many years past; and as it lies about midway between Philadelphia and New-York, the communication to both these places (the stages from Burlington and Bordentown going twice a week) renders the transportation of goods to and from either of them extremely convenient, and at a small expence. The purchaser, upon paying down one-third of the purchase-money, may have a reasonable time for payment of the remainder, with interest, giving security, if required. The sale to begin at 12 o'clock at noon, on the premises, where the subscribers propose to attend, and will give a good title to the purchaser, and immediate possession.

THE TAVERN, called the Three Hearts, situate in Newark, in New-Castle county.¹ The business of tavern-keeping has long been carried on at this place, with particular success, by reason of the situation being on the great road, leading from Susquehanna and Lancaster, to New-Castle, Wilmington, Philadelphia, &c. between 12 and 5 miles distant from New-Castle, Wilmington, Christiana Bridge, Newport and the Head of Elk; and also on account of the great number of travellers that pass that way, and four annual public meetings held there. The house is a large two story brick house, convenient for the business, to which belongs 20 acres of improved meadow, with proper stables, situate on the opposite side of the street, a good garden and an orchard. There will be sold with it 37 acres of woodland, situate above the town, to supply the tavern with wood, which land will make good meadow. Morris-County, Jan. 15, 1774.

SIR,

AS I have a just sense of the great obligations my injured husband lies under to you, for the unmerited favour you have conferred on him, I cannot but think myself under an indispensable necessity of offering to you, in his absence, that tribute of gratitude, which ever flows from a susceptible mind; and although I am convinced that the reflection of your having lightened the load of ills, with which one of the unhappy sons of adversity has been unjustly depressed, affords you that heartfelt satisfaction which no other consideration could possibly give; yet, Sir, my duty requires it, the good of my country calls on me, to hold you up to the world as one of its most shining ornaments, and an example that many will gaze on, and few attempt in vain to imitate.

I am at a loss whether most to admire the goodness of your heart, in undertaking the defence of my absconding husband, charged with the robbery of the Treasury of New-Jersey, unsolicited, or the great knowledge, unparalleled wisdom, profound judgment, and astonishing elocution, that are so very conspicuous in every part of it; as a senator amazingly wise, and a lawyer beyond all bounds of credibility persuasive. The credulous will scarce be made to believe, that thine was the laborious and arduous task to convince a majority of thirty of the most learned senators of the age, that facts which had the sanctity of oaths, added to the solemnity of their being declared and confirmed with the last breath of one of the deponents, to support them, and other concurring circumstances that rendered them uncontrovertable, so much so, that two branches of the legislature and the whole country where they were known, declared their full assent to, and belief in them; and that you so far succeeded, as to induce twenty-one of them to acknowledge their conviction, and to deny even the existence of these facts.

Other patriots and great senators may boast of their noble exploits, for the service of their country, but thou alone art the man, who can sacrifice his most intimate friend, who can willingly resign all right and pretension to the society, and intercourse of his acquaintance and companions, who can trample under feet, cast into disrepute, and strip of all dignity and authority, GOVERNORS, COURTS OF JUSTICE, AND MAGISTRATES; and all this for a person with whose character (I believe) you are only acquainted: Oh! unbounded goodness; here is friendship without interest, who can survey thy conduct! O thou more than good man! and not cordially join their earnest endeavours, with mine, in suppressing that most wicked report which malice and envy could only propagate, to wit, "That upon the removal of the "present Treasurer, you have engaged your interest to obtain the office for one of your own relations"; but let not this damp your pious zeal; go on great Sir, in the good work you have undertaken, and you will soon be exalted, beyond even the reach of calumny.

One favour more added to these already conferred, will eternally unite one to you in the strongest bands of love and esteem; this is the acquitting my injured husband also from the charge of counterfeiting the paper currencies. Was I not conscious to myself that the task will be less difficult than the one you have already so gloriously succeeded in, that the facts and testimony you will have to encounter are less stubborn and positive, and that the exertion of the same INFLUENCE AND POWER will be abundantly sufficient to ensure success, I would not presume to ask it. If you should think this request importunate and unreasonable, forgive me, and let a woman's weakness plead my excuse; but suffer me to urge, as an incentive,—that you will herein have an opportunity of convincing the world of the falsity of the above report, that your actions spring from a pure fountain, and that they are merely the benign effusions of a generous heart.

I cannot in justice to you, conclude this letter without declaring that I neither by myself, or through any other person whatever, have retained you, or promised you any reward for your services.

I am,

Your sincere friend,

G——E F——D.¹

TO BE LET OR SOLD,

A VALUABLE PLANTATION, containing near 600 acres, lying on Ancocus River, about 5 miles from the mouth, or where it empties itself into the Delaware, 5 miles from Burlington and Mount-Holly, and about 15 miles by land and 17 by water from Philadelphia, to which place many of the farmers in the neighborhood go every week to Market. It formerly consisted of two large and one small farms, and might easily be divided again in the same manner, there being on it two good farm houses, and two small tenements: One of the farm houses stands on a fine healthy spot, has been lately enlarged, new roofed, and put into thorough repair. There is near to it an exceeding good dairy, stables, barn, stalls and sheds for cattle; an orchard, garden, fish pond, some valuable fruit trees, and every conveniency that can be wanted on a farm. It would make altogether an exceeding good grazing farm, there being, besides a large range for young cattle, several fields of upland meadow, and about 30 acres of banked meadow, which yield a considerable quantity of good hay. This meadow has a double bank round it, so that the inward one is secured from being hurt by freshes and storms. The whole is in good fence, and divided into proper fields, having upwards of 20,000 cedar rails in the different fences. It would make an elegant COUNTRY SEAT for a Gentleman who chooses retirement, having a fine situation for a mansion-house, with a PARK containing about 175 acres, in which there are between 30 and 40 deer. There are several pleasant shady walks, particularly in a young grove of pines, where many more might be easily made at a small expence. A valuable breed of cattle, sheep, hogs, goats and poultry, oxen and horses used to the plow, household furniture and implements of husbandry, may be had with the place. On the river side is a wharf or landing place, to which vessels of considerable burthen might come, and where formerly a large ship was built. This, it is thought, would be a good situation for a Country Store, and that near it there might be a good Fishery for Shad in the season. Great part of the farm formerly belonged to the late Honourable John Smith, Esq; one of his Majesty's Council for New-Jersey, and the whole now belongs to his Excellency Governor Franklin, who being about to remove to Amboy, has impowered me the subscriber to either let or sell it. The title is indisputable, and time will be given, if required, for part of the purchase money. For terms apply to

The Heart, that bleeds for others Woes, Shall feel each selfish Sorrow less;
His Breast, who Happiness bestows, Reflected Happiness shall bless.

ARMINE and ELVIRA.

NOTHING has exposed Man to the Ridicule of his Fellow-men, or lessens his Character and Usefulness more, than a partial Conduct, which confines itself to the narrow Circle of Self-love. Hence Avarice shuts up the Heart of the Miser, and renders the Wealth which, properly imparted, might bless Thousands, less beneficial than whilst it lay buried in the Mine; because it stupifies the Mind of the Possessor, which might otherwise expand in the Exercise of Industry, even in Quest of the unrefined Metal; hence also it is, that some of us look no further than our own Profit, the Care and Plenty of our Family, the Freedom and Good of our Kindred, or, in a larger sense, of our own Fellow-Subjects, Colour or Nation: The last of these Pursuits appears large and liberal; yet there is still a more enlarged and philanthrop Love, which warms the Breast, and leads us to consider Mankind as one Family, however distinguished by Name, Colour or Situation, for we are Children of one common Father, who is in Heaven, "and he causes his Sun to shine on all"; he it is that commands, "love thy Neighbour as thyself," and has taught us, by the beautiful Parable of the good Samaritan, that he is truly a Neighbour, who sheweth Kindness: This is Christian Love; and on all Occasions strives, yea seeks Occasions to imitate its divine Original, who dispenses Benefits to the Evil and the Good, yet covets from none; in short, this truly refined Love "breathes Peace on Earth and Good-will to Men," and the more perfect we grow in it, the better we are enabled to fulfil the Golden Precept, "do to others, as thou would they should do unto thee." Thus our Breasts glow towards every Creature, and in the just Sense of the celebrated Pope, "self and social here becomes the same."

I am led into this Train of Thought, on viewing the hard Lot of the poor tawny Africans, whom we have been so unhappy as to deprive and restrain of that Liberty, which they once enjoyed under the Gift of Providence. Liberty! which we boast as the Excellency of our Constitution. I have somewhere met with the Observation that Bodies Politic, like natural Bodies, carry about them the Seeds of Disorder and Death, and therefore have as great Need of Medicine and a due Regimen to prolong their Existence, and render it easy and happy whilst it continues. I wish we may in Time practice this physical Prudence, lest Slavery should prove to be one of those Evils, that may convulse the Constitution, both civil and religious, and endanger its Happiness, if not its total Destruction.—Let us not think that, because the Disorder is yet slight, the Number of Slaves among us being comparatively but few, it is not worth much Attention, especially as a Manumission of those in Possession, who may be fit for it, and an Abolition of the Trade, would rob us of a Profit, by depriving us of their unpurchased Labours, which enrich us with the Gain of Oppression. The more slight a Poison is at first, if its Influence is increasing, the more we ought to be alarmed, since the destructive Effects are more insinuating and certain, in Proportion as they are unnoticed. Violent Attacks rouse us to a virtuous Opposition, whilst little Evils scarce awaken us. The Eagle, which soared above despised the grovelling Hog as below his Notice, until she found that, by little and little, this despicable Adversary was able to root up the lofty Oak, which contained her Young, and thereby made them an easy Prey.

When we consider that, thirty Years past, this poor oppressed Part of the Creation had very few Advocates (the despised Benjamin Lay being one of the foremost) and now turn our Eyes to the Number of respectable Characters, earnestly engaged in their Redemption, and read the many well wrote Pieces, which have investigated their Right to Liberty, and explored a just Foundation for it, can we hesitate to pronounce, "the Hand of Providence appears evidently on their Side." Let every one therefore be careful how they oppose his Work, for it certainly will go forward against all Opposition, and those who, from mistaken Interest, or ill-judged Policy, shall act contrary to sober Conviction, or the Light of Knowledge, will certainly experience that it is "hard to kick against the Pricks," and must gnaw a File, that will cut their Teeth.

It was with Pleasure I was lately informed, that the several Branches of the Legislature of New-Jersey were favourably disposed to the Rights of Mankind in this Instance, and that a Bill had actually originated with the Assembly, in order to establish a Plan for changing Slavery into Freedom, upon Principles of general Good; an Object truly worthy of the foremost Rank of Men, and of the Attention of Government, and will I hope be blessed in their Hands; for surely there is a Reward for those, who willingly "open their Mouth, judge righteously, and plead the Cause of the Poor and Needy."

The Dispensations of Providence are inscrutable. Why he has permitted us to lord it over Negroes is beyond my Comprehension; but let us not suppose it a Mark of his Displeasure or Vengeance against that Race of Men, nor forget that the Israelites, his peculiar People, were once in Bondage. They were not only told, that "the Lord regardeth not Persons nor taketh Reward, that he loveth the Stranger in giving him Food and Raiment," but are admonished, "to love the Stranger, for ye were Strangers in the Land of Egypt." From this State of Slavery, the Almighty delivered them in a marvelous Manner, which Consideration ought to soften our Hearts to those, who are in Bondage to us: And though some of us may perty

answer, the Slavery we uphold is very different from the Egyptian; we require not Bricks without Straw, as they did; yet these should consider, that whilst Slavery is supported by the Humane and Worthy amongst us, the Worst are strengthened in their Rights, and though the former will commit no atrocious Act of Violence to a defenceless Negroe, the latter can with Impunity practice great Cruelty, under the Sanction of Laws upheld by the former. Hence the Humane and Good know not the Mischief they do to Justice, by continuing in the Light of Supporters of Slavery.

I shall close this little Offering at the Shrine of Liberty with a mention of the Words of our Saviour, where he gives a Description of the last Judgment, and declares to those, who had lived well, and done their Duty, on their modest Renunciation of the meritorious Act of feeding him when he was hungry, giving him drink when he was thirsty, visiting him when he was sick and imprisoned, &c. "Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these my Brethren, ye have done it unto me." But those who are willing to excuse themselves from so gross a Violation of Duty, as neglecting him their Saviour, he assures, that a Neglect or Act of Injustice to one of the least of their Fellow-men was, in Effect, the same as if done to himself. "Inasmuch as ye did it not unto one of the least of these, ye did it not unto me."

—The Pennsylvania Gazette, No. 2354, February 2, 1774. Supplement.

Messieurs BRADFORDS,

ACCIDENTS, that afford useful and beneficial lessons to mankind, should be made as publick as possible: And as the Weekly Papers are the most easy and general way of offering advice, I take that method of conveying to the Public, through your Paper, the circumstances of the fatal catastrophe of two amiable and promising Young Men, the only Sons of a wealthy Farmer in East New-Jersey, as a caution to the living, in expectation, in some degree, of its preventing, for the future, accidents of the same kind.

William Smith, near the ancient borough of Elizabeth, among other children, had two sons; the eldest about nineteen years of age, the youngest seventeen: These young men went to bed together hearty and well on Christmas night.—Some Company made it necessary for them to leave their usual lodging room for another, which, in the construction of the house, Mr. Smith had contrived as a place of rest, after the fatigue of a summer's day:—In this, a bed was placed, where he might indulge, in an afternoon. This room was very small, had neither window, nor chimney in it, and the door very tight. To this bed the two young men went, and carried with them a warming pan of live coals: In the morning they were found dead; and, from appearance, they must have been in that state some hours, as their joints were perfectly rigid, and every attempt for their recovery (altho' the best assistance was immediately afforded) proved in vain.

There can be no doubt of the cause of their death; since experiments have evinced, that air, passing through fire, is rendered unfit for animal life: Experiments further teach us, that air, having once passed through the lungs, is rendered unfit for respiration; so that a constant succession of fresh elastic air is necessary for the existence of animals, and that, without it, life cannot be preserved, but for a few moments.

These considerations should induce every person, in the construction of houses, to provide their lodging rooms large; that a chimney, and at least one window be made in each of them: For, in a close room, the above affords a melancholy instance of the fatal effects of fire on confined air; and altho' it is impossible to prevent some of the surrounding air from entering, be the room ever so tight, yet, in this instance, it was insufficient to preserve the lives of the two young men; and who will undertake to prescribe the exact line of safety.

The only way to prevent such accidents will be to construct lodging rooms, in the manner above mentioned: For a room may be so small and tight, that a number of persons breathing in it shall produce the same fatal effect: And unfortunately, both these ways, Death makes its approaches so insensibly, that every chance for a recovery is taken away; that is, in sleep, the persons are deprived of their senses, before inconvenience in breathing excites uneasiness sufficient to rouse them. For those, whose houses are already built, with such close rooms, as will not admit of a free circulation of air, let this accident caution them, not to suffer any persons to sleep in them, or at least, if they should, and such as have accustomed themselves to have their beds warmed, never to suffer the pan of coals to be left in it: But the safest way is either to erect funnels, that may communicate with the external air; or convert those rooms to such uses, as will not endanger the lives of their fellow creatures.

If these hints, which were afforded by a person on the melancholy occasion, are of importance to the Public, your publishing them will, perhaps, induce others to do the same, to make them more extensive, and excite some abler pen to treat the subject, in a manner suitable to the importance of it. To be SOLD.

THE several following TRACTS of LAND, being part of the estate of Doctor LEWIS JOHNSTON, late of Perth-Amboy, deceased;

660 acres situate on the west side of and adjoining to Mateheponix river, eleven miles distant from New-Brunswick and Perth-Amboy, and four from South River landing, in the neighborhood of two mills and two iron-works, both ready markets for all kinds of country produce, and has a fine outlet for cattle and hogs. This place is now in the possession of John Van Schaack, and is improv'd by a good house, a Dutch barn, and a young bearing orchard; 300 acres of clear'd land, 20 of which are good meadow, and a great deal more may be made; is very well water'd, the upland well timber'd, and proper for every kind of grain, and may be conveniently divided into two or three plantations; it joins the farms of Nicholas Van Vinckle¹ and John Pue.

670 acres, formerly the property of Hugh Taylor, about 13 miles distant from New-Brunswick and Perth Amboy, and adjoins the lands of John Combs, Jacob Sydam, and John Johnston, on which there is a large fram'd house, and fram'd barn, a young orchard of about 200 apple trees, 200 acres of clear'd land and 30 acres of meadow, with a considerable quantity of very good bog meadow, which would be very valuable under proper improvement.

550 acres, opposite Perth-Amboy, adjoining the land of John Stevens, Esq; and the river Raritan: This land is remarkably well timbered, and is so situated that the timber and fire-wood can be very easily transported to New-York, the most distant part of it being not more than two miles from a convenient landing. There is on it about sixty acres of clear'd land, whereon is a house and well built barn, and a young bearing orchard of 200 apple trees, grafted with the best of fruit. The improv'd part, with timber land sufficient to accommodate a farm, with twelve acres of very good salt meadow, will be sold separate.

790 acres, situate on the west side of South River, and near Menalapon River, being one half of a tract remaining unsold and held in company with the devisees of Andrew Johnston, deceased. This tract surrounds the village of Spotswood, is well wooded and timber'd, and a great part of it fine rich swamp; it adjoins the mills and iron-works of Messrs. Perry and Hayes, which lay in about the center of it; the nearest part of it is about half a mile, and the most distant about three miles from South River landing, from which conveniency every advantage may be made of the timber and fire-wood.

These several tracts will be sold intire, or divided into such lots as will best suit the conveniency of the purchasor and interest of the concern'd. The title is clear and indisputable. The conditions of sale will be made known, and proper deeds given, by

ELIZABETH-TOWN, NEW-JERSEY.

THE visitors of the first GRAMMAR SCHOOL in this place acquaint the public, That Mr. Francis Barber, who for some Months past from an active family event,¹ hath been obliged to devolve the care of said school upon his Ushers, has again resumed his superintendence of it.

As he intends to give assiduous attention to the business, and has heretofore been so happy as to succeed in his methods of government and instruction, and to conciliate the affections of his pupils, he hopes for future encouragement.

Some gentlemen abroad having been discouraged from sending their sons to this place, from the consideration of the expence attending their board and tuition during the number of years usually spent in preparing youth for admission into our colleges, Mr. Barber proposes to any gentlemen who choose it, instead of the ordinary course, to agree with them upon the following plan: He will engage to qualify any young gentleman, or any lad (not under twelve years of age) so as to be unexceptionably admitted into the Freshman class in any American college, at the price of forty five pounds, New-York currency, including their board, which will be provided in good families.

His security from loss upon this plan must principally depend upon the success of the peculiar mode of instruction he has adopted after long experience, and the extraordinary pains designed to be taken with the scholar; tho' at the same time burdening him with any severity of application will be carefully avoided. From the small sum proposed it will naturally be concluded that a lad must be fitted in half the time usually employed in school for admission into college: But as some respect must also be had to the genius of the youth, Mr. Barber will require a trial of six weeks, to judge of his capacity; for if found to be inferior to the common standard, he could not receive such an one, but in the usual way.

The visitors propose to attend constantly at the quarterly examinations of the youth, which have been heretofore held in this school, and will be continued for the future, on the last Wednesdays in February, May, August and November; at which times if any of the Parents and Guardians of the Lads, or any other gentlemen should choose to attend, it would be very agreeable to the visitors and Mr. Barber; and might be of particular use in creating a greater emulation of improvement among the scholars. —Rivington's New York Gazetteer, No. 47, March 10, 1774.

To be SOLD.

A lot of land as pleasant and well situated as any in Hackinsack, for a shop-keeper or tradesman, especially for a saddler, as that trade has been followed many years on the place; there is on it at present a convenient shop for that business, which joins the road; also a good house with two rooms and an entry, a convenient kitchen, linter,¹ and cellar, a cyder mill and press, a very commodious barn and barrack, an orchard that will yield in a good season 100 barrels of cyder. The lot contains about 24 acres meadow and upland, joins the river on the east, the stage and Albany post road on the west, and Mr. Provost's landing on the south. A boat makes a trip to New-York from said landing once a week.

There will also be sold with the above lot, or separate, as may best suit the purchaser, 22 acres of wood, and 11 acres of cleared land, a small distance from the before mentioned lot, very agreeable, for fishing and fowling. Any gentleman having a mind for a country seat, this situation is so agreeable, and the price so reasonable, that of course he will conclude the bargain. The conditions of sale may be known by applying to Jacob Roome, living on the premises, who will give a good title for the same.—The New York Gazette; and The Weekly Mercury, No. 1163, Februdry 7, 1774. Supplement.

·FIVE POUNDS Reward.

ELOPED from his service, belonging to the subscriber in Burlington, an indented servant man, by name THOMAS GRIFFITHS, a native of England; in the former part of his life, when resident in his Mother Country, kept a tavern in the city of London, known by the sign of the King's Arms, in Leaden-hall-street, but for some years before he left England rented a considerable farm near Bristol. This advertisement implies, that whoever secures him in any of his Majesty's goals in America, and will give intelligence to his master in Burlington, shall receive the above reward. He is a well-looking man, between the age of 30 and 40, of a middle stature, stoops in his walk, and cannot with the smallest degree of effrontery look a man in the face; has an easy, soft, smooth manner of speaking: Was habited in an old dove-coloured coat and waistcoat, with metal buttons, and old pair of leather breeches, and flopped hat. Had with him a bag of clothes, which the subscriber supposes may contain 3 or 4 shirts, an old brown coat, a red waistcoat, stockings, &c.

COKE.

To the JUDGE of the HIGH COURT of ADMIRALTY, at PHILADELPHIA. SIR,

THERE is no Occasion to make any Apology for considering you as the Writer of a Piece, published in the Pennsylvania Journal last Week, under the Signature of Civis, in which an Attempt was made to vindicate your Commission. . . .

Your Insinuation, that I had looked only among Newspapers for a Copy of a Commission from the High Court of Admiralty, conveys a Sneer, altogether unworthy of your Character. You must therefore give me Leave to look down upon it.

Having thus finished my Observations on the Defence of your Commission, I shall add a few Words in Confirmation of the Objections made in a former Letter. You have, Sir, original Jurisdiction in Causes arising within the Provinces of New-York, New-Jersey, Pennsylvania, the Lower Counties on Delaware, Maryland and Virginia. Consequently you may call before you any Person from the farthest Part of either of those Colonies, together with all the Witnesses in the Cause; and for want of Obedience, may fine, imprison, and strip them of their Estates. Under the Appearance of exercising the Power vested in you by your Commission, you may harrass the whole Country at your Pleasure. Nor can it be pretended that a Prohibition will lie from one of the other Colonies, to stop your Proceedings in this. As a Judge, you are by no Means, on a Footing with the Sages of the Law in England, to whom you have thought proper to compare yourself. They do not hold their Commissions during Pleasure, as you do, but during Life and have besides fixed Salaries, paid by the Crown. . . .

Messieurs HALL and SELLERS.

HAVING lately been solicited to sign a petition to the House of Assembly, requesting the removal of the eastern Treasurer first, and then trying him, I refused it, as a matter that seemed to me unjust, having been ever told, and always believed, that by the laws of our country every man is to be esteemed innocent until the contrary is shewn on a fair trial; to this it was answered, that our Representatives could not get the Treasurer tried, with insinuations that he was screened by government. As this did not seem to correspond with a memorial of the Treasurer's at the last session, I determined to enquire into his conduct at this session, and find that he has presented the following memorials to the House; and as they are intirely satisfactory to me, so I doubt not they will be so to others, and shew those, that greedily swallow every tale that is told, how cautious they should be in believing stories propagated to serve particular measures, and that by signing too hastily these petitions, they have set a bad example for punishing men without a trial by the Laws of their country.

To the Honourable the REPRESENTATIVES of the FREEMEN | of the Province of NEW-JERSEY, in GENERAL ASSEMBLY met
The MEMORIAL of STEPHEN SKINNER, one of the | Treasurers of the said Province,

Sheweth,

THAT your memorialist, being very uneasy at the dissatisfaction which has happened on account of the robbery of the eastern Treasury, and being also sensible that the speedy determination of that matter will greatly tend to the public utility of this colony, doth request that some equal¹ measures may be speedily fallen upon to adjust the same and the Honourable House may be assured, that your memorialist is ready and desirous to agree and comply with every practicable method to have a trial at law in the usual way. Should some other method more salutary be thought expedient, and not over prejudicial to your memorialist, he will cheerfully comply therewith.

STEPHEN SKINNER.

To the Honourable the House of REPRESENTATIVES of the | Province of NEW-JERSEY.

The MEMORIAL of STEPHEN SKINNER, Treasurer of | the Eastern Division of the said Province,

Humbly Sheweth,

THAT it gives your memorialist great uneasiness to find the House have come to no resolutions on his last memorial; he therefore begs leave to renew his application, and intreats that this Honourable House will direct a suit at Law to be brought against him, to which, as he has before declared, he will appear, put in bail, or enter into recognizance, as shall be required; and should the verdict of his country be against him, he will without delay resign his office. This his just and reasonable request, your memorialist relies, will be granted by the Representatives of the people of this province, and he expects from the justice of the House, that nothing will be done by them that may in the least tend to affect the minds of the people, as he wishes and begs that he may have a just determination of this matter by a verdict of his country.

New Brunswick, Feb. 12, 1774.

SIR,

HAVING formerly had the honour of an acquaintance with and friendship for you, I look upon myself bound in duty, to acquaint you in this public manner, with the sentiments and opinions of the most respectable persons in this part of the province, upon the last message for the Governor, drawn and presented to the House and Assembly, by you, under the title of the report of the committee, &c. That you may have an opportunity of vindicating yourself, as publicly as the charges are, and have been, exhibited against you.

In performing this friendly task, I shall mention to you the substance of some of the most censured parts of the report. And as I go along furnish you with the strictures and observations which I have heard thereon.

It has been said by some of the representatives of the Eastern Division, and by others who heard the report read in the House—

That it is long and laboured, consisting of eighty folio pages— That the general purport and design of it, is to exculpate SAMUEL FORD (the most dangerous villain ever known in this country) from the imputation of having robbed, or been concerned in robbing the Treasury of the Eastern Division of this province— That instead of being wrote, in the cool, dispassionate style of a senator, eager for the investigation of truth, it savours strongly of an artifice of an ATTORNEY AT LAW, pleading the cause of his client, under the strong bias of a large fee; on the one hand exaggerating every minute circumstance in the villain's favour; and on the other, extenuating and evading the most striking circumstances offered and produced against him—That particularly, in order to take off the force of the several examinations, and depositions of Reynolds, Cooper, Haines and Budd, charging Samuel Ford with the robbery of the Treasury; you have roundly asserted—"That the testimony of them is wholly to "be disregarded, and that no faith or credit is to be ever hereafter given, to what they have, or may say on oath." It is acknowledged on all hands, that their oaths ought never to gain belief, unless supported by strong corroborating circumstances, to strengthen and confirm the facts declared by them; but when thus corroborated, strengthened and confirmed, it is the opinion of many, that their oaths ought to be deemed sufficient to convince every impartial person of the truth of the facts so attested by them: However, if you are convinced that your doctrine is founded in truth, and upon the laws of the land, in the general and unlimited sense in which it is delivered: Then it is submitted to your consideration, whether, as the Governor has informed your House, that there is no other positive proof against Samuel Ford, (and none other was offered and laid before the House) for counterfeiting the paper currency of this, and the neighboring colonies, except the three survivors of those persons (convicted on their own confessions) and as the striking circumstances to prove this charge, are not so full as those, to prove his having robbed the Treasury; I say, you are desired to consider, whether it is not your duty, to move the House of Assembly to address the Governor, requesting him to for apprehending Ford? By which your constituents from the payment of the promised by such proclamation, made in pursuance of a vote of your House. Because it can never be expected, that if brought to trial, he will be convicted; when in his favour, he may shew your opinion, adopted by the House, in which you aver—that the only witnesses (Budd, Haines and Cooper) to be produced against him, are illegal, and void of the least credit.

This motion properly supported, it is thought, will not only render your conduct in every instance consistent, but in some measure repair the injury, done to the ingenious Ford: Who may then without fear, return to his home, family and usual business with impunity.

It is also said, that in your report, in order to reconcile these seeming absurd adjudications, viz. Of exculpating Ford from the robbery of the Treasury; and at the same time of branding his reputation, with the infamy of having counterfeited the paper currency of this province. You first give your thanks to the Magistrates, who held the late court of oyer and terminer in and for the county of Morris, for the services done to their country, by discovering the counterfeiters of its paper currency: But then, so far as their inquiries concerned the robbery of the Treasury, you insinuate that they exceed their duty, "by taking great pains "in examining into, and procuring documents relating to the robbery of the treasury, and every minute paper insinuating even a "suspicion on the subject." Upon what principles, to justify this reflection, they know not; nor indeed is it in my power to reconcile it, with the idea, that I have always entertained of the duty of a magistrate; which I before thought enjoined him to make the most strict inquiry into every offence and particularly ONE, which so much concerned the public, as the robbery of the Treasury. Besides, it is said, that the Magistrates of that court have already had the united applause of every well-wisher to his country. The Governor and Council (two branches of the legislature) have publicly offered them their tribute of thanks, for bringing to light the secret villainies so long and successfully perpetrated by that worst of villains, Ford, and particularly for their discoveries relative to the robbery of the Treasury. Whence it arises then, that in your opinion their inquiries, so far as they respect the robbery of the Treasury are censurable? And why, for the honour of a lawyer, deeply versed in the mysteries of the law, was reserved the glory of discovering "that too great pains had been taken by them in their searches "and inquiries after the robbery of the Treasury?" are said to be moot points and questions. fit to be solved only, by the oracle of the committee.

It has been also represented, that in your report, you have implicitly charged Mr. SKINNER, with the atrocious crime of perjury,¹ by frequently suggesting it as a matter of doubt whether the Treasury was really robbed or not! Although you previously mention his oath taken before the Chief Justice, wherein he positively swears, that the Treasury was robbed of 6000*l.* and upwards. Some pronounce this reflection uncharitable, and beneath the character of a gentleman; others alledge, that as you have been frequently and hospitably entertained by him, eat his bread and drank his wine, you may perhaps know him better than all the rest of the world, and thence be induced to dissent from the general belief . . . that he is an honest man.

It is also said, that you set out early in your performance, flushed (as you therein express yourself) with "a hope that you "should be able to make it appear to the House, that Ford was "not concerned in "robbing the Treasury.."—From what secret source this hope should spring? Why you should wish to draw a veil over any one of the iniquitous acts of this villain? Are inquiries which have not only been subjects for conversation and conjecture, but of wonder and amazement to all.—Some are so cruel as to suppose that you are actuated by the Sine qua non which moves every brother of the fraternity to hope for the acquittal of his client, others perhaps, with equal injustice, ascribe to a private dispute, subsisting between you and the Governor, and a spirit of opposition and contradiction springing from thence to every sentiment and opinion of his, the first cause that induced you, to undertake this arduous task, and to hope that your endeavors might be crowned with success.

Whilst others more moderate would persuade me, that the present Treasurer not having paid you that court and attention, which you thought due to the exalted station of a representative of the province of N--w-J----y, you was justly incensed at his want of respect and due deference to your sacred character, and in your wrath affirmed, that he should no longer be Treasurer, that the office was in the gift of the House, and that it should be given to a more obsequious friend and relative of your own. Or as you express yourself in a former message, "that the House would "be induced to forget that decency which is due to the commission of a King." And that to effect the removal of Mr. SKINNER, you first thought it necessary to insinuate into the minds of the members, a distrust of the reality of the robbery: and now unwilling to have them convinced of the fallacy and baseness of this insinuation, you hope to show that Samuel Ford was not the robber, and therefore (as Lawyers sometimes argue) probably, at least possibly Mr. SKINNER, may have robbed himself.

These, Sir, are the opinions and conjectures of the principal Gentlemen in this part of the province, when they discourse upon your performance, or attempt to justify the substance matter of it various, almost, as the persons who converse upon the subject.

Hence arises the propriety of this letter, and the necessity of a public vindication of the report.

By way of preface to your defence, it may not be improper for you, to point out the public utility, benefit, and advantage that is to result to the province, from the determination of the question, controverted in the Governor's message, and in this your report, viz: Whether Samuel Ford robbed the Eastern Treasury or not?

For, none dare presume, that he now appears, by attorney, before the House to solicit for liberty, to return to his native land; and many are so unacquainted with the politics of the JUNCTO as to pronounce it—a matter of no importance in the present controversy between the Treasurer and the province. Whether the House concur in opinion with the Governor and Council, upon this imputation of guilt to Samuel Ford or not? Indeed their reasoning on this head, carries with it such a degree of conviction in the minds of all, as to render it necessary for you to discuss this point fully and carefully. And that you may be the better enabled to do it, I shall furnish you with the principal argument, by which they daily gain proselytes to their opinion. They say,—that the Committee of the whole House, in November, 1769, (before you had the honour of being a member) did, after examining into the evidence of the robbery of the Eastern Treasurer, not only give full faith and credit to the robbery; but report, "That through the course of the examination, not anything had appeared to impeach his conduct or character." And that at another sessions in September 1772, (the first sessions after you had become a Member) the House declared, "That the robbery of the Treasury happened for want of that security and care that was necessary to keep it in safety, and that the Treasurer ought not to be allowed the sum so said to be stolen from the Treasury."—From hence they argue,—That if it was the opinion of the former House that the Treasurer's character or conduct were not impeached by the robbery; and of the present House, that altho' the Eastern Treasury was robbed by some villain or other, yet, because it happened for want of security and care, the Treasurer ought not to be allowed the sum stolen from the Treasury. Then they conclude, it surely cannot be of the least importance in the determination of the dispute between the Treasurer and the province to investigate the truth of the present litigated point, viz. Whether that villain was the same identical Samuel Ford mentioned in the Governor's speech or not?

Besides refuting this argument let me ask it as a favour of

upon

¹ out, what I have frequently insisted

1. The benefit that may also result from by you; illustrating to the world, went too far in his address to the House; by asserting, "That the robbery of the Treasury so long enveloped in "darkness was now brought to light." Since the evidences, from whom he received his information, against the supposed robber Samuel Ford, were not strictly legal, as well because, some were confederate with him, and all examined in his absence, as for other such reasons said to be mentioned in the report.

2. That the glory and honour to be derived to you from this display of your wisdom, will be abundantly sufficient to compensate to the province, not only for the mischief, which probably will result from the personal reflections therein said to be cast upon the Governor and many other Officers of Government, but also, for the expense of 1000*l.* already incurred, to the province by this dispute.

3. That this wisdom so displayed by you, is not "earthly,
"sensual, and devilish," but will on comparison, bear a similitude and likeness to the proper characters and marks of the Christian wisdom, spoke of by the Apostle, being "first pure, then peaceable,
"gentle and easy to be entreated, full of mercy, and good fruits,
"without partiality and without hypocrisy. And,

Lastly, That what the same Apostle has said will not apply in the present case to your house, viz. "Where envying and strife is,
"there is confusion and every evil work."

Before I conclude this letter let me request you to exert yourself, as becomes an honest man, to bring the Treasurer to a fair trial, before an honest and impartial jury: but at the same time be prudent, and cautiously avoid adopting any measures, that may make it the duty of the Governor to refuse his assent to the Support Bill. Lest by such conduct, the Officers of Government may be supported from home, and the subject be deprived of that constitutional check upon them, so favorable to the liberties and privileges of a free people.

I am, Sir,

Your humble servant,

A SOMERSET FREEHOLDER.

FIGURE is a beautiful dark bay, full fifteen hands and an inch high, and is allowed by the best judges, to be the handsomest horse in America: He was bred by the late Duke of Ha¹ and got by Old Figure, who was got by Standard of Sir James Lowther's Jason, a good racer; Young Figure's dam was called Young Mariamne, got by Old Crab; her dam, Old Mariamne, was got by Old Partner; Figure's great grandam was called Luggs, and got by the Bald Galloway. Figure won the following purses; one purse at Newcastle upon Tyne, one ditto at Lancaster, one ditto at Stirling, one ditto at Rugby; he also got a premium at Preston; at Lancaster he beat Mr. Barrey's Spinner, a good runner, and the odds against him were Fifty Pounds to Five. As to his performances in America, it is well known to all gentlemen, that he beat Selim, in Maryland, and also won a purse a few months after he was imported, and beat a number of capital horses, proving himself on that occasion to be one of the stoutest and steadiest racers that ever started for plate or match, upon this continent. All persons who choose to have their mares covered by FIGURE will have proper attendance given, and good pasture at 2s. per week, by me.

TO THE PRINTER.

SIR,

LATELY observing two publications in your paper (apparently spurious) meanly intended to injure the character of J—— K——, Esq; a member of the Jersey Assembly, they commanded but little of my attention (never supposing that any opinion of a man's character ought to be formed from such malicious attacks) till being obliged lately to take a tour into Morris county, I found the people in general, I mean the better sort, much offended with an assertion, contained in one of those publications, "that it was the opinion of the inhabitants of that county, that Samuel Ford was the robber of the Treasury." I was greatly surprised to find a large majority, nay nine tenths of the people, not only doubtful of the fact, but insisting that the evidence brought to support the charge was in itself altogether incredible, and even if allowed credibility, was, on examination, conclusive to the contrary.

This led me to inquire into the character of Mr. K——, and the reason for his being made the object for such low invective. I received the following information, which I transmit to you to communicate to the public. By this you will repair the injury done to a very amiable character, by the groundless aspersions in the above publications, and do justice to the reputation of a stranger in this city, who deserves the highest applause from every friend of his country.

It seems that one Reynolds, who suffered death for being concerned in counterfeiting money with Ford, acknowledged, in his confession, that wanting a considerable sum of money on interest, Ford promised to let him have it, and took him to a place in a wood, where he shewed him a large bundle of paper money, promising to bring the desired sum the next day to Reynold's house, several miles distant. Reynolds asked him where he had got so large a sum? Ford answered, "Why, have you not heard of the robbery of the Treasury? I got hold of the fag end of it." The next day Ford kept his appointment, but no sooner entered the house than he desired to lie down. For this purpose he was shewed into a chamber. Soon after, Reynolds, looking through the key-hole, saw him cutting the money from sheets. This has been represented as conclusive evidence, that Ford had got this money from the Treasury; for, having but one set of types and plates, it was said to be impossible to make any other than single bills.

The morning of the execution Cooper was long and carefully examined. He was informed that they knew he was acquainted with Ford's robbery of the Treasury; that if he would confess the truth, they were impowered from government to pardon him; but if he did not, he must die. He then replied, in the most solemn manner, "If I must die, I must prepare for it in the best manner I can; for I do not know anything about it." He was returned to the prison, and everything was conducted as if he was to be executed. His irons were taken off; and his arms pinioned. Reynolds being turned off, the sheriff, with part of the guard, and the executioner, returned, and brought Cooper out of the prison into the passage, from whence he could behold his companion hanging; and before putting the rope round his neck, he was again addressed by the person who had so much laboured to extort the confession of his knowledge of Ford's robbing the Treasury: "You have now but ten minutes to live, if you do not confess." He knew what they meant by confessing, and accordingly said, "I will confess." And who that knew his character would think he would not confess anything to save his life? For, in reality, it was that confession he was given to understand he must make, as the only condition upon which a pardon could be obtained.

On this the respite was immediately produced, and the convict unopinioned. The next day his examination was taken, when he declared that Ford had told him every circumstance relating to the robbery, and that Ford, with two soldiers, had committed it; although he had so repeatedly, under oath, declared he had never told him anything about it.

At the opening of the session of Assembly in New-Jersey, the Governor informed them of this great discovery, and hoped for their acknowledgements to the Gentlemen who with great zeal and abilities had detected this affair, and ordered all the papers to be laid before them. The Council, according to custom, echo back the Governor's speech; but on a thorough examination into this matter, by the Assembly, they think no confidence could be put in the testimony of such a person as Cooper, and in such manner obtained; and therefore, instead of acknowledgements, find great fault with the magistrates for the unjustifiable measures used to extort from a condemned malefactor a confession, only calculated to obtain a respite for a life forfeited to public justice; and which evidence had no one corroborating fact, or probable circumstance, to support it. The character of Ford being that of an artful, cunning, sensible, cautious villain; and hence the highest improbability of his making a declaration to Cooper affecting his own life, without any imaginable reason for so doing. Add to this, the striking circumstance, so much depended on, of the money's being in sheets, lost all its weight with the Assembly, when they recollected that the Treasurer, in his first affidavit, had declared that the money stolen was cut into single bills, and tied up in bundles of twenty bills to a bundle; so that here was demonstration that the money in sheets could not be the money stolen from the Treasury. On this the Assembly send a message to the Governor, requesting him to point out the striking circumstances mentioned in his speech, to which the Governor returns an answer, and the Assembly reply. This reply gave offense to those who were expecting great credit and reputation (if not something more substantial) from this ample discovery; which, it seems, they had determined to force people to believe, at all events.

Mr. K—— is a very principal member of the Lower House, and has great influence with many of the members, having an established character for integrity, honesty, and an unshaken attachment to every thing that he thinks essential to the liberties of his country. He dared boldly to deliver his sentiments on the conduct of the officers of government concerned in this matter, as well as with regard to the insufficiency of the evidence laid before the House to charge Ford with the robbery of the Treasury. However justifiable the magistrates were in the end proposed, it was thought, that by the means used, they had set the most dangerous precedent. He therefore bore a public testimony against it. This rendered him peculiarly obnoxious to a certain party, who treated him, behind his back, with great disrespect; but finding this not to answer their end, he is now to be vilified in the public news-papers; to try, if possible, to draw off his attention from the dispute before the House, by a news-paper war, with an antagonist in the dark.

The late adjournment of the Assembly,¹ given the different members an opportunity of spending a few weeks among their constituents; from whom they have learned what has passed in the capital.

I was informed that the dissatisfaction with the mode pursued by the officers of government arose very early, as being rather inconsistent with the freedom of an Englishman, who, however guilty, is entitled to a fair and impartial trial, and one gentleman of the law was had COR. NOB. for saying, that the court was a Spanish inquisition, or something like it. On the whole, I found the matter quite misrepresented in the publications above referred to,—a general dissatisfaction reigns in the province, which must soon break out, and they are universally determined to support their opposition. However it gave me pleasure to find the most laudable candour among the people, with regard to the Treasurer; for altho' they consider the measures, relating to the discovery being thus forced upon them, as injurious to the Treasurer's real interest; yet they seem to be against harbouring any suspicions of personal guilt in him; and rather justify his unhappy situation, and heartily wish, for his sake, that the discovery was really made.

But with whatever avidity, defamatory publications may be read, by the more malicious part of our species, I cannot help thinking, that every man of candour and impartiality, will form a very different idea of the conduct of the New-Jersey Assembly, respecting the matter under consideration; from that which is attempted to be conveyed by the literary assassin in question. They will conclude, notwithstanding a thousand angry scribblers, and all the disappointed seekers after lucrative substantiates in New-Jersey, that as the reward intended for the discovery, is to be drawn from the purses of the people, and to be faithfully applied, by their representatives, to recompence the discoverer: the Assembly have an undoubted right to be convinced that a discovery is actually made, before they apply the promised gratuity. And that if what appear to be striking circumstances to one man, do not appear so to another, (which in the nature of things will inevitably be the case wherever facts are endeavoured to be proved by probabilities) the latter ought not for that reason, to have his non-conviction ascribed to the most infamous motives; and his reputation weekly gibbeted in the public papers, till thereby compelled to put out his own eyes, and to see with those of the former.—And it is surely one thing to insist that Ford is not guilty of robbing the Treasury, and appearing as his advocate, pleading his cause under the strong bias of a large fee (which is the scandalous insinuation of another of your correspondents, who signs himself a Somerset Freeholder) and another thing to say, that he is not proved to be so, by the circumstances and probabilities adduced for that purpose; or in other words, that he is not proved so at all. The Assembly it seems are not struck with what appears very striking to others. For this one of their members is to be libelled and traduced, till the whole House is equally struck with those who are most wonderfully struck; and until this letter striking produce full conviction, and this conviction terminate (for here is the beauty of the jest) in the something more substantial, so warmly recommended by his Majesty's Honourable Council. And for this writer to pretend, that the evidence of Ford's having robbed the Treasury, is equal to that of his being concerned in the counterfeit money, is a manifest outrage on common sense. For though he was charged with both crimes by the same witnesses, he was accused by them of the latter before their conviction, and when they accuse themselves and one another, and were under no bias to extend their charge to the innocent. With the latter he was charged after their conviction, and in expectation upon that account of a reprieve, a few months before their expected execution, and with all the terrors of death before their eyes. With respect to the robbery, there is no proof in corroboration of their testimony. Relative to the counterfeiting, there is full proof without it,—the finding the tools in his custody, and his immediate flight in token of guilt.—To conclude, Sir, give me leave to tell you, that the usefulness of your paper is greatly hurt, by suffering so many personal invectives to pass in publication.—As the liberty of the press ought to be held most sacred among a free people; so the printer who expects to meet with encouragement from the public, ought to be doubly guarded against permitting personal scandal to pass through the channel of his paper; especially without the name of the author being affixed.—No man, however upright his character may be, can be proof against low buffoonery, which greatly abases him even to attempt to answer; and the very general spread of your paper, may render it impossible ever to retrieve.

I am your constant reader,

CIVIS.

“The managers of the DELAWARE LOTTERY for the COLLEGE of NEW-JERSEY, &c. have lately had a meeting, when it was resolved to begin the drawing of said Lottery at New-Castle, on Monday the 23d of May next.—They would have drawn it sooner, but their other business obliged them to put it off to that day. Impartial persons, it is not doubted, will be sensible, that considering the Largeness of the Lottery, it has been brought to a settlement very soon; for though it was first published about eighteen months ago, yet, from the situation of some persons on whom great dependance was to be placed, the selling of Tickets was necessarily deferred till about the month of May last.—It was also no small difficulty to get precise and certain accounts of the sales in distant places, and as some of these are still wanting, it is earnestly requested that all persons intrusted with Tickets, will, on or before the 10th day of May next, return those that are unsold, and that the friends of the institution will do their utmost in the mean time, to dispose of those that remain.

“P. S. Tickets not returned at the time above-mentioned will be considered as sold.”—The Pennsylvania Journal, No. 1631, March 9, 1774.

By ROBERT FITZ RANDOLPH,

Heir and Administrator.

Woodbridge, Feb. 28, 1774.

Mr. PRINTER,

OBSERVING in your last Thursday's paper an odd kind of an advertisement, apparently the effusion of some envious Simpleton's brain, intended, no doubt, to ridicule a gentleman in New-Jersey, whose circumstances and conditions in life, it may be fairly judged from the conduct of this pitiful squirter, in his eyes form a very disagreeable contrast with his own: - - - The only notice I think it deserves, is the following wholesome piece of advice, administered purely from a motive of charity to the poor pining animal.

O thou envious mortal, who ever thou art, why indulge so hateful, so corroding a passion, and be self-tormented? Put up your pointless arrows into their envenomed shaft, & shoot no more, without you can do it with less imbecility; for to suppose you capable of doing the least execution, would be as great an outrage upon common sense, as it would be to affect that you are possessed of a good heart.

N. B. The few who have attended to the performance of this low creature in question, will no longer wonder at his having, among other articles, fixed an envious eye upon the frock, when they consider, that it is a habit as proper for some other occupations in life as that of a coachman.

TO BE LET.

And entered upon the 15th of April,

THE noted store-house of the subscriber at Raritan-Landing, in New-Jersey, facing the new bridge, about a mile and a half above Brunswick: This store is most conveniently situated for the reception of produce from the upper fine country, bordering on the river Raritan; it adjoins the main road, and is well calculated for the storing of wheat as well as flour; the building is 80 feet long, and 25 deep, divided into proper apartments, a shop, &c, on the ground floor, and a wheat-loft on the second, capable of holding several thousand bushels, besides other apartments, there being two convenient rooms, one below, the other above, with fire places, in which a small family is at present, and may be much more properly accommodated. For terms apply to Isaac Low, in New York, or the proprietor,

CORNELIUS LOW.

He is known to have a false pass, and to have agreed with a shallop-man to take him into the Jerseys, intending to go to New-York, and endeavouring to get to drive a carriage, as he is fond of horses. The subscriber hath purchased that noted English DRAY HORSE, rising nine years old, a jet black 17 hands high, measures 16 inches round the knee joint, and is well proportioned otherwise; he is judged the broodest horse in the province; he is much admired for courage, shapes, marks and beauty, and likewise for his strength and trueness in drawing, as there is none in this province able to exceed him; he is remarkably sure in getting colts, many of which seem likely to be nearly or quite as large as himself. The said horse was foaled in Lincolnshire, in Old England, was imported by Colonel Francis, is now kept by the subscriber in Newtown township, Gloucester county, about two miles from Cooper's Ferry, opposite Philadelphia, where he is to cover at Twenty Shillings the single leap, or Forty Shillings the season, until the First of August. in the province, as were got by the said Dray Horse in three seasons covering. Much more might be said in regard to his performance and goodness, but is thought needless, as he is well known, and his colts so much applaud him. Any person that sends their Mares, may depend upon their being taken good care of by MARMADUKE COOPER.

TRENTON FERRY.

THE Subscribers, ever desirous of obliging the Public, and to give the utmost satisfaction in their power, even by a sacrifice of their own interest, and at a rate really not to be afforded, do hereby give this public notice and assurance, That from and after the First Day of April next, they will ferry all persons, horses, carriages, &c. upon the same terms, and as low a rate and price as any ferry within the distance of four miles on the river. The superior conveniences of the above Ferry to any other on the river, both with respect to its direct situation on the great road between the cities of Philadelphia and New York, nearer by a considerable distance than the ferry below, and narrower by upwards of one hundred yards, are all such inducements to the Public, joined with the sacrifice now made, as flatter the Subscribers to hope for every preference from the generosity of the Public, which their readiness and intentions to oblige, give them some right to expect in favour of an OLD ESTABLISHED FERRY.

The growing importance of the college of New-Jersey, (for the use of which the above Lottery is principally designed) is now generally known through every province of America. It has hitherto subsisted, and been raised to its present situation, entirely by the favour of the public. In the centre of North America, and in a pleasant healthy country, it is well fitted for the most extensive usefulness. The success which hath attended the vigorous efforts already made to raise its funds, and furnish the means of a compleat and finished education to all who are sent to it, has encouraged those concerned in the present attempt; especially as several very judicious persons have warmly recommended it, signifying their surprize, that at a time, when so many have taken this method of promoting public undertakings, a Seminary of such importance, should not also put in for a share of the general benevolence. This, added to other schemes for the support and improvement of the college, will afford to many friends of that institution an opportunity of contributing, with very little risk of losing, and a considerable chance of gain to themselves, who would not incline that the small sums they could spare, should appear in a subscription paper.

The prizes, after deducting 15 per cent, for the purposes of the lottery, will be paid, either by the gentlemen of whom they were purchased, or by Richard Stockton, and Jonathan Sergeant, Esqrs, in Princetown; W. P. Smith, and Robert Ogden, Esqrs. at Elizabeth-Town in New Jersey.—The following gentlemen, viz. George Monro, David Fenney, John Thomson, and Nicholas Van Dyke, Esqrs; and Messrs. Samuel Paterson and William Clarke, all of the county of Newcastle, are appointed managers, and are to be on oath for the faithful discharge of the trust reposed in them.— The drawing of the above lottery will commence at the town of Newcastle, on Monday, the 23d day of May next; it's delay to that time being in a great measure occasioned by the managers not being able to attend it sooner, by reason of other business. Those who have tickets are earnestly requested to exert themselves in disposing of them, and to return such as may remain unsold by the 1st day of May; those who propose to become adventurers in this advantageous lottery, will please to take notice they will have no opportunity of purchasing tickets after that day, as the law lately passed against lotteries in this province then takes place. Tickets may be had by applying to Mr. Samuel Broome, and Co, Mr. John Broome, and the other friends of the college in New York; Mr. Robert Henry, merchant in Albany, Mr. Andrew M'Farland, merchant in Schenectady, and Mr. John Merceir, merchant in Quebec.

THE Printer hopes he shall be excused for inserting the following particulars, the parties thinking themselves injured by the publication of a piece signed CIVIS.

New-Jersey, Morris-County, March 19, 1774.

Mr. RIVINGTON,

SIR,

ALTHOUGH you refuse to publish anything further between the writers of Grace Ford's letters, and the authors of the pieces signed a Somerset Freeholder and Civis, and declare, that the controversy ended with your paper of the 3d of March; yet as the author of Civis has in that publication wickedly, basely and maliciously misrepresented every fact related by him, asserted the most papable falsehoods; and thereby, as far as the baneful influence of his infamous pen can extend, impeached the conduct and characters of the magistrates; who held the court of oyer and terminer (at Morris-Town in September last) and took the examinations relative to the robbery of the Eastern Treasury; I think you can do no less, in justice to the characters of those gentlemen, acting in public stations, and transacting public business, than to publish, in your Gazetteer, the enclosed certified copy of a minute of council held at Burlington on the 10th of December, 1773. Previous to which publication, it may be proper to mention, that the members of that council, did not inadvertently go into the resolution therein contained, but that it was made, after full examination and enquiry into every part of the public conduct of each and every of those magistrates, as well with respect to the prosecution, and conviction of the counterfeitters of the current money of this province; as to the discoveries made relative to the robbery of the Eastern Treasury.

I shall not at this time enter into a vindication of the conduct of these gentlemen, or any of them, because I think it improper for a public officer to answer the charges of an anonymous writer, censuring his conduct, and mode of proceeding with any criminals. If he once suffered himself to be led into such defence, he might constantly find employment, in defending his character from the attacks of such criminals, their friends or connections. In which of these particular classes CIVILS ought to be ranked, I know not, but if he dare avow the publication, and leave his name with you, I do hereby give you liberty to acquaint him with the writer of this letter; who will be always ready to evince the falsity of the facts related and contained in that publication, and to treat CIVIS (if not an infamous rascal beneath the notice of a gentleman) in the manner he deserves.

I am, yours, &c.

In the Council of NEW-JERSEY,

Friday, December 10, 1773.

PRESENT.

The Hon. Peter Kemble, Esq; - - - The Right Hon. the Earl of Sterling. - - - The Hon. John Stevens, Esq; - - - The Hon. Samuel Smith, Esq; - - - The Hon. James Parker, Esq; - - - The Hon. Chief Justice; - - - The Hon. Stephen Skinner, Esq; - - - The Hon. Daniel Coxe, Esq; - - - The Hon. John Lawrence, Esq.

THE House taking into consideration the advantages resulting to the public, from the prosecution and conviction of the counterfeiters of the current money of this province, with the discoveries made relative to the robbery of the Eastern Treasury, and being convinced that those valuable services were principally effected by the prudent conduct and commendable zeal in the cause of public justice, exerted by certain worthy magistrates and others, in the course of those prosecutions,

RESOLVED,

That the thanks of this House be given to the Hon. Mr. Justice Ogden, the Attorney-General, Samuel Tuthill, and Samuel Ogden, Esquires, as a testimony of the approbation of this House of the conduct of those magistrates and other gentlemen active in the prosecutions above alluded to.

It has on it a good wooden dwelling house, containing 5 rooms, with a cellar under the same, and a well of very good water at the door; a commodious new barn, hay-house, cow-shed, waggon-house, and corn-

- - - It is said that neither the Royal Regiment of Welsh Fusileers, nor the 47th Regiment in New Jersey, will be removed from their present situations, unless his Majesty's Service should more immediately require their presence elsewhere.—Rivington's Gazetteer, No. 50, March 31, 1774.

AN advertisement having appeared in the late papers, respecting certain letters said to have been broke open and to have miscarried, after having been delivered to my care, or to the care of some of my people; further insinuating that this has been done either through the neglect or design of those to whom they were intrusted, in order to answer wicked and malevolent purposes: I thought it incumbent on me to assure the public, that no such letters were ever detained or broke open by me, or by any other person, with my knowledge and consent: And further, that if I could believe any of my boatmen or waggoners would be guilty of an action so base and dishonourable, I would immediately discharge the offender from my employ. Although the epithet of stage-master hath been applied to me with triumph, as a term of reproach and scandal, yet I am proud to assure the public, I shall continue to serve them in that capacity to the best of my power, and that no care shall be wanting on my part to execute the trust reposed in me with fidelity and dispatch.

It is not my intention to trouble the public with any little private animosities, in which I may be unhappily engaged, or to take up their time with disputes, in which they are no ways interested. Not all the sarcasms of the shrewd Humphry Traveller, nor the alarming cautions of the important Siwel Leinahtan*, should have drawn from me any reply, had not our offended author thrown out some insinuations aimed at my integrity: But I flatter myself, that my conduct in life hath been such as will stand unmoved against the furious attacks of my puny adversary. In answer to all his inveterate malice, I shall only say, as Uncle Toby said to a fly which had teized him for some time, Go little GNAT! There is room enough in the world for thee and for me.

RUN away on the 22d day of March, at night, from the subscriber, living in the township of Woodbridge, in East-Jersey, a servant man, name JACK, about five feet seven inches high, Indian look, bushy hair, about thirty-two years of age, and can read; he has lost his upper fore-teeth, and is to be seen on his left hand, a bruise done formerly by a stone: Had on when he went away, a linsey woolsey jacket and breeches, both grey coloured and much worn, black horn buttons on the jacket, and pewter buttons on his breeches, of different sorts; a striped under jacket, with strings in his shoes. He may pretend himself a freeman, but he is a proper slave born in this province, has often runaway by drinking too much, and other misdemeanors. —The Pennsylvania Gazette, No. 2364, April 13, 1774.

NEW YORK, April 7.

We are informed that in Consequence of his Majesty's Pleasure, signified by the Secretary of State to his Excellency GOVERNOR FRANKLIN, of New Jersey, Letters Patent have lately passed the Great Seal of that Province, incorporating a Number of Gentlemen for the very benevolent Purpose of raising a Fund for the Relief and Support of the Widows and Children of deceased Presbyterian Clergymen.

WHATEVER private reasons might induce Mr. Joseph Borden to believe I suspected him to be the person who broke open certain letters, written by me, and sent by his stage to gentlemen in New York and New Brunswick he could not possibly have inferred from my late advertisement he was the villain, nor could he have collected from thence any charge of a criminal nature against him, or those in his employ. - - - Why, therefore, he should be so violently angry at me, or why he should apprehend his "integrity to be furiously attacked" by that publication, are questions I am at a loss to answer. What then could tempt him to publish the late advertisement subscribed by him, exculpating himself from a charge never set up against him? It certainly could not have proceeded from an ambition of once more procuring the fame of being an author, having already established his reputation in that way, by his celebrated political essays in support of American freedom, against the attacks and encroachments of the British Parliament and Ministry, relative to the revenue acts: - - - It surely then must have resulted either from excessive malice, which often makes men too quick sighted even for their own schemes, or from a guilty conscience, which stared him in the face upon the appearance of my advertisement, and hurried him to plead not guilty before he was arraigned. - - Be these things as they may, I would fain hope he is really as innocent and upright as he pictures himself to be in his advertisement. I am, and I trust always shall be, tender of pronouncing a fellow creature, even of a suspicious character, guilty of any crime, without positive proof: Until I obtain such, he will not hear from me again on this subject, unless in vindication of my reputation, or he is anxious to see certain facts respecting his conduct as to the letters in question (and which he well knows I am possessed of) laid before the public. If he is, and will hint the least inclination of having them disclosed, I will make it a point to gratify the gentleman.

Before I take leave of him I would observe, as he has been so candid as to make a public declaration of his innocence, he will be FRANK enough, if it should be hereafter enquired of him, to acknowledge that the advertisement, published under his name, being properly spelled, and smartly written, was fabricated by the pretty little musical poetical witting, who lately emigrated from this city into New-Jersey, in quest of the long robe and full-bottomed wig, which nevertheless, have been since conferred on a gentleman of manly figure and approved abilities.

To Mr. NATHANIEL LEWIS

SIR,

I SHALL not enter into a full discussion of your last good-natured performance; but be as brief as I can by coming to the point at once.

You are pleased to say that "I could not possibly infer from your late advertisement, that I was the villain you aimed at - - - and that I have endeavored to exculpate myself from a charge never brought against me." - - - After insinuations so evidently levelled at me, and so plainly intended to wound my character, it is unmanly to shrink back, and screen yourself behind modes of expression. I would hope you have some little tincture of the gentleman in your disposition, and cannot be the sole author of so low a device. Such a conduct can only be the suggestion of some petty-fogging scavenger of the bar, who is directing you how to throw as much dirt as you can, and shows his skill in the law, by securing you from action of slander. - - - But do not be afraid, I shall bring no such action against you. If you really think I broke open your letters, to answer wicked and malevolent purposes, assert it openly like a man; and prove it too if you can. If I must be involved in a dispute, let me have something like a gentleman for my antagonist, and not a sneaking, bush-fighting fellow, armed with the quirks of the law, and skulking behind subterfuges and evasions.

I beg you would be speedy in your operations, for, should the spring vessels arrive, which are daily expected, the town will not spare time even to laugh at you. The public attention will then be engaged in matters of more importance.

JOSEPH BORDEN.

Bordentown, April 13.

To Mr. NATHANIEL LEWIS.

DEAR NATTY

YOU cannot imagine how much my family and neighbours are obliged to you for the entertaining dispute in which you have been engaged. In this dearth of news and amusement, your satirical essays are indeed a public comfort. I say your essays, for altho' we know you do not write one word of them yourself, yet, as you pay another for doing it, the property becomes your own. - - - Not he that carries the hod is said to build the house, but he who employs and pays the labourers. You have, indeed, shown your great judgment in the choice of your head work-man. A man of such approved honesty and integrity; whose character is so fair and spotless; whose talents for wit and satire have been formerly exercised so greatly to his own advantage, and so much to the improvement of others; but, above all, a man so learned in the law was certainly the only person fit for your purpose. When I see him in a morning strutting his pavement in red slippers, plaid gown and starched cap, I am struck with a certain awe and fear of him. I always do as the poor man did when he saw the Devil - - - take off my hat and say How do you do, Sir? You might have Hunted the whole city and not found his equal. But do you know that this interesting controversy of your's is like to engage the whole town in parties. Party rage hath already began in my family, I assure you. My son and self are both Nattites; my wife and daughter Frankonians; and many and long are the debates we hold on the subject. Mrs. Switch is, to be sure, a very foolish, obstinate woman: She insists that you have yet said nothing to the purpose; that you have proved nothing you have asserted, and have only shown your teeth without being able to bite. My answer is - - - "How can you be so blind? Hath he not fully proved that Joseph Borden, that naughty man, is really and truly a stage-master? Hath he not brought him to acknowledge this in the public papers? - - - You see how wickedness will come out at last- - - I dare say he has been a stage-master these many years, and was never discovered till Natty found him out. The charge about the letters, I must confess, is not at all advanced: But what signifies that; the main point is fixed, and Joseph Borden is proved to be a stage-master - - and what is worse, he even makes an honest livelihood in that capacity. As to poor little Frank he has knocked him up entirely: He can never answer the last paragraph in Natty's last advertisement. It is there openly asserted that he is a smart writer, that he is poetical, musical and a witling - - - Dear, bless us! How can he sleep in peace after such terrible usage? And then, says I, how snug Natty is all the while! for he dare never retort upon him; it can never be said of him that he has any taste or knowledge in music or poetry, that he can spell well, write smartly, and is a wit - - - No, no, Mrs. Switch, this can never be said of my Natty." 'Tis false, replies she, very angry, I can prove him to be a wit - - - did he not write his name backwards to his first advertisement, so that none but a witch could read it? And did he not make a beautiful pun upon the word Frank, in his last performance: If this is not wit the Deuce is in it. Well, but, says I, how can you Frankonians get over the charge of your little hero's emigrating to Jersey in quest of the long robe and full-bottomed wig? How do you answer that? Why Jerry says she, that he did emigrate, as you call it, is certain; but what he went in quest of, nobody can tell but himself. This I know, that he left us in love and charity with all his neighbours; he did not run off in a pet, stung with envy, because people chose rather to deal with his neighbours than with him; he did not fly into a rage, and bounce, and swear, because he had not interest enough to get bridges demolished, and roads altered, to serve his own private purposes. As to the long robe, he could never want it; for, being a little man, a short one would fit him much better; and he could have no use for a wig, as he has plenty of hair of his own. She likewise avers, that the first sentence in your last paragraph is nothing more than ungrammatical nonsense. - - - But, dear Natty, don't mind what people say of you; don't mind their laughing at you; but go on with spirit and demolish your adversaries - - - thresh 'em well, dust their jackets, sift them to the bottom, and grind them to powder. I am,

Your great admirer,

JERRY SWITCH.

To the great BOAR, at his Sty in Borden-Town.

JOSEPH JOSEPH, why hast thou so furiously pricked up the bristles of thy wit?— Although the maw of thy understanding is plentiful gorged, with the wash of slander; yet be it known unto thee, oh Joseph! thou wilt not be permitted so to wallow in the mire of vanity, and cram thyself with the husks of conceit, as to squeak out puns in triumph against the miller of Chesterfield with impunity! stagger, therefore, back again into the pen of obscurity, lest the miller, to prevent thy rooting up the ground of thy neighbour's reputation, should cut off the snout of thy sagacity, yoke thee with the collar of infamy, wring from thee a confession of thy guilt, steep thee in the lye of thy own manufacture, put thee in such a pickle as will make thee grunt out an acknowledgment that thou are sufficiently snoaked, and thoroughly gammoned,—then barrel thee up, and brand thee with the letters J. B. to prevent counterfeits.—

These few hints I hope will cure thee of the mange of witticism, and be a warning to thee not to crawl out again from the sphere in which Providence hath wisely appointed thee to move, this being the surest way to save thy bacon.

NEW YORK, April 21. | Richard Stockton, Esq; is appointed a Justice of the Supreme Court of Judicature in New-Jersey.

NEW YORK, April 21. | Last Monday Night arrived at Sandy-Hook, the long expected Tea Ship Nancy. Captain Lockyer, from Antiqua, where she had been driven from this coast. In her passage back she met with bad weather, lost an anchor from her bows, had her mizen mast carried away, sprung her topmast, and was thrown on her beam ends. Ever since her departure from England she has met with a continued succession of misfortunes, having on Board somewhat worse than a Jonah, which, after being long tossed on the tempestuous Ocean, it is hoped, like him, will be thrown back upon the place from whence it came:—May it teach a lesson, there, as useful as the preaching of Jonah was to the Ninevites.

On Capt. Lockyer's arrival, after anchoring his ship at the Hook, the pilot thought it best not to bring him up till the sense of the city should be known. As soon as the pilot gave notice, the Committee were immediately informed of the ship's arrival, and that the Captain solicited for liberty to come up to provide necessaries for his return, the ship to remain at the Hook. It appearing to be the sense of the city that the Captain should have the liberty he asked, advice of it was immediately sent him, care being taken that he should not enter at the custom house, and that no time should be lost in dispatching him back. Notice of all this was distributed by hand bills all over the city, and a select Committee of 14 or 15 citizens, in a sloop, were dispatched to lie near the ship till her departure. The Captain arrived on Tuesday, and tho' very respectfully treated, was followed from his landing by a great concourse of people. The Gentlemen to whom the tea was consigned having refused to receive it, the Captain is preparing, with all possible expedition, for his departure; and it is fixed that he is to depart from this city on Saturday morning, and that the ship is to sail for London the first fair wind.—The New-York Journal; or the General Advertiser, No. 1633, April 21, 1774.

Whoever apprehends and secures the said servant, so that his master may have him again, shall have the above Reward, and if brought home, reasonable charges, paid by

ISAAC RAIN.

FIVE POUNDS REWARD.

RAN AWAY from the subscriber, living in Manheim township, York county, on Easter Tuesday last, a German servant man, named Gottlieb Fuhrman; he is a miner, 5 feet 7 or 8 inches high, well set, and one of his little fingers is rendered useless by a shot, wherefore he hides it as much as he can: He is a native of Eisleben, in the county of Mansfield, in Saxony, is a great lover of strong liquor, and a great smoker of tobacco and snufftaker: It is supposed he is gone towards the Jerseys or New-York and probably makes use of a forged pass. Whoever takes up the said servant, and brings him to the subscriber, or secures him in any gaol, so that his master may have him again, shall receive the above reward, and reasonable charges, paid by

Last Monday evening arrived at Sandy-Hook, from Antiqua, the long expected ship Nancy, laden with the East India Company's TEA, intended for the supply of this Province. On Tuesday afternoon the commander, Capt. Lockyer, came up to town in a pilot boat, was received on his landing in a friendly manner, by a committee of the Sons of Liberty, and by them attended to the consignees: His behaviour and declarations were such as afforded the most perfect satisfaction; and on Saturday, without waiting for any repairs to the ship, which had lately lost a top-mast, &c. &c. in bad weather, he will take his departure for England, and, after receiving the freight and primage due on this enterprise, render back the Tea into the hands of the shippers.

—The Pennsylvania Gazette, No. 2366, April 27, 1774.

NEW-YORK, April 25.

On Monday last Advice was received from Philadelphia, that Capt. Chambers, of the Ship London, of this Port, had taken on board at the Port of London, 18 Boxes of fine Tea, which were regularly cleared, and the Mark and Numbers were taken from the Cocket, by Capt. All, of Philadelphia. As Capt. Chambers was one of the first who refused to take the India Company's Tea on freight the last Summer, for which he received the Thanks of the Citizens, they could not believe that he knew of the Teas being on board, and therefore supposed it to have been shipt by some ministerial Tool, under another Denomination, in order to injure the Owners, or the Reputation of the Master, or to make an Experiment of this Mode of introducing the Teas to America. The Committee, and the Inhabitants, were therefore determined to examine into the Matter, with great Vigilance. In the Night the long expected Tea Ship Nancy, Capt. Lockyer, arrived at Sandy Hook, without her Mizen Mast and one of her Anchors, which were lost in a Gale of Wind the 2d Instant, when her Main-Top Mast was sprung and thrown on her Beam Ends. Letters being delivered to him by the Pilot from sundry Gentlemen of this City, informing him of the determined Resolution of the Citizens not to suffer the Tea on board of his Ship to be landed, he requested the Pilot to bring him up to procure Necessaries and make a Protest, but he would not do it until Leave was obtained. Early the next Morning this was communicated to the Committee, and it appearing to them to be the Sense of the City that such Leave should be granted to him, the Ship to remain at the Hook, the Pilot was immediately dispatched to bring him up. This Intelligence was immediately communicated to the Public by an Hand Bill. At 6 P. M. the Pilot Boat returned with Capt. Lockyer on board, and although the People had but a very short Notice of it the Wharff was crowded with the Citizens, to see the Man whose Arrival they long and impatiently wished to give them an opportunity to co-operate with the other Colonies. The Committee conducted him to the House of the Hon. Henry White, Esq; one of the Consignees, and there informed Capt. Lockyer, that it was the Sense of the Citizens that he should not presume to go near the Customs House, and to make the utmost Dispatch in procuring the necessary Articles he wanted for his Voyage. To this he answered, "That as the Consignees would not receive his Cargo, he would not go to the Custom-House, and would make all the Dispatch he could to Leave the City." A Committee of Observation was appointed to go down in a Sloop to the Hook, to remain near the Tea Ship till she departs for London. And four committees were appointed to watch the ship London, on her arrival, day and night, till she should be discharged.

Wednesday Night arrived Captain Lawrence, from London, who confirmed the Account received from Philadelphia of Captain Chambers having on board eighteen Boxes of Fine Tea, but could not tell who was the Shipper, or to whom it was addressed. Thursday the Committee interrogated Capt. Lawrence relative to what he knew of the Teas being on board of Capt. Chambers, when he shewed them a Memorandum in his Pocket Book, which he took from the Cocket in the Middle of Capt. Chamber's File of Papers in the Searcher's Office at Gravesend, corresponding with the Advice transmitted from Philadelphia, except some Variation in the Mark. This Morning the following Hand Bill was distributed.

TO THE PUBLIC.

"The Sense of the City relative to the Landing the East-India Company's Tea being signified to Captain Lockyer, by the Committee, nevertheless, it is the Desire of a Number of the Citizens, that at his Departure from hence he should see, with his own Eyes, their Detestation of the Measures pursued by the Ministry and the India Company to enslave this Country. This will be declared by the Convention of the People at his Departure from this City; which will be on next Saturday Morning, at 9 o'clock, when, no Doubt, every Friend to this Country will attend. The Bells will give the Notice about an Hour before he embarks from Murray's Wharf."

By Order of the Committee.

New York, April 21, 1774.

Friday at Noon Captain Chambers came into the Hook; the Pilot asked him if he had any Tea on board? He declared he had none. Two of the Committee of Observation went on board of Captain Chambers, and informed him of the Advices received of his having Tea on board, and demanded a Sight of all his Cockets, which was accordingly given them, but the Cocket for the Tea was not found among them, nor was the Mark or Numbers on his Manifest.

About 4 P. M. the Ship came to the Wharff, when she was boarded by a Number of the Citizens. Captain Chambers was interrogated relative to his having the Tea on board, but he still denied it. He was then told it was in vain to deny it, for as there was good Proof of its being on board, it would be found, as there were Committees appointed to open every Package, and that he had better be open and candid about it, and demanded the Cocket for the Tea, upon which he confessed it was on board, and delivered the Cocket. The Owners and the Committee immediately met at Mr. Francis's, where Captain Chambers was ordered to attend. Upon examining him who was the Shipper and Owner of the Tea, he declared that he was sole owner of it. - - - After the most mature Deliberation, it was determined to communicate the whole State of the Matter to the People, who were convened near the Ship; which was accordingly done. The Mohawks were prepared to do their Duty at a proper Hour, but the Body of the People were so impatient that, before it arrived a Number of them entered the Ship, about 8 P. M. took out the Tea, which was at hand, broke the Cases, and started their Contents into the River, without doing any Damage to the Ship or Cargoe. Several Persons of Reputation were placed below, to keep Tally, and about the Companion, to prevent ill-disposed Persons from going below the Deck. At 10 the People all dispersed in good Order, but in great Wrath against the Captain; and it was not without some Risque of his Life that he escaped. Saturday in the morning the shipping in the harbour displayed their colours, and a large flag was hoisted on the Liberty Pole, and at 8 A. M. all the Bells of the City rang, pursuant to the Notice published on Thursday. At 8 a. m. the greatest Number of People were collected at and near the Coffee-House, that was ever known in this City. At a Quarter past 9, the Committee came out of the Coffee-House with Captain Lockyer, upon which the Band of Music attending, played God save the King. Immediately there was a call for Capt. Chambers, where is he? where is he? Capt. Lockyer must not go till we find Capt. Chambers, to send him with the Tea Ship. This produced Marks of Fear in Captain Lockyer, who imagined some Mischief was intended him; but upon Assurances being given him to the contrary, he appeared composed. The Committee, with the Music, conducted him through the Multitude to the End of Murray's Wharff, where he was put on board the Pilot Boat, and wished a safe Passage; upon which the Multitude gave loud Huzza's and many Guns were fired, expressive of their joy at his Departure. The Committee of Observation at the Hook have Cognizance of him, till a fair wind offers for his Departure from thence. Thus to the great Mortification of the secret and open Enemies of America, and the Joy of all the Friends of Liberty and Human Nature, the Union of these Colonies is maintained in a Contest of the utmost Importance to their Safety and Felicity.—Rivington's New-York Gazetteer, No. 54, April 28, 1774.¹

With Capt. Lockyer, in the ship Nancy, went passenger, Capt. James Chambers.

"When the People assembled on Saturday Morning, to see the departure of Captain Lockyer, their Resentment was risen so high against Capt. Chambers, whom they had considered as a Friend to their Rights, and deserving their Confidence, that if he could have been found, it is thought his Life would have been in Danger: Happily, however, he was concealed till his Departure, early on Sunday Morning, and we are assured he got on Board the Nancy, Capt. Lockyer, and is sailed with him for England."

Chambers continues privately in this city, they may be assured that he sailed out of the Hook, for London, on Sunday last, on board the Nancy, Captain Lockyer, who afforded him a very hospitable and gentlemanly reception. And whose whole behaviour, during his stay in this city proved him to be a sensible, discreet, and a very well-bred man.

PHILADELPHIA. | Extract of a letter from New-York.
April 25, 1774. |

“On Friday last, about four o’clock in the afternoon, the ship London, Capt. Chambers, came up into the harbour: As soon as she arrived at Sandy Hook two of the Committee (who went down to watch the tea ship) went on board of her, & informed Chambers of the intelligence we had received, respecting the Tea on board his ship, which he positively denied, and produced to them his file of cockets, on which there was no cocket for Tea: When the ship came to the wharf, the Committee, and some of his owners, went on board, and interrogated him on the subject, but he still persisted in denying it, till Capt. S. (a Member of Committee, and who is likewise a proprietor in the ship) told him it was in vain to deny it, and that he had better acknowledge it, if he knew any thing of the matter, as he might be assured, that every suspicious package would be opened. Upon which, he took the cocket out of his pocket, and presented it to Capt. S. who immediately withdrew, with the rest of the Committee, and the owners of the ship to the Queen’s Head Tavern, where, upon opening the cocket, they discovered to their astonishment that Chambers was the proprietor of the Tea: This discovery greatly embarrassed the owners of the ship, as they were at a loss to know what steps would be most proper to take in the matter, as they had reason to apprehend (from the temper of the inhabitants) that the ship and cargo, were in the most imminent danger: They remained at the Queen's Head upwards of two hours, deliberating what course to take, and at length concluded there was no trifling with the people, and that it was best to inform them of the true state of the matter, which they did between six and seven o'clock. As soon as it was known, the people began to assemble, and by evening a large body were collected, a number of whom went on board the ship, broke open the boxes, and emptied every ounce of it into the river. About eight o'clock a number of men, disguised, came along side the ship for the same purpose, not suspecting that the business had been already effected. Chambers somehow or other escaped in the bustle: A number of us were in search for him immediately after, both on board the ship, and at his lodgings, determined to have banished him at least, and to have sent him by the Tea ship to England: he has however saved us the trouble, as we are credibly informed, that he went down early yesterday morning and embarked on board the Tea Ship.

"The Committee returned from Sandy Hook last night, having left the Tea Ship about nine o'clock, yesterday morning, three leagues from the Hook."

FORTY SHILLINGS REWARD.

RAN AWAY from the subscriber, on Sunday the 17th inst. an indented Irish SERVANT MAN named FRANCIS HAYES, by trade a Skinner, and came on redemption in the ship America last Fall from Cork; he is about 20 years of age, five feet seven inches high, stout built, lightish coloured hair, smooth faced, and hobbles in his walk by reason of a rupture: Had on light coloured cloth coat and jacket much worn and sullied, leather breeches, white shirt and stock, a half worn castor hat, blue worsted stockings, and plain silver buckles. It is supposed he went up the Jerseys, as he has a relation near Bordenton. Whoever secures said servant, so that his master may have him again, shall have the above reward, and reasonable charges by

ALLEN M'LEAN.

N. B. All masters of vessels and others, are forbid to carry him off, at their peril.—The Pennsylvania Journal. No. 1638. April 27, 1774.

To JOSEPH BORDEN, Esq; STAGE MASTER.

SIR,

YOUR letter publickly addressed to me the 13th of April was very acceptable and entertaining. The delicacy, sprightliness, and urbanity which sparkled in every line, characterize you a perfect master of epistolary diction: and your compositions in that stile will undoubtedly be introduced by the Professors of our American seminaries as models for the imitation of the young gentlemen under their tuition. These considerations almost induced me to lay down my pen, and to bury in oblivion the facts respecting your conduct as to the letters in question. But reflecting I had pledged my word, if called upon, to lay them before the Public, I cannot be diverted from my purpose by the music of your periods, or the poignancy of your wit. I accept therefore, your challenge, and meet you in the field with weapons, which will wound you to the quick, though managed with the greatest caution and tenderness. Undaunted as you appear to be, I am so confident of the ground I stand upon, that I am convinced you must be foiled in the conflict. But remember, Sir, whatever may be the consequences you must charge them to the account of your own folly and rashness.

Letters are often times the only mode in which friends can convey their sentiments to each other, or merchants transact business of the utmost consequence. The safe delivery of them, therefore, is an object of great importance, and when they are discovered to be broke open, it certainly cannot be deemed criminal to give public notion thereof by way of caution to people of your occupation, and carriers in general. This was the only motive which induced me to publish my first advertisement. I believe most people who read it, considered it in that light, and could not discover the least reflection therein against any individual, or body of men. But it seems you were endowed with an extraordinary degree of penetration, and discovered an attack upon your integrity. In consequence of which you immediately set up your wit against me, and in the most courtly language have called upon me to make good a charge never exhibited against you, or any in your employment. But in complaisance to you, I will grant, you are more sagacious than your neighbours, and a charge against you was really intended. Permit me therefore to consider how far the subsequent state of facts will support it!

At Borden Town the fifth of January last I wrote two letters, one to Mr. John Imlay of New-York, the other to Mr. John Van Emburgh of New Brunswick, and delivered them at your house the evening of the same day to be conveyed by your stage. The first account I heard of them was from the gentlemen to whom they were directed. Mr. Van Emburgh informing me that he received his broke open, and Mr. Imlay acquainting me that a copy of his, instead of the original, had been sent to him. Upon this information I considered myself so villainously treated, and thought it a duty I owed to the public, for the reasons above urged, to publish the advertisement of the 7th of March, which made its appearance in Messrs. Bradford's paper of the 16th; the day before the publication of that paper you were in this city and read my advertisement in manuscript. - - - You returned home the day following, and twenty-four hours had scarce elapsed before it was made known you were in possession of Mr. Imlay's letter broke open; - - - Of this I soon received intelligence, and expected as you had seen the advertisement, you would have immediately dispatched the letter to him or me, with an account of the manner in which you obtained it; my expectations, however, were not answered, and I wrote you the following letter of March 22d, by your own stage, which having the usual passage, must have got to hand some time the next day.

Philadelphia, March 22, 1774.

SIR,

You would not have been troubled with a line from me, had I not been well informed that you are possessed of a letter written by me the fifth of January last, to Mr. John Imlay, of New-York, and the copy of another letter of the same date from me to Mr. John Van Emburgh, of New-Brunswick. Your virtue and honour are so well established, that without strong circumstantial evidence, it might be considered as a breach of charity in me to suppose that you obtained them in any other, than a fair and honourable way. Be this as it may, no pains shall be wanting on my part to drag the infamous scoundrel, who intercepted them, from his lurking place, and shew him to the world in his proper colours, in terror to other scoundrels of the like base principles.

"All I have at present to say to you is, that you will transmit these letters, and every other letter belonging to me, now in your hands, by the first opportunity: - - - And as this is a reasonable and legal requisition, I dare say, as an honest man you cannot hesitate to comply: - - - And further, as it is notorious you are a gentleman of nice honour, and must be struck with the turpitude of such a conduct as that of opening private letters - - - I am confident you will approve my design in endeavoring to discover the villain who could be guilty of so infamous a practice: - - - And in order to this cheerfully furnish me with the paper, which contained those letters, acquainting me at the same time in what manner you became possessed of them. I am,

your humble servant,

NATHANIEL LEWIS."

To JOSEPH BORDEN, Esq; in BORDEN-TOWN, per Stage.

To this letter you favoured me with the following answer, which was left at my store the 2d of April, by a person in your employ; and being elegantly and correctly composed, I shall give it to the public in the same dress you sent it, as it will serve to convince them, you were really the author of those lately addressed to me in print.

Borden-Town, March 26, 1774.

SIR,

"I received your letter of the 22 have only to inform you, you are imposed upon again, I have not, nor never had any letter or letters of yours to any other than myself, but your letter of January the 5th last, to John Imlay; this letter came under cover to me broken open from whome I know not; as soon as an opportunity offered I forwarded it to him.

To Mr. NATHANIEL LEWIS. in PHILADELPHIA.

It is necessary to observe here, that the day before the above answer was written, you wrote the following letter to Mr. Imlay, enclosing the one broke open, which he informs me did not get to hand until the 5th of April.

Borden-Town, March 25, 1774.

SIR,

"The enclosed letter came under cover to me a few days ago, broke open in the maner you se it. I conceive it to be your property, therefore inclose it to you.

JOSEPH BORDEN."

To Mr. JOHN IMLAY, NEW-YORK.

From this state of facts these questions naturally arise.

First. Suppose you obtained my letter to Mr. Imlay of the 5th of January in an honourable way, why did you not immediately upon the receipt of it dispatch it to him, instead of detaining it seven or eight days? You have said you did so, "as soon as an opportunity offered."*

Second. It appears that the answer written by you the 26th of March to my letter of the 22d, did not come to hand till the 2d of April; and the letter written by you the 25th of March to Mr. Imlay, enclosing the one broke open did not reach him till the 5th of April, what was the reason of such delays? Did you ante-date those letters, or did you keep them in your pocket several days after they were written before you sent them to us?

Third. Why did you not, in compliance with my request, transmit to one the letter written by me to Mr. Imlay and in your possession broke open, with the cover which enclosed it, as soon as you received my letter, in order to furnish me with a clew to discover the culprit?

Fourth. The letter in question was left at your house to be conveyed by your stage to Mr. Imlay, was it ever forwarded by you to him in the state it was delivered at your house? If it was, how came you afterwards by it broke open?

Having stated the facts, according to promise, I must take the liberty before I bid you adieu, to crave your opinion on the following observations. You have had the honour for some years past of holding the commission of Justice of the Peace for the county of Burlington. From your long experience and deep erudition in the law, you must be convinced of the difficulty of convict-

*This must certainly be a mistake, for if you will consider the time which intervened between the day it was known you were possessed of the letter in dispute, and the date of that you wrote to Mr. Imlay, you will find a day on which your own stage went for Amboy, when you might have sent it.

ing a culprit of such offences, which, from the very nature of the thing, are done in secret, and can only be discovered by circumstantial evidence.

Suppose, for instance, Jerry Switch should be suspected of stealing a piece of cassimer, the property of James Seekright your Worship issues a warrant to apprehend Jerry, who is brought before you for trial. The culprit pleads not guilty; but it appears that the said piece of cassimer, the property of Seekright, is lost by him, and found in the possession of Jerry, who gives no account in what manner he came by it: Would not your Worship direct the Jury to find Jerry guilty of the theft? And if they did, would not your Worship sentence the unfortunate rogue to the whipping post to be severely switched? But I will put a stronger case. The miller of Mansfield writes a letter to his friend, seals it up, and delivers it at the house of a certain stage-master in Lilliput-Town, to be conveyed by his stage; some time afterward the miller is informed that his letter did not get to hand, but is in the possession of the stage-master broke open. The miller publishes an advertisement (which was shewn in manuscript to the stage-master) complaining of the treatment he had met with, not reflecting on the Lilliput stage-master or any other person; in consequence of this, he is in hopes soon to hear from him, but is disappointed. He then writes a civil letter to him, requesting that he would transmit the letter broke open immediately with the cover which enclosed it, and give an account in what manner he became possessed of it. To this the miller receives no answer for eleven days, though the stage-master could have conveyed it to him in three; but when the answer came, it contained no more than that he (the stage-master) had forwarded the letter which was broke open to the miller's friend "as soon as an opportunity offered" viz. on the day before he wrote his answer to the miller, which was certainly not true, because he detained it seven or eight days, and could have dispatched it by his own stage sooner.

Suppose now your Worship was Chief-Justice in the Court of Honour, and the said stage-master should be brought to your bar to be tried upon the charge of breaking open the said letter? Would not your Worship expect he should give a fair and honest account - - - first, that he had faithfully sent the said letter by his stage without delay; secondly, that it was afterward returned to him under cover broke open; thirdly, that upon the receipt of it he immediately dispatched it to the miller or his friend with a satisfactory account when and how it came to his hand? - - - And if he did not satisfy your Worship as to these particulars, would you not be of opinion he ought to be convicted? If he was, wou'd you not impose such punishment on him as the laws of honour may inflict?

I have nothing to say at present to the little favourite of the Naiades of Billingsgate, except it to be observe, that he has wickedly and wantonly attacked a friend of mine who is in no way concerned in the dispute between you and me. I am confident the lawyer he has pointed at, deems him too insignificant a reptile for his notice, and when I mentioned to him my concern at his being traduced on my account, he calmly replied, "no matter, my friend, I shall not return reproach for reproach, my whole life, I hope, will give my enemies the lie."

It is time to finish this dispute. The public, no doubt, are of the same opinion. - - - I shall, therefore leave you at their respectable bar, where I sincerely hope it will appear that your rash conduct hath proceeded not so much from the depravity and malice of your heart, as from the weakness of your head. - - - For although I consider you but an impotent Antagonist, yet as you are an old man, and the father of a family, I could wish to find you in the paths of honour, and disdain to obtain a victory on the ruins of your reputation.

Mr. RIVINGTON,

You declare that your paper is impartial; as such, please to insert the following particulars, relative to the idle paragraphs in Mr. Gaine's Gazette of last Monday.

WHAT is the Committee of Observation? By whom were they appointed? and what authority had they to order Capt. Chambers, or any body else, to attend them at Mr. Francis's, or any other place whatsoever? Who says, and upon what authority does he say, that the sense of the city was asked, relatively, either to the sending away Capt. Lockyer, or the destruction of the tea on board the London? Has not every London Captain brought tea, under the same circumstances? And, if so, what were the Apostates that informed against the unfortunate man, who was threatened with DEATH, for obeying the laws of his country? Who were the persons of REPUTATION that were placed below to keep tally? saving ONE, who acted according to honour and principle. Let us know their names; or else we will dispute their pretensions. What did they get by conducting Captain Locker, in public, through the crowd; but a mortifying disgust, in finding he would not even pull off his hat, to the insulting huzzas of ALL the people? ALL indeed! when I am persuaded, that not one twentieth part joined in such outrage: tho' "the great- est number WERE collected at and near the Coffee-house that ever WAS known in THIS CITY. Marvellous indeed, —and utterly beyond belief! Much like the narrative, in the introduction to this noble and authentic history: wherein the historian informs us, that the “Nancey’s main-top-mast was sprung and the ship thrown on her beam ends;” or when he says, the tea on board the London was cast into the river, without doing any damage to the ship or CARGO. This too was undoubtedly effected to the joy of all the friends of liberty and HUMANE nature.

But, Mr. Printer, to end the matter, for the present,—who says that ALL the bells were run on this solemn occasion? when it is asserted, that several did not ring at all; and that several others did not ring but by means of fellows breaking into churches, where they had no business; and, for which they ought, and every good man hopes, so far as I know that they will be prosecuted, according to law.

I wish the printers of public chronicles would be cautious of disgracing their papers, by publishing party relations. While they adhere to matters of fact, ’tis all well; but when they expand their columns to either patriot or ministerial minions, without any known evidence,—nay, contrary to the truth of fact,—they must not, they cannot, they shall not hope to escape the animadversions of a lover of Constitutional Liberty; but a sworn foe to Cobblers and Taylors, so long as they take upon their everlasting and unmeasurable shoulders. the power of directing the loyal and sensible inhabitants of the CITY and PROVINCE of NEW-YORK.¹

Whereas a certain person who went by the name of John Russel, lately taught school in Remsen's Bush, in the county of Tryon, and province of New-York, and lodged some time in my house, and then run-away, and fraudulently took out of my house an obligation given me by Messrs. Hugh and Thomas Thompson, of West-New-Jersey, for the payment of the sum of 112l. 10s. light money, on the first day of May next; witnesses are John Mehelm, and Hannah his wife; which bond he has lately tendered to said Thompson, with a forged order from me, and demanded the money, saying, that all I had was consumed by fire, and that he was sent by me for the money; they suspecting the falsity of it, and the forgery of the order, refused payment. In order to prevent his imposing said bond on others, the subscriber desires all persons to be cautious not to take an assignment thereof, and if offer'd to any one it is requested that it may be stopped, as the said Thompson's will pay it to no other but me, and it can be of no service to any body else. - - - Said Russel is a pretty tall stout fellow, wears streight light brown hair, none on his temples, little or no beard, has been wounded in his right leg, and walks with his knees bending inwardly: He is an Irishman, and has lived sometime in New-England; and when he demanded the money in the Jerseys, he went by the name of Humphrey Thompson, and probably will continue that name, or change it to another.

TO BE SOLD,

By Philip French, At New Brunswick, East-New-Jersey.

A very valuable tract of land on Rariton River, East-New-Jersey, which fronts the said city of New-Brunswick; to describe its beauties and advantageous situation would be needless to a person that chooses to become a purchaser. On the premises are a very good fram'd house two stories high, four rooms on the first floor, a good cellar and kitchen under the house, a stone well, large barn, two stables for the reception of travellers horses and carriages; a very good stone quarry which is wrought with ease, hath been lately opened, affords a plenty of stone, which the neighbourhood must make use of when they build, as none other is so convenient. The post-road from New-York to Philadelphia hath long been laid through this farm, and the house occupied as a tavern and ferry-house. The right of ferriage from the Piscataway side to New-Brunswick, with the land containing about 130 acres of cleared, 50 acres of excellent timber, and 20 acres of fine meadow, all in good fence. The house and ferry only rents for 70l. per ann. - - - No seats on the Rariton hath a more agreeable situation for a gentleman that chooses to retire from the busy world. The land hath not been wrought for several years, being chiefly land in pasture, and the river affords an abundance of manure, so that it may be enriched with very little labour or expense.

Also, six hundred acres of excellent meadow, arable and woodland, about one mile distant from New-Brunswick; many fields have now fine crops of wheat and rye: It is plentifully watered in all seasons, the soil naturally strong, and the whole in good fence, bounded on a stream called the Mile Run. The post-road from New-Brunswick to Philadelphia runs through the tract, divides the counties of Middlesex and Somerset, in New-Jersey; about half of it lies in thrifty wood and timber, very handy to a market. As purchasers may offer, it will be sold altogether or in farms, as will best suit them.

All persons indebted to the estate of Lewis Chamberlin, Esq; late of Amwell, in the county of Hunterdon and western division of the province of New-Jersey, deceased, are desired to make immediate payment; and those that have any demands, to bring them properly proved that they may be paid by Dirick Sutphen, executor.

A JOURNAL OF TWO VISITS made to some Nations of Indians on the West Side of the River Ohio in the Years 1772 and 1773, by the Rev. David Jones, Minister of the Gospel at Freehold, in New Jersey. It is presumed that this performance will not be altogether unacceptable to the public, especially such as wish to be farther acquainted with our western world and the state of Indian affairs, nothing having appeared lately exhibiting such particular accounts concerning them. A description is given (according to the author's knowledge and best information) of our western country on the river Ohio for near four hundred miles below Fort Pitt: also of a large tract of the Indian country west of Ohio, on the rivers Sciota, Hock-hockin and Muskingam, which is thought to equal, if not exceed, any land in NORTH AMERICA: Together with a full account of the genius, government, customs, diversions and religion of the Indians, especially the Shawanese. Likewise, a particular narrative of the death, and some of the last words of the Rev. John Davis, A. M., who departed this life, at Ohio, December 13, 1772. This performance is printed on good paper, and a neat type, containing 90 pages in octavo. And as the edition is but small, the price will be 2s. 6, Pennsylvania currency. Allowance to be made to such as take a quantity. To be sold at Philadelphia, by the Rev. William Rogers, and Mr. Samuel Davis, hatter, at the corner of Christ-Church-Alley, in Third-Street; at Newark, in New-Castle county, by Hugh Glasford; at Baltimore, in Maryland, by Benjamin Griffith, merchant; at Burlington, by Isaac Collins, printer; at Bordentown, by Joseph Borden, Esq; and at New-York, by John Anderson, printer, on Beekman's Slip.

We think it necessary and proper to inform the public that the assertion in several late New-York and Philadelphia papers, relative to Capt. All's furnishing the marks and numbers of 18 chests of tea, as taken by him from Captain Chambers's cockets, was a mistake; as upon a strict enquiry into the matter, we are assured, that Capt. All never saw those cockets. The marks and numbers were taken by a gentleman not in the trade to Philadelphia, who communicated them to us.

TO BE SOLD AT PRIVATE SALE,

A Valuable Plantation, containing about 70 or 80 Acres of up-land, fresh and salt Meadow; situate in the Township of Woodbridge, on the Head of Crane Creek, which fences the East side of the same; it is well situate for a farmer, or a gentleman who inclines to a pleasant retirement, being handy to market, in view of every thing passing and repassing the Sound; lies within a quarter of a mile of the road leading from Elizabeth-Town to Amboy; but a mile distant from said city, two from Woodbridge, twelve from Brunswick, and about as far from Elizabeth-Town. Besides what is fenced by said creek, the remaining part, as it is no where exposed to any common or highway, consequently takes the less fence to inclose it; is in pretty good repair, sufficiently wooded, and conveniently watered; has on it a good dwelling house and barn, two old orchards, and a very thrifty young one. Also another lot, at a scant half mile's distance from said farm, containing about 20 acres, late the property of Zebulon Pike, deceased; which will be sold separately, or with the said Plantation, as will best suit the purchaser. For conditions of sale, apply to the subscriber living on the premises, who will give an indisputable title to the same.

TRENTON FERRY.

The subscribers, ever desirous of obliging the Public, and to give the utmost satisfaction in their power, even by a sacrifice of their own interest, and at a rate really not to be afforded, do hereby give this public notice and assurance, that from and after the first day of April, they will ferry all persons, horses, carriages, &c. upon the same terms, and at as low a rate and price, as any ferry within the distance of four miles on the river. The superior conveniences of the above ferry to any other on the river, both with respect to its direct situation on the great road between the cities of Philadelphia and New-York, nearer by a considerable distance than the ferry below, and narrower by upwards of one hundred yards, are all such inducements for the Public, joined with the sacrifice now made, as flatter the subscribers to hope for every preference from the generosity of the Public, which their readiness and intentions to oblige give them some right to expect, in favour of an old established ferry.

This may serve to inform the public, that the house on the north side of Staten-Island, late the property of Anthony W. Waters, deceased, is again opened as a tavern, and kept by Isaac Decker, at the sign of the King's arms, who has provided two good boats to ply between said place and New-York, in order to carry passengers; also a six oar barge that will go on any emergency in case of a calm: He also keeps a ferry across Kill Van Kull to Bergen, in order to oblige such gentlemen and ladies as chuse to go by way of Powles-Hook. There is a new convenient wharf erected where horses and carriages may be landed or taken on board at any time of tide with the greatest safety; it is needless to say anything as to the house or its situation, as 'it is beyond dispute, equal if not superior to any other in that way of business between Boston and South-Carolina, but as all new undertakings are attended with great difficulty, trouble and expence, he earnestly begs the public's patronage and favour, and they may rest assured, that he will not deceive them by promising more than he means to perform; he will only say, that he is determined to keep the best of liquors, eatables, and lodgings, and will endeavour to mend whatever may be found fault with; and as John Mersereau, one of the proprietors of the stage that drives from Powles-Hook to Philadelphia, hath quitted the old stage road and ferry, and now crosses the Kill at a new ferry erected by his brother Joshua Mersereau, Esq; (not through any fault that could be alledged against the roads, house and ferry, or the attendance given, but merely for the interest of his brother) it is the determined resolution of the proprietors of this place, to erect a new stage coach and waggon, to drive from this ferry to Philadelphia twice in a week; all gentlemen and ladies who chuse to travel this way, may be brought from New York, the evening before the stages set out, in the boats by able and skilful boatmen; and in place of being disturbed of their usual rest by being obliged to leave their beds at three or four o'clock in the morning, they may rest until seven or eight, have time for breakfast, and be still more forward on their journey than those who come by Powles-Hook. All gentlemen and ladies from the interior parts of the country, who chuse to spend some time in the heat of summer near the water, may be accommodated with elegant rooms, that command an extensive and agreeable prospect from their windows: They may also be supplied with everything that the market of New-York affords; and all kinds of shell and other fish usually met with in this country, may be taken before the door; the stables which he has, is not inferior to any public or private in America, where the best hay and oats will be provided: And all gentlemen and ladies who may find it most convenient by taking a passage in the boat, and leaving their horses and carriages, may depend upon the very best of usage. The public will also be pleased to observe, that the passage from New-York to this house is commonly made in the general way between one and two hours, and very often in less time, whoever will compare the list of roads in the almanack, will find they shall shorten the way to Philadelphia ten or twelve miles by coming this way, rather than by the way of Powles-Hook and Newark, and at a considerable less expence, but as the public will in a short time be able to judge with certainty which of the roads, ferries, and taverns, will be most convenient; it would be needless to say more than that all favours conferred, will be gratefully acknowledged by the public's most obedient and devoted humble servant,

ISAAC DECKER.

WHEREAS an advertisement appeared in the New-York Gazette: and the Weekly Mercury, No. 1177, signed with the name of Isaac Decker, setting forth great matters intended to be done by him in favour of travellers between Philadelphia and New-York; in which, among other things, it is asserted, that the subscriber hath quitted the old stage road and ferry merely for the interest of his brother, and now crosseth the kills, at a new ferry erected by his said brother; which advertisement the said Isaac Decker disowns, and hath denied himself to be the author of it. The subscriber, in his turn, denies the facts therein exhibited against him to be true; and alledgeth, that his reasons for crossing the Kills at the New Ferry were not merely for the interest of his brother. but were, 1st. because the distance from Woodbridge to Powles-Hook, crossing at said New Ferry, is shortened at least one mile. 2d. Because the road from said New Ferry, along Newark bay, from Bergen point, is much better than the old road through Bergen woods, the former being high and dry at all times, and very pleasant; the latter being very low, and generally wet, miry, and unpleasant in travelling, of which the subscriber hath sustained damages by the wear and breaking of his carriages, at least to the value of 100*l.* more than he probably would if he had used the other road. The facts contained in said advertisement, so far as relates to the subscriber, being entirely false, or at least mistaken, gives great room to suppose the others matters therein contained are not to be depended on.

Ran away, the 23d inst. (May) from the subscriber, at Manington, in Salem County, an Irish servant man named William O'Brian, about 27 years of age, 5 feet 9 or 10 inches high, well set, with strait hair, high eye-brows, a down look and low voice; had on when he went away, a dark claret coloured coatee, with waist-coat and breeches of the same, a coarse shirt, grey woollen stockings, old shoes with odd buckles, and an old hat. He served a time with Joseph Bullock, in Burlington County, and has since forfeited his freedom by getting in debt. It is supposed that he went away with one John Lloyd, of a sandy complexion, hoarse voice, and much the same height of the other. Whoever takes them up shall have five dollars for each, or the above reward for O'Brian alone, and reasonable charges, if he be secured so that his master may get him again.

Has served part of his time to a bloomer's trade. He has one or more brothers at Goshen, and it is most likely he has gone that way. Whoever will secure said lad so that his master may get him again, shall receive two pounds reward, and all reasonable charges, by me,

SALEM, May 21, 1774.

Whereas my wife Jane hath eloped from me, I therefore warn all persons not to trust her on my account, as I will pay no debts of her contracting from the date hereof.

THOMAS ROWELL.

From The New-York Gazette: and the Weekly Mercury, No. 1180, June 6, 1774.

On observing Mr. Gaine's paper of the 23d ult. I find an advertisement by John Mercereau, setting forth, among other falsehoods, that I had denied to be the author of an advertisement inserted in said paper, No. 1178, which I now declare to the public I never did, only said I did not write it, which is true: it was wrote by my order and directions, and when read to me was entirely to my satisfaction, and I carried it to the printer.

Mr. Mercereau has been pleased to inform the publick, that it was not merely to oblige his brother that he left the old road and ferry, but on account of the badness of the road, and the losses he had sustained by the damaging of his carriages: It is strange if this was the case, that at the time he taxed me with being the author of the advertisement, that he told me it was not for the interest of his brother, and to convince me, he said that he had offer'd Mr. Duffee and Mr. Smith 20s. more a year than any other of the ferries, which can be proved; and now in his advertisement he sets forth, that he has sustained a hundred pounds damages by using this road, which is a contradiction in itself; for, what person of any sense, would offer more for this road than any other, if he sustained a loss by using it. The publick may judge by this, whether it was for his brother's interest or not.

He also sets forth to the publick, that the new road is a mile shorter than the old, which is another falsehood, as Mr. Job Smith, and myself, on Wednesday the 25th ult. measured both the roads with a surveyors chain, and found the difference scarce a quarter of a mile. Another imposition upon the public we discovered while measuring, which was, that their mile posts were above a mile, and some a mile and a quarter distant from each other; and if the respectable publick will but consider the difference between the two ferries, in regard to their width, safety, and easiness to cross, they will find that two mile of the road will not make up the difference of the ferry.

Another thing the publick is to observe, that Mr. Lawrence has given leave to Mr. Mercereau to build a dock, which if built, and the boats land there, will make the old road considerably the shortest. Joshua Mercereau, Esq; has put forth on his hand board, that it is but nine miles and a half quarter from there to New-York, which is not true, as it is almost ten; besides the new road is so very heavy, hilly, sandy, and at least 25 or 26 wooden bridges in it, that it is enough to kill either man or horse that travels it.

As I am determined never to answer any more of Mr. Mercereau's rodomontadoes, I shall say as I said before, let the publick judge for themselves, and I shall strive to give all the satisfaction that is in my power to such gentlemen and ladies as will please to favour me with their custom, though new undertakings cannot be so compleat directly as those of a longer standing. Every thing will be put in the best order with the most convenient speed. The publick will be acquainted as soon as the stage is finished, which is now in hand, to ply between this and Philadelphia.

I am the Public's most obedient, humble servant,

ISAAC DECKER.

DAVID ROSS.

At a meeting of the Freeholders and inhabitants of the county of Essex, in the province of New-Jersey, at Newark, in the said county, on Saturday, the 11th June, 1774.

This meeting taking into serious consideration some late alarming measures, adopted by the British Parliament, for depriving his Majesty's American subjects of their undoubted and constitutional rights and privileges; and particularly, the act for blockading the port of Boston, which appears to them pregnant with the most dangerous consequences to all his Majesty's dominions in America, do unanimously resolve and agree:

1. That under the enjoyment of our constitutional privileges and immunities, we will ever cheerfully render all due obedience to the Crown of Great-Britain, as well as full faith and allegiance to his most gracious Majesty King George the Third; and do esteem a firm dependance on the mother country essential to our political security and happiness.

2. That the late act of Parliament relative to Boston, which so absolutely destroys every idea of safety and confidence, appears to us big with the most dangerous and alarming consequences; especially, as subversive of that very dependance, which we would earnestly wish to continue, as our best safeguard and protection: and that we conceive, every well-wisher to Great-Britain and her colonies is now loudly called upon to exert his utmost abilities, in promoting every loyal and prudential measure towards obtaining a repeal of the said act of Parliament, and all other subversive of the undoubted rights and liberties of his Majesty's American subjects.

3. That it is our unanimous opinion, that it would conduce to the restoration of the liberties of America, should the colonies enter into a joint agreement not to purchase or use any articles of British manufactory; and especially any commodities imported from the East-Indies, under such restrictions as may be agreed upon by a general congress of the said colonies hereafter to be appointed.

4. That this county will most readily and cheerfully join their brethren of the other counties in this province, in promoting such congress of deputies, to be sent from each of the colonies, in order to form a general plan of union, so that the measures to be pursued for the important ends in view may be uniform and firm; to which plan, when concluded upon, we do agree faithfully to adhere. And do now declare ourselves ready to send a committee to meet with those from the other counties, at such time and place as by them may be agreed upon, in order to elect proper persons to represent this province in the said general congress.

5. That the freeholders and inhabitants of the other counties in this province, be requested speedily to convene themselves together, to consider the present distressing state of our public affairs, and to correspond and consult with such other committees as may be appointed, as well as with our committee, who are hereby directed to correspond and consult with such other committees, as also with those of any other province; and particularly to meet with the said county committees, in order to nominate and appoint deputies to represent this province in general congress.

6. We do hereby unanimously request the following gentlemen to accept of that trust; and accordingly do appoint them our committee for the purposes aforesaid, viz. Stephen Crane, Henry Garliste, Joseph Riggs, William Livingston, William P. Smith, John De Hart, John Chetwood, Isaac Ogden and Elias Boudinot, Esquires.

BOSTON, June 20.

The present aspect of public affairs is highly favourable to the liberties of America. The whole continent seems inspired by one soul, and that soul a vigorous and determined one.

Virginia is all in motion; and Maryland has made amazing progress for the short space since they have taken this fresh alarm from the Boston port bill. - - -

Besides the doings of Annapolis and Baltimore, those of Chester are deserving our warmest acknowledgments. Subscription papers have been set on foot in that county, and considerable sums already subscribed for the relief of our poor in that devoted town. Philadelphia is following the generous example, as well as the Jerseys, New York and Connecticut. New Jersey is very forward, and are on the point of choosing their deputies for the Congress by a very regular method, viz. of meeting in towns and neighbourhoods, sending deputies from those meetings to county meetings, and others from those to a provincial one. - - -

NEW-YORK, July 4. | Thursday last the Brig Betsy, Capt. White, arrived at Elizabeth-Town, New-Jersey, from Jamaica, in whom came Passenger Capt. Archibald, of the first Battalion of the 60th Regiment of Royal Americans.

At a Meeting of the Freeholders and Inhabitants of the County of Bergen, in the Province of New Jersey, convened agreeable to Advertisement, at the Court-House of said County, on Saturday, the 25th of June, 1774. Peter Zabriskie, Esq; Chairman.

This meeting being deeply affected with the calamitous condition of the inhabitants of Boston, in the Province of Massachusetts Bay, in consequence of the late Act of Parliament for blocking up the Port of Boston; and considering the alarming tendency of the Act of the British Parliament for the purpose of raising a revenue in America. do resolve,

1st. That they think it their greatest happiness to live under the government of the illustrious House of Hanover, and that they will stedfastly and uniformly bear due and faithful allegiance to his Majesty King George the Third, under the enjoyment of their constitutional rights and privileges.

2d. That we conceive it to be our indubitable privilege to be taxed only by our own consent given by ourselves, or by our representatives; and that we consider the late Acts of Parliament declarative of their right to impose internal taxes on the subjects of America, as manifest encroachments on our natural rights and privileges as British subjects, and as inconsistent with the idea of an American Assembly or House of Representatives.

3d. That we will heartily unite with the Colony in choosing delegates to attend a general Congress from the several provinces of America, in order to consult on and determine some effectual method to be pursued for obtaining a repeal of the said Acts of Parliament, which appear to us evidently calculated to destroy that mutual harmony and dependence between Great Britain and her Colonies, which are the basis and support of both. And we do appoint Theunis Day [Dey], John Demarest, Peter Zabriskie, Cornelius Van Voarst, and John Zabriskie, jun, Esquires, to be a committee for corresponding with the committees of the other counties in this Province, and particularly to meet with the other county committees at New-Brunswick, or such other place as shall be agreed on, in order to elect delegates to attend at the General Congress of Delegates of the American Colonies for the purposes aforesaid.

From the New-York Journal; or the General Advertiser, No. 1646, July 7, 1774.

At a Meeting of the freeholders and inhabitants of the township of Lower Freehold, in the county of Monmouth, in New Jersey, on Monday the 6th Day of June, 1774, after notice given of the time, place and occasion of this meeting,

Resolved, that it is the unanimous opinion of this meeting, that the cause, in which the inhabitants of the town of Boston are now suffering, is the common cause of the whole continent of North America; and that, unless some general spirited measures, for the public safety, be speedily entered into, there is just reason to fear that every Province may in turn share the same fate with them; and that therefore it is highly incumbent on them all, to unite in some effectual means to obtain a repeal of the Boston Port Bill, and any other that may follow it, which shall be deemed subversive of the rights and privileges of free born Americans.

And that it is also the opinion of this meeting, that, in case it shall appear hereafter to be consistent with the general opinion of the trading towns, and the commercial part of our countrymen, that an entire stoppage of importation and exportation from and to Great Britain and the West Indies, until the said Port Bill and other Acts be repealed, will be really conducive to the safety and preservation of North America and her liberties, they will yield a cheerful acquiescence in the measure, and earnestly recommend the same to all their brethren in this Province.

Resolved moreover, that the inhabitants of this township will join in an association with the several towns in this county, and, in conjunction with them, with the several counties in the Province (if, as we doubt not, they see fit to accede to the proposal) in any measures, that may appear best adapted to the weal and safety of North America, and all her loyal Sons.

Ordered, that John Anderson, Esq; Messers. Peter Forman, Hendrick Smock, John Forman, and Asher Holmes, Capt. John Covenhoven, and Doctor Nathaniel Scudder, be a committee for this township, to join with those, who may be elected for the neighbouring townships or counties, to constitute a general committee for any purposes similar to those above mentioned; and that the gentlemen so appointed do immediately solicit a correspondence with the adjacent towns.

The freeholders and inhabitants of Hunterdon county, in the province of New-Jersey, convened by advertisement, at the house of John Ringo, in Amwell, in said county, on Friday the 8th July, 1774, Samuel Tucker, Esq; in the chair, came into the following resolutions, without a dissenting voice, viz.

1. We do most expressly declare, recognize and acknowledge his Majesty King George the Third to be the lawful and rightful King of Great-Britain, and all other his dominions, and that it is the indispensable duty of this Colony, under the enjoyment of our constitutional privileges and immunities, as being a part of his Majesty's dominions, always to bear faithful and true allegiance to his Majesty, and him to defend to the utmost of our power, against all attempts upon his person, crown and dignity.

2. That it is the undoubted, hereditary right of an English subject to give and grant what is absolutely his own, either by himself or his representative, and that the only lawful Representatives of the freemen of this Colony are the persons they elect to serve as members of the General Assembly thereof.

3. That any act of Parliament for the apprehending and carrying persons into another Colony, or to Great-Britain, to be tried for any crime, alledged to be committed within this Colony, or subjecting them to be tried by Commissioners, or any court constituted by act of Parliament, or otherwise, within this Colony, in a summary way, without a jury of the vicinage, is unconstitutional, and subversive of the rights and liberties of the free subjects of this Colony.

4. That it is our indispensable duty, which we owe to our King, our country, ourselves and our posterity, by all lawful ways and means in our power, to maintain, defend and preserve our loyalty, rights and liberties, and to transmit them inviolate to the latest generations; and that it is our fixed, determined and unalterable resolution faithfully to discharge this our bounden duty.

5. That it is our unanimous opinion, that it would conduce to the restoration of the liberties of America, should the Colonies enter into a joint agreement not to purchase or use any articles of British manufactory, nor any commodities imported from the East-Indies, under such restrictions, as may be agreed on by a general congress of delegates from all the Colonies, hereafter to be appointed.

6. That as the town of Boston is now suffering in the common cause of American freedom, it is the opinion of this meeting that subscriptions be hereafter opened in every town in this county, and the money subscribed to be applied towards the relief of the suffering poor in said town of Boston, until they may be relieved, by being restored to their just rights and privileges.

7. That this county will appoint a committee to meet the committees of the several counties of this Colony, at such time and place as may be agreed on, in order to elect and appoint delegates to represent this Colony at the General Congress, whose resolutions and determinations we will most strictly adhere to, and abide by. And we do hereby unanimously request the following gentlemen to accept of that trust, and do accordingly appoint them our Committee for the purpose aforesaid, viz. Samuel Tucker, John Mehelm, John Hart, Isaac Smith, Charles Coxe, Joachim Griggs, Benjamin Brearly, Abraham Hunt, and John Emley.

As we apprehend New-Brunswick is not so convenient to the members of the lower counties, and that all the counties will hardly have sufficient time to appoint their Committees by the 21st of July, with submission, we would propose Princeton, as most central, to be the place, and Thursday, the 11th of August, the time of meeting of the several Committees.

At a general meeting of the magistrates, lawyers, freeholders, and other respectable inhabitants of the county of Gloucester, in New-Jersey, held at the Court-house in the said county, July 18, 1774, the following resolutions were read, maturely considered, and unanimously agreed to.

ROBERT FRIEND PRICE, Esq; Chairman.

1. Resolved, nem. con. That Boston is now suffering in the common cause of all British America, and therefore merits the most speedy and effectual aid in the power of the whole to give.

2. Resolved, nem. con. That if the other colonies withhold their assistance, until Massachusetts is crushed and deprived of her liberty by the high and dangerous arm of Parliamentary power, now stretched forth over her for that purpose, they may, with good reason, expect soon to share the same fate.

3. Resolved, That we are of opinion, the most proper and effectual aid Massachusetts can receive from the other colonies would naturally and even necessarily, result from their coming into a total cessation of trade with Great-Britain and the British West-Indies, until the oppressive and arbitrary acts, under which she so heavily groans, are totally and effectually repealed, and the town of Boston restored to her ancient rights and privileges.—(The question being called, the resolution read, and upon a division a very large majority appeared in support of the same. It was passed).

4. Resolved, nem. con. That if we suffer the Parliament of Great-Britain to tax us without our consent, they may then establish over us, at our expence (which they would never be able to do at their own) a military force, sufficient completely to subject us to the arbitrary will of the Minister, or, in his own words, to lay us at his feet.

5. Resolved, nem. con. That we are of opinion, the measures are already begun, that will, step by step, at length fix us in this deplorable situation, unless we are virtuous enough to unite, and, at all events, keep the hand of the British Parliament out of our pockets.

6. Resolved, nem. con. That if there are any amongst us, so destitute of the generous extensive feelings of the human heart, so void of every true idea of the real advantages of liberty, or so sordidly attached to, what they may think, their present particular interest, or even so deluded with hopes of future promotion from those arbitrary invaders of our rights, in case they succeed against us, as to refuse to unite with their brethren in such lawful ways and means, as shall be generally deemed necessary effectually to guard our pockets against them, they will, to their eternal disgrace, demonstrate to the world, that they are really endowed with but a very small portion of the most lovely and noble qualities of the human mind. In short, such conduct will even disgrace the very form they bear, and cause their fellow men to blush, on beholding such meanness in creatures of their own shape.

7. Resolved, nem. con. That if we do not acquit ourselves like men on this important occasion, our truly generous and patriotic friends on the other side the water, will have just cause to be ashamed that they ever stood forth in our behalf. We shall demonstrate to them and the world, that we did not deserve their aid or friendship, that they did wrong in endeavouring to preserve us free, because we are only worthy to be slaves.

8. Resolved, nem. con. That as the fate of Boston must, under Providence, greatly depend upon the part the other Colonies shall take in this most important of all temporal causes, every day she is kept in suspense respecting [their resolutions], must be to her a day of great anxiety and keen distress; therefore, and as she is suffering bitterly from another quarter, and in the general cause, they seem to be in duty and honour bound to form their resolutions as speedy as possible. Unnecessary delays, in this case, would indeed be cruelty.

9. Resolved, nem. con. That if a general non-importation does not take place, we are of opinion that a general non-consumption ought; and in this public manner declare, that we are heartily disposed inflexibly to engage therein.

10. Resolved, nem. con. That we the inhabitants of Gloucester county aforesaid do, with pleasure and sincerity, profess and acknowledge ourselves to be truly loyal and dutiful subjects of George the Third, King of Great-Britain, &c. and that we will, to the utmost of our power, assist in carrying into execution any general, legal, well concerted measure, for the support and preservation of British liberty, in its genuine and primitive purity, throughout all these his extensive, and (till very lately) happy dominions in America.

11. Resolved, nem. con. That as a general Congress of Delegates from each respective Colony is proposed to be held at Philadelphia, in order to deliberate upon some general legal plan of opposition to the arbitrary measures of the British Parliament, lately devised, and now, with unexampled rigour, carrying into execution, manifestly with a design to overturn, and (if not prevented) totally lay waste all the ancient chartered forms of civil government throughout British America, and even, if possible, extirpate the very idea of liberty from these, our once free and happy regions; and as some of the counties in this province have, and others are preparing to appoint committees, to meet at some suitable place, to be agreed on for that purpose, in order to choose delegates to represent this Colony at the said general Congress, so we also, approving the said measure, do appoint Robert Friend Price, John Hinchman, Samuel Harrison, John Cooper, John Sparks, James Hinchman, Joseph Ellis, Samuel Clement, Joseph Hugg, Isaac Mickle, Joseph Morgan, Thomas Clark, and Isaac Tomlinson, to act as a Committee of Correspondence with the other Colonies, and who shall also have power to appoint a committee of three of their own Members to meet the committees of the other counties of this Province, to choose delegates to represent them, and that seven of the committee appointed shall be a sufficient number to transact business at all times.

12. Resolved, nem. con. That it will be proper, and it is the desire of this Meeting, that our said Committee do immediately set on foot a subscription for the relief of our suffering brethren in Boston; and that they also receive and appropriate the same, in such sort, as to them shall seem most likely to answer the benevolent purpose intended.

Signed, by Order of the Meeting,
ROBERT FRIEND PRICE, Chairman.

At a meeting of the Freeholders and other respectable inhabitants of the county of Salem, in New-Jersey, at the town of Salem, on Friday, the 15th of July instant, on account of the late alarming measures of the British Parliament, after due deliberation had thereon, the following resolves were unanimously agreed on.

GEORGE TRENCHARD, Esq; Chairman.

1. That fully sensible of the important advantages derived to us from a continuance of that harmony, confidence and connection, which, till of late has subsisted between the parent country and these Colonies, we, from inclination as well as duty, under the free enjoyment of our constitutional rights, liberties and privileges, will ever render all due obedience to the Crown of Great-Britain, as well as full faith and allegiance to our most gracious Sovereign King George the Third, and his Protestant successors.

2. That it gives us inexpressible grief, when we consider that the machinations of those, who would wish to destroy the liberties of this country, have so far prevailed against us, as to induce our most gracious Sovereign to believe, that we are wanting in affection for his person and government, and to give a sanction to laws respecting us, so contrary to the known humanity and goodness of his heart, so destructive of our rights and privileges as British subjects, and so manifestly tending to destroy that affection and dependance, which we sincerely wish to maintain.

3. That we conceive the Boston Port Bill, and the Bill for the impartial administration of justice, &c. in the Massachusetts-Bay, to be a most arbitrary exertion of tyranny over a free and loyal people, and of the most dangerous and alarming tendency, not only to that province in particular, but to all the British colonies in general; and therefore we think every well-wisher to the liberties of his country is now loudly called upon to promote, without delay, a firm union of all America, without which it will probably soon cease to be a country of freedom.

4. That this meeting think it their duty to declare, that they consider the acts of the British Parliament, for restraining the erecting slitting-mills, plating-mills, &c in America, an absolute infringement of the natural rights of the subject, and of an equal tendency to enslave America.

5. That we think a Congress of deputies, consisting of men of the first character in every province, in point of fortune, integrity and abilities, having full powers delegated to them to act for the good of the whole, will be the most probable and proper means of obtaining redress of our grievances, re-establishing, on a constitutional foundation, our rights and liberties, and of restoring that confidence and harmony so much wished for: And we now declare, that we will cheerfully co-operate in any general plan of union, that may be thought most conducive to the public good.

6. That a subscription be immediately set on foot for the relief of the poor of the town of Boston, now suffering under the operation of the Boston Port Bill; and the monies raised to be appropriated by the committee hereafter named, in such manner, as to them shall appear best calculated to answer the good purposes intended.

7. That this meeting do return their unfeigned thanks to those truly patriotic members of both Houses of Parliament, who have so warmly espoused the cause of American liberty.

8. That the following gentlemen, viz. Grant Gibbon, Benjamin Holme, George Trenchard, Andrew Sinnickson, Samuel Lynch, Elisha Bassett, John Mayhew, William Hancock, John Holme, Robert Johnson, Edward Keasbey, and John Carey, Esquires, and Messieurs William Goodwin, Bartholomew Wyatt, Nathaniel Hancock, Thomas Sinnickson, Dr. Samuel Dick, Robert Willson, Joseph Champneys, Thomas Carney, sen., Dr. Isaac Harris, and Benjamin Thompson, be a committee, to correspond with the other counties of this province, and with the Committees of the other provinces, and to transact all kinds of business in our behalf, which the urgent necessity of the times may require; and also to delegate a certain number of their body, to represent this county at the provincial meeting, at New-Brunswick, the 21st inst. in order to chuse deputies to represent this province at the General Congress. And that any nine of the above gentlemen met together be a committee to proceed on business.

Lastly, That the thanks of this meeting be given to the Chairman; for his attention to the public interest on the present occasion.

ISAAC MUKINS, Com. Clk.

We are assured, that the committees of the lower counties of New-Jersey, have agreed to meet the other committees, at Brunswick, on the 21st instant

At a meeting of a respectable body of the freeholders and inhabitants of the county of Morris, in the Province of East New-Jersey, at the Court-House in Morris Town, in the said county, on Monday, the twenty-seventh day of June, anno domini, 1774.

JACOB FORD, Esq; Chairman.

RESOLVED,

1st. That George the Third is lawful and rightful King of Great Britain, and all other his dominions and countries; and that as part of his dominions it is our duty not only to render unto him true faith and obedience, but also with our lives and fortunes to support and maintain the just dependance of these his Colonies upon the Crown of Great-Britain.

2nd. That it is our wish and desire, and we esteem it our greatest happiness and security to be governed by the laws of Great Britain; and that we will always chearfully submit to them as far as can be done consistently with the constitutional liberties and privileges of free-born Englishmen.

3d. That the late acts of Parliament for imposing taxes for the purposes of raising a revenue, in America, are oppressive and arbitrary; calculated to disturb the minds and alienate the affections of the colonists from their mother Country; are replete with ruin to both, and consequently that the authors and promoters of said acts or of such doctrines of the rights of taxing America, being in the Parliament of Great Britain, are, and should be deemed enemies to our King and happy constitution.

4th. That it is the opinion of this meeting, that the act of Parliament for shutting up the port of Boston is unconstitutional, injurious in its principles to the general cause of American freedom—particularly oppressive to the inhabitants of that town; and that therefore the people of Boston are considered by us as suffering in the general cause of America.

5th. That unanimity and firmness in the Colonies are the most effectual means to relieve our suffering brethren at Boston—to avert the dangers justly to be apprehended from that alarming act commonly stiled the Boston Port Bill, and to secure the invaded rights and privileges of America.

6th. That it is our opinion, that an agreement between the Colonies, not to purchase or use any articles imported from Great-Britain, or from the East-Indies, under such restrictions as may be agreed upon by the General Congress hereafter to be appointed by the Colonies, would be of service in procuring a repeal of those acts.

7th. That we will most chearfully join our brethren of the other counties in this province, in promoting an union of the colonies, by forming a General Congress of Deputies to be sent from each of the colonies: And do now declare ourselves ready to send a committee to meet with those from the other counties, at such time and place, as by them may be agreed upon, in order to elect proper persons to represent this province in the said Congress.

8th. That it is the request of this meeting, that the county committees, when met for the purposes aforesaid, do take into their serious consideration the propriety of setting on foot a subscription for the benefit of the sufferers at Boston, under the Boston Port Bill above-mentioned; the money arising from such subscription to be laid out as the committees so met shall think will best answer the ends proposed.

9th. That we will faithfully adhere to such regulations and restrictions as shall by the Members of said Congress be agreed upon, and judged most expedient for avoiding the calamities and procuring the benefits mentioned in the foregoing resolves.

10th. It is our request that the committee hereafter named do correspond and consult with such other committees as shall be appointed by the other counties in this province, and particularly that they meet with the said county committees in order to elect and appoint deputies to represent this province in General Congress.

11th. We do hereby desire the following Gentlemen to accept of that important trust; and accordingly do appoint them, our Committee for the purposes aforesaid. Jacob Ford, William Winds, Abraham Ogden, William D. Hart, Samuel Tuthill, Jonathan Stiles, John Carle, Philip V. Cortland, and Samuel Ogden, Esquires.

At a meeting of the freeholders and inhabitants of the County of Somerset, in New-Jersey, on Monday, the 4th of July, 1774, in their Court-House, after reasoning and deliberating upon the present alarming state of public affairs; the following resolutions were unanimously agreed to, viz.

I. Although all the members of this meeting, and they are persuaded the inhabitants of America in general, are firm and unshaken in their allegiance to his Majesty King George; and are entirely averse from breaking their connexion with the Island of Great Britain; yet they think it necessary to declare, that they agree fully in opinion with the many respectable bodies who have already published their sentiments, in declaring, that the unlimited right claimed by the British Parliament, in which we neither are nor can be represented, of making laws of every kind, to be binding upon the Colonies, particularly that of imposing taxes, whatever may be the name or form under which they are attempted to be introduced, is contrary to the spirit of the British constitution, and so inconsistent with Liberty, that we look upon it as our duty to oppose it by every lawful mean, and suffer the last extremity rather than submit to it.

II. We are of opinion, that the town of Boston, under the late severe and oppressive Act of Parliament for shutting up their Port, is suffering in the common cause of all America, and that therefore, that it is the duty and interest of the whole to agree without delay, to do everything in their power for its relief.

III. We concur with our brethren throughout the continent.

in thinking that the first step for this purpose should be a general meeting, or Congress, of Deputies, from all the Colonies, as soon as possible, at such place as shall seem most convenient; whose business it shall be to present a dutiful address to his Majesty King GEORGE, on the present interesting situation of affairs, as well as to make strict enquiry into the rights and liberties of America, and take all such measures as shall seem to them necessary for their preservation, and for promoting a general union and firmness through all the Colonies in this common cause.

IV. We are also well pleased that the Congress should be instructed to apply to the friends of liberty in Great-Britain, for their concurrence with us, as we doubt not but every person of a just and generous mind will soon perceive, that what we ask, is no more, than what equity entitles us to, and we cannot be deprived of, without the real prejudice of the whole empire.

V. We are of opinion, that the Assembly of our Colony, at their next meeting, should vote a sum of money to be sent to Boston, in provisions and necessities, or in such way as to them shall seem proper, for the relief of the many poor and helpless families in that place, deprived of every mean of subsistence by the late unprecedented Act of the British Parliament; and if this method should be found impracticable or too dilatory, we recommend, that relief shall be sent to them by private subscription, and will contribute for this purpose, according to our abilities.

VI. We do most heartily desire and recommend a general Non-Importation Agreement, to be entered into at such time, and regulated in such manner, as to the general Congress shall seem adviseable.

VII. We do also recommend a general Non-Consumption Agreement to be entered into at such time, and regulated in such manner, as to the general Congress shall seem proper.

VIII. To prevent the necessity of the county's meeting again, and to expedite the meeting of a general Congress, we resolve to appoint a committee, to meet when occasion may require, to correspond with the committee of the other counties, and to join with them in electing proper persons to represent this Colony in the proposed Congress, for which purpose the following gentlemen, viz. Hendrick Fisher, Esq; John Roy, Esq; the Rev. Doctor John Witherspoon, Peter Schenk, Esq; Jonathan Dickenson Sergeant. Esq; James Hude, Esq; Mr. Frederick Frelinghuysen, Mr. Enos Kelsey, and Abraham van Neste, Esq; are requested to be, and hereby are appointed our standing committee, whereof any five to be a sufficient number to act.

HENDRICK FISHER, Chairman;
F. FRELINGHUYSEN, Clerk.

July 21, 1774.

According to notice, which had been given to the freeholders and inhabitants of the county of Middlesex, in New Jersey, a great number, from every quarter of the county, met at the Court-House in New-Brunswick, on Friday, the 15th Instant, at 2 o'Clock and chose John Moores, Esq; to the Chair; but as the Court-House could not contain half the number, the meeting adjourned to the Presbyterian meeting house; where after some deliberation upon the dangerous situation of the public affairs in America; the meeting unanimously resolved as follows, viz.

Resolve 1st. That the members of this meeting, their fellow-subjects in this Province, and they are persuaded the inhabitants of America in general, are firm and unshaken in their allegiance to his Majesty King George the Third: That they have ever demonstrated their readiness to support his Majesty's Government over them, and also to grant Aids to his Majesty, on any emergency, by their own Representatives to the utmost of their Power.

2d. That all other modes of taxation, in the Colonies, by a British Parliament, under whatever name or form attempted to be introduced, is not only arbitrary and oppressive, but has a direct tendency to alienate the affections of the Colonies from the parent country; to widen the breach already made by ministerial influence, which it is earnestly wished, may speedily be healed, and a permanent Union re-established, on a solid constitutional foundation.

3d. That the unexampled distresses brought on the Colony of Massachusetts Bay, particularly that of blocking up the Port of Boston, and depriving them of all trade and commerce, in virtue of an act or acts of Parliament, is a cruel oppression, in which all the Colonies are intimately concerned; tending, by a numerous train of consequences, to fasten on them the chains of vassalage and slavery; or lay prostrate at the feet of an unjustly incensed ministry the inhabitants of this wide extended country, who would triumph over their liberties, sport with their lives, and claim their properties at will.

4th. We concur in the general opinion of our brethren, that the Congress of Deputies from the several Colonies, should present a dutiful Address to his Majesty, praying for a general redress of the grievances complained of.

5th. We are of opinion (which we submit to be considered in the General Congress) that a general stop of all imports and exports of merchandizes, especially to Great Britain, by all the Colonies, is the only probable, if not the only possible measure to preserve the liberties of this country, at present in such imminent danger of being annihilated.

6th. That an immediate subscription be set on foot, throughout this county, towards the relief of the suffering families in the town of Boston. For which purpose sundry gentlemen in the different townships and precincts of the county, are named and appointed to take in the same, and to make return of such subscriptions and collections to James Wilson, Esq; by the first day of September next, in order that such Collections may be sent to Boston as early as possible.

7th. We agree with our brethren of all the counties in this Province, in the method of choosing committees of correspondence, and also that such committees from the several counties, do meet, at a place convenient, by them to be agreed on, and when so met to elect proper persons to represent this Colony in the proposed Congress, for which purpose the following gentlemen, viz. John Moores, John Wetherill, John Johnston, Michael Field, William Pecke [Auke], James Wilson [Neilson], John Combs, jun. Jonathan Balding, William Smith, John Dennis and Rune Runyon, Esqrs. are requested to be, and are hereby appointed a standing Committee of Correspondence, and that any five of them are a sufficient number to act.

Signed by Order of the Meeting,

JOHN MOORES, Chairman.

Immediately after the meeting the members of the county committee present met, agreed to meet the Committees from the other Counties at New Brunswick, Thursday the 21st of July Instant.

From Rivington's New-York Gazetteer, No. 66, July 21, 1774.

At a meeting of a number of freeholders and inhabitants of the county of Sussex, in the province of New-Jersey, at the Court-House in New-Town, in the said County, on Saturday the 16th day of July, A. D. 1774. HUGH HUGHES, Esq; Chairman.

I. Resolved, That it is our duty to render true and faithful allegiance to George the Third, King of Great-Britain, and to support and maintain the just dependance of his colonies, upon the crown of Great Britain, under the enjoyment of our constitutional rights and privileges.

II. Resolved, That it is undoubtedly our right to be taxed only by our own consent, given by ourselves or our Representatives; and that the late Acts of Parliament, for imposing taxes for the purpose of raising a revenue in America, and the Act of Parliament for shutting up the Port of Boston are oppressive, unconstitutional tional, and injurious in their principles to American freedom; and that the Bostonians are considered by us as suffering in the general cause of America.

III. Resolved, That it is the opinion of this meeting, that firmness and unanimity in the Colonies, and an agreement not to use any articles imported from Great Britain or the East Indies, (under such restrictions as may be agreed upon by the general Congress here after to be appointed by the Colonies,) may be the most effectual means of averting the dangers that are justly apprehended, and securing the invaded rights and privileges of America.

IV. Resolved, That we will join with the greatest cheerfulness the other counties of this province, in sending a Committee to meet with those from the other counties, at such time and place as they shall appoint, in order to chuse proper persons to represent this province in a general Congress of Deputies, sent from each of the colonies.

V. That we will faithfully and strictly adhere to such regulations and restrictions as shall be agreed upon by the members of the said Congress, and that shall by them be judged expedient and beneficial to the good of the colonies.

VI. Resolved, That the Committee hereafter named, do correspond and consult with the Committees of the other counties in this province; and meet with them in order, to appoint deputies to represent this province in general Congress.

At a general meeting of the freeholders and other inhabitants of the city and county of Burlington at the Court-House, on Wednesday the 20th day of July, 1774.

ROBERT FIELD, Esq; in the Chair.

This meeting taking into serious consideration the alarming situation of North-America, from the fatal tendency and operation of several late acts of Parliament, and perceiving the necessity of entering into proper measures for the preservation of our rights and liberties, do unanimously resolve,

1st. That we approve of a general Congress of Deputies from the several Colonies, as the most likely mode for restoring harmony, and firmly establishing our constitutional privileges, and deem it expedient for this province to be there represented.

2nd. That we will cordially join with and support, as far as may be in our power, all legal resolutions, which may be adopted or recommended by the Congress, and particularly a non-importation agreement.

3d. That in order for a due representation of this province in the Congress, and for effecting the salutary public purposes intended, this meeting doth appoint James Kinsey, Thomas Polgreen Hewlings, Henry Paxson, Anthony Sykes, Joseph Borden, Robert Field, Isaac Pearson, Richard Smith and John Pope, to be a committee for the city and county of Burlington, to meet the committees appointed for the other counties in a provincial meeting, at the city of New-Brunswick, or any other place, hereby authorising those gentlemen, or any three of them, generally to take such proper steps upon this occasion as they in their discretion may think most conducive to the public welfare.

At a general meeting of the Committees of the several counties of the province of New Jersey, at New-Brunswick, on Thursday the 21st of July, 1774, and continued to the Saturday following. Present 72 Members.

STEPHEN CRANE, Chairman.

The Committees taking into their serious consideration, the dangerous and destructive nature of sundry acts of the British Parliament, with respect to the fundamental liberties of the American Colonies, conceive it their indispensable duty to bear their open testimony against them, and to concur with the other colonies in prosecuting all legal and necessary measures for obtaining their speedy repeals.—Therefore we unanimously agree in the following sentiments and resolutions:

1. We think it necessary to declare that the inhabitants of this province, (and we are confident the people of America in general,) are and ever have been firm and unshaken in their loyalty to his Majesty King George the Third; fast friends to the revolution settlement; and that they detest all thoughts of an independance on the crown of Great-Britain: Accordingly we do, in a most sincere and solemn manner, recognize and acknowledge his Majesty King George the Third, to be our lawful and rightful Sovereign; to whom, under his royal protection, in our fundamental rights and privileges, we owe, and will render all due faith and allegiance.

2. We think ourselves warranted, from the principles of our excellent constitution, to affirm, that the claim of the British Parliament (in which we neither are, nor can be represented) to make laws which shall be binding on the King's American subjects "in all cases whatsoever," and particularly for imposing taxes, for the purpose of raising a revenue in America, is unconstitutional and oppressive; and which we think ourselves bound, in duty to ourselves and our posterity, by all constitutional means in our powers to oppose.

3. We think the several late acts of Parliament for shutting up the Port of Boston, invading the charter rights of the province of the Massachusetts-Bay, and subjecting supposed offenders to be sent for trial to other colonies, or to Great-Britain; the sending over an armed force to carry the same into effect, and thereby reducing many thousands of innocent and loyal inhabitants to poverty and distress; are not only subversive of the undoubted rights of his Majesty's American subjects, but also repugnant to the common principles of humanity and justice.—Their proceedings, so violent in themselves, and so truly alarming to the other colonies, (many of which are equally exposed to ministerial vengeance) render it the indispensable duty of all, heartily to unite in the most proper measures to procure redress for their oppressed countrymen, now suffering in the common cause, and for the re-establishment of the constitutional rights of America, on a solid and permanent foundation.

4. To effect this important purpose, we conceive the most eligible method is to appoint a general Congress of commissioners of the respective colonies, who shall be empowered mutually to pledge, each to the rest, the public honour and faith of their constituent colonies, firmly and inviolably to adhere to the determinations of the Congress.

5. Resolved, That the grateful acknowledgments of this body are due to the noble and worthy patrons of constitutional liberty in the British Senate for their laudable efforts to avert the storm they beheld impending over a much injured colony, and in support of the just rights of the King's subjects in America.

6th. Resolved, That James Kinsey, William Livingston, John De Hart, Stephen Crane, and Richard Smith, or such of them as shall attend, be the Delegates to represent this province in the General Continental Congress, to be held in Philadelphia, on or about the first day of September next, to meet, consult and advise with the Deputies from the other colonies—and to determine upon all such prudent and lawful measures as may be judged most expedient for the Colonies immediately and unitedly to adopt, in order to obtain relief for an oppressed people, and the redress of our general grievances.

7th. Resolved, that we do earnestly recommend a general non-importation and a non-consumption agreement; to be entered into at such time, and regulated in such manner, as to the Congress shall appear most adviseable.

And Lastly. Resolved, That it appears to us to be a duty incumbent upon the good people of this province, to afford some immediate relief to the many suffering inhabitants of the town of Boston:—Therefore, the several County Committees do now engage, to set on foot and promote collections without delay, either by subscriptions or otherwise, throughout their respective Counties; and that they will remit the money arising from such subscription or any other benefactions that may be voluntarily made by their inhabitants, either to Boston or into the hands of James Neilson, John Dennis, William Ouche [Ouke], William [Abraham] Hunt, Samuel Tucker, Isaac Smith, Grant Gibbon, Thomas Sinnickson, and John Carey; whom we do hereby appoint our Committee for forwarding the same to Boston, in such way and manner, as they may be advised will best answer the benevolent purpose designed.

JOHN JACOB FAESH.

ELIZABETH-TOWN, July 15, 1774.

Last Tuesday died at his house in this place, after a short illness, Dr. Ichabod Burnet, in the 87th year of his age. For near 60 years he practised physic and surgery in this place with great reputation and success. His natural talents for that profession were indeed very uncommon; and he was peculiarly happy in possessing a firm, undaunted, yet tender, sympathetic mind. In his hands the most delicate constitution was safe, as he did not venture to sport with the lives of his patients; and by a judicious application of a few chosen medicines, he usually effected greater cures than others by their most pompous prescriptions. But he was more endeared to the public by his moderation in the article of charge, the good effects of which were felt not only by his own patients, for his brethren in this and the adjacent places were reduced to moderation by his example and influence with the people. Yesterday his corps, attended by a very large assembly, were brought into the first Presbyterian church in this Town, and a suitable sermon was preached by the Revd. Mr. Caldwell, from Psalms cxli, 9, He hath dispersed, he hath given to the poor. It was remarked at the funeral, that the age of the pall bearers together, made 604 years.

The Trustees of Queen's College, in New Jersey, are desired to take notice, that a meeting of said trustees is ordered to be held at New-Brunswick, on Tuesday the 23d of August inst. at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, and are desired to give their attendance accordingly.

JACOB R. HARDENBERGH, Clerk.

This is to forewarn all persons whatsoever, not to credit my wife Eunice, as I will pay no debts she may hereafter contract.

From Gloucester county we learn, that last Friday se'nnight they had a violent thunder-gust about noon, when the lightning set fire to a barn near Great Timber-creek, in the tenure of Josiah Sharpe, which, in a short time, was entirely consumed, together with all the grain, supposed about 300 bushels, belonging to said Sharpe, a light waggon, &c. but happily did no other damage, as he had turned out his horses before the gust came on. And the next day they had a great deal of rain, attended with very sharp lightning and hard thunder, when a barn in Waterford township, and a house in Haddonfield, were struck by the lightning, but did not receive any considerable damage.

MR. PRINTER.

If you think the following tends to promote the interest of America, please to give it a place in your weekly paper. B. N.

It seems now to be a matter past doubt, that there will be a general Congress of delegates from the several British colonies in America. A very important assembly it will be. The weal of America, yea and of Britain too, will very much depend upon their proceedings. Never in this country has more depended upon an assembly of men, than depends upon this. Liberty or oppression, if not abject slavery, depends upon the turn that things shall now take. The contest between Britain and the colonies runs high. Matters are now come to a crisis. Something must be done by America: And nothing considerable can be done till there is a general Congress. The eyes of all America will be on this Assembly. The provinces are ripe for doing something: They want to know what. How much depends upon the wisdom and integrity of these delegates! How fatal to us all, if by any means they give a wrong turn to our affairs! If they should not agree, so that the colonies might unite in some proper measure, America is undone; or at best thrown into the utmost confusion.

It should not be deemed arrogance, or presumption, for any person in a modest and rational manner, to suggest what is thought proper to be done at the general Congress. On the contrary, 'tis very desirable that numbers from various parts of our land, would impartially offer their sentiments on this head. The delegates must certainly desire to know the mind of the country in general. No rational man will think himself so well acquainted with our affairs, as that he cannot have a more full and better view of them. No human mind is capable of taking in all things: We by degrees obtain the knowledge which we have. No delegate, before he meets the rest should think he knows the state and interest of all the provinces, so fully and clearly as that he cannot know them better. No delegate should go with a full persuasion that he has so formed the proper plan of proceeding, as that he will by no means alter. Every wise man will alter for the better, as he sees opportunity. Yet 'tis very desirable that every member of that important assembly should have as general and complete a view of our affairs, and what is proper to be done, as he possibly can, before he meets in general Congress. And for this reason the more there is suggested in our public papers the better, if it is done in a becoming manner.

The delegates should go to the Congress with hearts deeply affected with the weight and vast importance of their business: with a proper concern, if not anxiety of mind, considering how much is depending, and how difficult it may be to determine matters in the best manner. Every wise man will have a modest diffidence as to his own abilities, in managing such arduous affairs. In this view, let it not be thought amiss, if I say, they should go to the great Congress with a proper dependance on the Father of Lights and Mercies, who gives wisdom liberally to those who ask him. And no doubt many will pray for them.

When the delegates are met, several things will lie before them, as matters of consideration, inquiry, or debate. Some of these will be matters of great importance, others of less. One important inquiry no doubt will be, in what manner shall we make our application to Great Britain? Shall we petition as humble supplicants? Or shall we insist on things as our right? Shall we apply for all that we deem our rights and privileges? Or only for relief in those matters that now press us? Shall our application be made by this general congress? Or shall this assembly only point out and advise what the several provincial Assemblies or Houses of Burgesses shall apply for?

Another considerable head of enquiry respects our trade. Shall we stop importation only, or shall we cease exportation also? Shall this extend only to Great Britain and Ireland, or shall it comprehend the West India islands? At what time shall this cessation begin? Shall we stop trade till we obtain what we think reasonable, and which will secure us for time to come; or shall it be only till we obtain relief in those particulars which now immediately oppress us. Shall we first apply for relief, and wait for an answer before we stop trade or shall we stop trade while we are making application?

'Tis the general voice of the colonies that we cannot submit to be taxed by the British Parliament; but we by no means refuse to bear our proper, a reasonable part in our public expences. [We ourselves being sole judges of the propriety and reasonableness of all requisitions that may be made, and of the mode of levying and applying all we shall think proper to raise.] If we can have all our natural privileges of trade, we are willing to bear our proper part of the burden of expences. We are willing to let Britain know this; we ought now to express our readiness to it. Therefore another important enquiry may be, in what manner shall we pay our part of the public national expence? This matter once settled, and our proper privileges, and natural rights of trade secured, then peace, most agreeable peace, is established between Britain and the colonies. Jealousies will be then removed, and cordial friendship continue. The mother country and her offspring colonies will then go on to prosper, and numerous blessings attend them both.—'Tis true this matter cannot be settled by the Congress, because it will be a work of time, and must be by mutual agreement between Britain and the colonies: Yet it may be highly expedient for the congress to consider this matter, and propose what may be proper for the several provincial Assemblies to offer or comply with. The several provinces ought to be agreed in this matter; and they cannot so well agree as by a general Congress.

Another enquiry among the delegates, no doubt will be, whether we shall offer to pay for the tea that has been destroyed? This should be freely and calmly debated. What will be proper in point of equity? What may be proper in point of prudence or expediency? What consequences will they in Britain draw from our offering to pay for it? In point of equity the following queries may take place. Was the act of Parliament that brought the tea here, an unconstitutional act, tending to produce the pernicious consequences that have flowed from it? Was the East India company previously warned by several members of Parliament, and told they would suffer loss by sending their tea here? Has not that unconstitutional act of Parliament, and the East India company's conduct, been the proper and unavoidable cause of ten times more danger to America, than the East India company have sustained? If the company must be made whole, is it not as reasonable that the expense should lie upon Britain as America, since a British Act was the faulty cause of it, and the destruction of the tea, was not the act of America, nor of particular cities, as such, but of mobs?

Some queries of less importance, may respect the mode of the delegates proceeding among themselves. Shall the Congress be open to all that can see or hear, or shall the delegates be by themselves? Shall they allow their debates to be taken down in short hand? Shall they keep minutes of their proceedings and votes, to be afterwards printed, as is done in provincial Assemblies, that the colonies may know how each member stood affected, and voted?

The delegates from the province ought to be the most hearty friends to America, men that will give up their own private interest for the public good, when these two come in competition. He that will not do this is no real friend to the public. This important assembly will be in danger from false or pretended friends. There are a few in almost every province, who, from one reason or other, would be glad to bring America to submit to the ministerial unconstitutional measures which we are now threatened with. If any of these persons, under disguise, should be sent to the Congress (as possibly some may) they will, under shew of friendship, try to embarrass and confound the measures proposed. They will act as Hushai did with Absalom. It may be difficult, sometimes in the Congress, to know whether a man opposes a proposition from a true regard to the good of his country, according to his view of things; or whether he does it to undermine the whole design. The members of this important assembly should not be too jealous of each other; that will destroy free debate. They must receive and treat one another as open hearted friends; but not be so off their guard as if they were certain there was no enemy among them.

Considering the vast importance of this Congress, the long train of most interesting consequences that may follow from their advice or determinations; considering the need they have of wisdom, as well as integrity, it might be proper for the several provinces to observe a day of fasting and prayer about the time that the delegates meet; and if the provinces as such do not, yet it may be proper for as many persons, or societies, as can, to do it. There are two reasons why this may be proper: First, because human wisdom comes down from the Father of lights and mercies, and human determinations are over-ruled by the great God, who is a prayer-hearing God. A greater statesman and politician than will meet in this convention, has left us this observation: "There are many devices in the heart of man, but the counsel of the Lord that shall stand." Secondly, in a political view, such a day of fasting would win people's attention to the importance of the intended congress, and fit them to receive, and be ready to act, upon the determinations of that important assembly.

If what I have offered should induce any friends to America to offer their sentiments upon the fore mentioned queries, or others of the like nature, and be a means, though in the least degree, to assist any of the delegates at the intended convention, it will be a sufficient compensation for what I have here done.

Good name in man or woman,
Is the immediate jewel of their souls.
Who steals my purse, steals trash; 'tis something—nothing,—
'Twas mine—'tis his—and has been slave to thousands;
But he who filches from me my good name,
Robs me of that, which not enriches him
And makes me poor indeed.

It is very cruel, at a time when a man is labouring to support himself by honest means, that persons whom he has never injured, should industriously propagate reports to his disadvantage; and the subscriber is very sorry to find, in a country which he so much esteems, many base people, who having heretofore profited by his imprudencies, now attempt to convert those imprudencies into crimes, and by the vilest methods strive to deprive him of the means of living. Under such circumstances he cannot be easy without assuring the public, that these persons are villains and secret assassins, who dare not look him in the face; nor without calling on the authors of sundry reports concerning him, whom he has not yet been able to discover, to make good their malicious aspersions, or desist from persecuting one who is not conscious of ever intentionally offending any. And he does hereby offer a reward of ten pounds to any person or persons who shall discover to conviction, the author or authors of such ill-natured reports now spreading, greatly to his prejudice, as well in the opinion of the public, as of those who have done him the honour to employ him in his profession.

"Why spiders threads have been seen floating in the air 300 feet high?" with this consolatory axiom, Cuius dolori remedium, est patientia.—Answer. The more anybody is comminuted or made small, the more its surface is extended. Perhaps a spider's thread has the greatest surface for its weight of any thing else. Now bodies swim in fluids in proportion to their surface, and when disengaged by winds or other accidents, float upon the lightest fluid, which is air, or according to Derham, are exhaled by the sun with other vapours.

Question by Mr. Morres of Stony Brook, New Jersey.—Required, the greatest cone and cylinder that can be inscribed in a spheroid generated by the rotation of a semi elipsis, upon its transverse diameter? And to shew the analytical investigation of the same, supposing the transverse and conjugate diameters—a and b respectively.

GENTLEMEN: The Gentlemen of the 47th regiment quartered at Elizabeth-Town, have desired me to express the sense they entertain of the high honour conferred on them, by the address I received from the Mayor, Aldermen, and Common Council, and to return their thanks for it. They consider themselves highly flattered, at their conduct meeting with the approbation of so respectable a body.

The pleasing society which they are happy to say they have enjoyed, with the principal gentlemen since their arrival here, must naturally be looked on as one of the chief causes of that harmony and unanimity which they are equally happy to observe, has subsisted between the rest of the inhabitants and the soldiers,—they quit that society with regret, and beg me to assure you, they shall always think on it with the greatest satisfaction.

NEW-JERSEY, 29th July, 1774.

To the Inhabitants of NEW-JERSEY.

Friends and Countrymen: We are involved in a dispute with the mother-country, that is of the most serious nature. It is now brought to a crisis, and upon our conduct at this time every thing will depend.

If we calmly view the controversy we shall find that both sides are wrong; the Parliament is carrying their authority or right of taxation farther than is consistent with the rights of the colonists; the colonists too far in denying all authority of Parliament.

To draw the line is difficult, but yet, I apprehend a calm, prudent and steady perseverance in what is right, not making extravagant and improper demands, will bring about a reconciliation. We have lost the distinction between internal and external taxation, and absurdly call every impost upon trade a taxation; but if we would restore words to their proper meaning, we should find that Taxes are certain portions of our estates taken from us by the legislative authority, for the public service, and are to be paid whether we will or not; that on the other hand Duties are certain rates, set on certain articles of luxury; and are either intended as prohibitions of those articles, and therefore laid high, or are set so low as to raise a revenue to the state, and are levied only on the consumer; so that under this species of taxation every person contributes as he pleases, but none are compelled; hence a wide difference in the taxes if we may with propriety call the last by that name.

The duty on Tea has raised this mighty contest, fomented I fear by men whose interest it is to discourage the trade with Britain for this article of luxury, because it will deprive them of their enormous gains in their trade with the Dutch, to whom they make no scruple to pay duties tho' their consciences will not permit them to pay any to the state that protects them, even while they are carrying on their destructive commerce.

Let us, my countrymen, be steady in our duty to Great-Britain, and at the same time that we carefully guard our liberties; let us not deny the authority of Parliament where it alone can have jurisdiction, and thereby break that bond of union, which has made the empire we belong to so great and glorious. In short, while we contend for our rights, let us not attempt to deprive them of theirs, by denying that we are bound by the acts of the British legislature, in laying duties upon any foreign articles imported to us; we in fact declare an independancy inconsistent with our interest, and with every idea of a colony, which in itself carries the idea of dependence. Instead therefore, my countrymen, of persisting in the absurd denial of the authority of Great-Britain, in imposing any duties upon Tea or other articles of luxury and foreign produce; let us endeavour to draw a line which will put an end to the present, and [prevent] future contests between us and the mother-country.

We are a part of a very great and powerful empire, and tho' from our great distance from the mother-country, we cannot be represented in Parliament, and have therefore a representation of our own; yet this doth not destroy or take away all authority of the mother-country, but only abridges its power in such instances, wherein from the nature of the thing it cannot be a complete judge. - - - Hence it follows naturally that it would be improper for Parliament to tax our estates, because they cannot know what sums we are able to pay, nor in what mode it would be proper to raise it, and therefore this should be left to our own Representatives: so on the other hand our jurisdictions are limited, and we cannot regulate trade or extend our authority to any matter out of our colonies; indeed, if we could we should from our situations, the different geniuses of the people of these colonies and many other things, never be able to pass laws that would be uniform (which they ought to be,) but our different interests would lead us to different regulations, inconsistent with the central good; our laws would clash and be often repugnant to those of the mother-country: hence it follows that the restraining and regulating trade by prohibitions, by duties, &c. must rest with the mother country, where only a universal and superintendant power can be lodged.

This then being a true state of our situation, instead of denying all authority in Parliament; let us contend warmly that our estates should be taxed only by our Representatives in General Assembly; let us acknowledge that as parts of one great empire, we are ready to support and maintain it by contributing our portion to the national expence, but that our own Representatives are the only judges of the mode of laying and raising the taxes for this purpose. That on the other hand Parliament from the nature and necessity of the thing, must and ought to have the right of regulating and restraining trade, and laying such duties (let it be for revenue or what it will) on articles of luxury and foreign growth and manufactures. With these sentiments, let us guard against the madness of some men, who are inflaming our minds and hurrying us into an open rupture with our mother-country. Let us instead of denying the authority in the mother-country instruct our Representatives in General-Assembly and those who shall meet in the intended General Congress, to use every means in their power to conciliate this dangerous controversy, to procure an exemption of our effects from Parliamentary taxation, and leave Parliament to a full exercise of their power as to laying duties and restraints on trade.

Should we thus distinguish between Internal and External taxation, and speedily make the proposal; so just and reasonable a request, we have the greatest reason to believe will not be denied: on the contrary, we may safely presume that his Majesty and his Ministers as well as Parliament will hearken to the justice of our request, and readily accept of our proposals. On the other hand think, my countrymen, of the danger attending an obstinate perseverance in so generally denying the authority of Parliament, that with the confusion it has and will introduce, we may in the heat and hurry of our spirits inflamed by men, who perhaps are without consequence but in times of tumult and disorder, be involved in the horrors of a civil war, and to the ruin of our liberty be compelled to submit by force.

JACOB G. BERGEN.

That the Public may be rightly informed concerning the drawing of the Delaware Lottery, for the disposal of the Earl of Stirling's lands, the following letters are inserted at the request of his Lordship, and the gentlemen formerly intended to be the managers of it.

NEW-JERSEY, August 14th, 1774.

GENTLEMEN: As I understand you continue to be of opinion that it is not advisable to draw the Delaware Lottery for the sale of lands belonging to me, from an apprehension that there are not a sufficient number of tickets sold to discharge the cash prizes, and the incumbrances by mortgages on some of the lands in the lottery, and that there may be a want of cash to discharge those incumbrances; and as I conceive that there is a sufficient number of tickets sold to enable me to pay off the cash prizes, and to discharge all the incumbrances, and am willing to take that risque on my own shoulders, intending if there is any deficiency to make it up out of my other estate: I can at present only give you my sincere and hearty thanks for the trouble I have hitherto given you, and must request the favour of you to revest me with the lands which I conveyed to you, for that purpose, hoping that after you have thus relinquished your agency in my affairs, you will find no objection to my proceeding to draw the lottery at my own risque, under the inspection of such a set of respectable gentlemen as I shall be able to prevail upon to attend the same, at Burlington's Island, where I purpose to begin the drawing it the latter end of this month. I am, Gentlemen,

Your most humble servant,

STIRLING.

To the Hon. William Smith, and Hugh Wallace, Esq. and John Harris Cruger, Charles M'Evers, Isaac Low, William Bayard, Anthony Van Dam, Leonard Lispenard and William M'Adam, Esquires.

Friday, August 19, 1774.

MY LORD, We had agreed to meet upon the notification of the speedy drawing of your Lottery, in Mr. Holt's paper of yesterday before your letter dated the 14th instant, came to hand.

When we received the deeds from you in Jersey, transferring the estates you proposed to vend by a lottery, according to the scheme which your Lordship had before concerted in that province, our only motive was to serve you; and therefore we can have no other objections to the re-conveyance you request, than such as arise from your having published our names as the managers of it. But since we were silent upon the publication of your scheme, it concerns us to inform the world of this alteration of your original design, that such as became adventurers upon the credit of our agency, may afterwards act at their pleasure; and we trust that your Lordship will take no offence at the immediate publication of your letter to us, and this answer to it. We wish your Lordship all the success you desire, and are, with great esteem,

Your Lordship's most obedient humble servants,

The schooner Mercy, Amaro Andre, late Master and Owner, is now in my possession, at Little-Egg Harbour river, in New-Jersey. This schooner was brought up the river by a Pilot, which Captain Fanning lately put on board, with one William Wood, who answers the description in Mr. Rivington's New-York paper, of the 18th instant, and who is committed to Gloucester county goal, on suspicion of having been concerned in the murder of Capt. Andre. I have taken an inventory of the effects on board the said schooner. Any person or persons, who are interested in the same, are hereby desired to come, and prove their property, and, by paying the charges, shall have the schooner and cargo delivered them by me. CASE.

The heirs of Thomas Davis sent a letter of attorney to James Derkinderen, of Philadelphia, empowering him to sell some Jersey rights, by way of public cant, to the highest and best bidder, &c. part of those rights were set up to sale, but through some improper discouragements no person would purchase. One Daniel Ellis made a private offer of £100 currency, for the whole, and, in order to give the purchaser the semblance of a public cant, some persons interested in the offer, or by their direction, made several sham bids, there being no public notice given.

"Upon the facts as above stated, and on consideration of the letter of attorney, I am of opinion, that the sale, under the above circumstances, is void, the words and meaning of the power not being pursued. NICHOLAS WALN, 17th of 7th month, 1772."

"As the estate belongs to the wife, and that the power of attorney is not acknowledged by her, in private examination, apart from her husband, it is not good, and the sale void.

JAMES KINSEY's opinion. May 2, 1772."

N. B. SAMUEL ELLIS.

From The New-York Journal; or, The General Advertiser, No. 1651, August 25, 1774.

NEW-JERSEY.

On Tuesday July 19th, 1774, a majority of the Committees from the several townships in the county of Monmouth, of the colony of New-Jersey, met according to appointment, at the Court-house at Freehold in said county; and appearing to have been regularly chosen and constituted by their respective townships, they unanimously agreed upon the propriety and expediency of electing a Committee, to represent the whole county at the approaching provincial Convention, to be held at the city of New-Brunswick, for the necessary purpose of constituting a delegation from this province, to the general Congress of the Colonies, and for all such other important purposes, as shall hereafter be found necessary.

They at the same time also recorded the following resolutions, determinations and opinions, which they wish to be transmitted to posterity, as an ample testimony of their loyalty to his British Majesty, of their firm attachment to the principles of the glorious Revolution, and their fixed and unalterable purpose, by every lawful means in their power, to maintain and defend themselves in the possession and enjoyment of those inestimable civil and religious privileges, which their forefathers, at the expense of so much blood and treasure, have established and handed down to them.

1. In the names and behalf of their constituents, the good and loyal inhabitants of the county of Monmouth, in the colony of New-Jersey, they do cheerfully and publicly proclaim their unshaken allegiance to the person and government of his most gracious Majesty King George the third, now on the British throne, and do acknowledge themselves bound at all times, and to the utmost exertion of their power to maintain his dignity and lawful Sovereignty in and over all his colonies in America; and that it is their most fervent desire and constant prayer, that, in a Protestant succession, the defendants of the illustrious House of Hanover, may continue to sway the British scepter to the latest posterity.

2. They do highly esteem and prize the happiness of being govern'd, and having their liberty and property secured to them by so excellent a system of laws as that of Great Britain, the best doubtless in the universe; and they will at all times cheerfully obey, and render every degree of assistance in their power, to the full and just execution of them: But at the same time will, with the greatest alacrity and resolution oppose any unwarrantable innovation in them, or any additions to, or alterations in the grand system, which may appear unconstitutional, and consequently inconsistent with the liberties and privileges of the descendants of free born American Britions.

3. As there has been for ages past a most happy union and uninterrupted connection between Great Britain and her colonies in America, they conceive their interests are now become so intimately blended together, and their mutual dependance upon each other to be at this time so delicately great, that they esteem every thing, which has a tendency to alienate affection, or disunite them in any degree, highly injurious to their common happiness, and directly calculated to produce a revolution, likely to prove in the end destructive to both; they do therefore heartily disclaim every idea of that spirit of independence which has of late, by some of our mistaken brethren on each side of the Atlantic, been so groundlessly and injuriously held up to the attention of the nation, as having through ambition possessed the breasts of the Americans: And moreover, they devoutly beseech the Supreme Disposer of all events graciously to incline the heart of our Sovereign, and all his Ministers to a kind and impartial investigation of the real sentiments and disposition of his truly loyal American subjects.

4. Notwithstanding many great men and able writers have employed their talents and pens in favour of the newly adopted mode of taxation in America, they are yet sensible of no convictive light being thrown upon the subject;—and therefore, although so august a body as that of the British Parliament is now actually endeavouring to enforce in a military way, the execution of some distressing edicts upon the capital of the Massachusetts colony, they do freely and solemnly declare, that in conscience they deem them, and all others that are, or ever may be framed upon the same principles, altogether unprecedented and unconstitutional, utterly inconsistent with the true original intention of Magna Charta, subversive of the just rights of freeborn Englishmen, agreeable and satisfactory only to the domestic and foreign enemies of our nation, and consequently pregnant with complicated ruin, and tending directly to the dissolution and destruction of the British empire.

5. As they on the one hand firmly believe, that the inhabitants of the Massachusetts colony in general, and those of the town of Boston in particular, are, to all intents and purposes as loyal subjects as any in all his Majesty's widely extended dominions; and on the other, that (altho' the present coercive and oppressive measures against them may have taken their rise in some part from the grossest and most cruel misrepresentation, both of their disposition and conduct) the blockade of that town is principally designed to lead the way in an attempt to execute a dreadful deep laid plan for enslaving all America. They are therefore clearly of opinion, that the Bostonians are now eminently suffering in the common cause of American freedom, and that their fate may probably prove decisive to this very extensive continent, and even to the whole British nation, and they do verily expect that, unless some general spirited measures for the public safety be speedily entered into, and steadily prosecuted, every other colony will soon in turn, feel the pernicious effects of the same detestable restrictions—Whence they earnestly entreat every rank, denomination, society and profession of their brethren, that laying aside all bigotry, and every party disposition, they do now universally concur in one generous and vigorous effort for the encouragement and support of their suffering friends, and in a resolute assertion of their birthright, liberties and privileges. In consequence of which they may reasonably expect a speedy repeal of all the arbitrary edicts respecting the Massachusetts government, and at the same time an effectual preclusion of any future attempts of the kind from the enemies of our happy constitution, either upon them, or any of their American brethren.

6. In case it shall hereafter appear to be consistent with the result of the deliberations of the general Congress, that an interruption, or entire cessation of commercial intercourse with Great Britain, and even (painful as it may be) with the West Indies, until said oppressive acts be repealed, and the liberties of America fully restored, stated and asserted, will on this deplorable emergency, be really necessary and conducive to the public good; they promise a ready acquiescence in the measure, and will recommend the same as far as their influence shall extend.

7. As a general Congress of Deputies from the several American Colonies is proposed to be held at Philadelphia some time in September next, they declare their entire approbation of the design, and think it the only rational method of evading those aggravated evils, which threaten to involve the whole continent in one general calamitous catastrophe. They are therefore met this day, vested with due authority from their respective constituents, to elect a Committee to represent this county of Monmouth, in any future necessary transactions respecting the cause of liberty, and especially to join the provincial Convention soon to be held at New Brunswick, for the purpose of nominating and constituting a number of Delegates, who in behalf of this Colony may steadily attend said general Congress, and faithfully serve the labouring cause of freedom;—and they have consequently chosen and deputed the following gentlemen to that important trust, viz. Edward Taylor, John Anderson, John Taylor, James Grover, and John Lawrence, Esqrs. Dr. Nathaniel Scudder, and Messrs. John Burrowes, John Covenhoven, Joseph Holmes, Josiah Holmes, and Edward Williams; Edward Taylor, Esq; being constituted Chairman, and any five of them a sufficient number to transact business;—and they do beseech and intreat, instruct and enjoin them to give their voice at said provincial Convention, for no persons but such, as they in good conscience from the best information shall verily believe to be amply qualified for so interesting a department; particularly that they be men highly approved for integrity, honesty and uprightness, faithfully attached to his Majesty's person and lawful government, well skilled in the principles of our excellent constitution, and steady assertors of all our civil and religious liberties.

8. As under the present operation of the Boston Port Bill, thousands of our respected brethren, in that town, must necessarily be reduced to great distress, they feel themselves affected with the sincerest sympathy and most cordial commiseration; and as they expect, under God, that the final deliverance of America will be owing in a great degree, to a continuance of their virtuous struggle, they esteem themselves bound in duty and interest, to afford them every assistance and alleviation in their power;—and they do now, in behalf of their constituents, declare their readiness to contribute to the relief of the suffering poor in that town;—therefore they request the several Committees of the counties when met, to take into their serious consideration the necessity and expediency of forwarding, under a sanction from them, subscriptions through every part of this colony for that truly humane and laudable purpose; and that a proper plan be concerted for laying out the product of such subscriptions to the best advantage, and afterwards transmitting it to Boston, in the safest and least expensive way.

[The conclusion of this we were compelled to take out, to make room for some other articles which could not be deferred.]

The Schooner Mercy, belonging to Capt. Amero Andre, of this Port, and of which he was Master, sailed from Tocomo, in Maryland, about a month since, with two seamen and boy on board, and had a sum of money in his chest: On the passage it seems the Captain had a dispute with his people, and the night following he was missing, whether drowned by accident, or murdered and thrown overboard is not known; however the schooner soon after fell in with Capt. Thomas Fanning, belonging to Connecticut, who gave them a navigator, but meeting with a heavy gale of wind, in which they lost one man, they put into Little-Egg Harbour, where William Wood, one of the crew, was apprehended, and committed to Gloucester Goal.

The inspectors of the drawing of this lottery are the Hon. To the Author of the lines,, in Mr. Rivington's Paper, on the Snake depicted in some of the American News-Papers.

That New-England's abus'd, and by sons of sedition,
Is granted without either prayer or petition.
And that "'tis a scandalous, saucy reflection,
That merits the soundest, severest correction,"
Is as readily granted. "How comes it to pass?"
Because she is pester'd with snakes in the grass;
Who by lying and cringing, and such like pretensions,
Get places once honoured, disgraced with pensions.
And you, Mr. Pensioner, instead of repentance,
(If I don't mistake you) have wrote your own sentence;
For by such Snakes as this, New-England's abused,
And the head of these serpents, "you know, should be bruised."

NEW-JERSEY.

*From The New-York Journal; or, The General Advertiser,
No. 1652, September 1, 1774.*

[The remainder of the proceedings of the Committees of the County of Monmouth, in the Colony of New-Jersey, omitted last week for want of room].

9. As we are now, by our Committee in this, in conjunction with those of the other Colonies, about to delegate to a number of our countrymen, a power equal to any wherewith human nature alone was ever invested; and as we firmly resolve to acquiesce in the issue of their deliberations, we do therefore earnestly intreat them, seriously and conscientiously to weigh the inexpressible importance of their arduous deportment, and fervently to solicit that direction and assistance in the discharge of their trust, which all the powers of humanity cannot afford them;—and we do humbly and devoutly beseech that God, in whose hand are the hearts of all flesh, and who ruleth them at his pleasure, graciously do infuse into the whole Congress a spirit of true wisdom, prudence and just moderation; and to direct them to such unanimous and happy conclusions, as shall terminate in his own honour and glory, the establishment of the Protestant succession of the illustrious House of Hanover, the mutual weal and advantage of Great Britain and all her dominions, and a just and permanent confirmation of the civil and religious liberties of America.—And now lastly, under the consideration of a bare possibility that the enemies of our constitution may yet succeed in a despotic triumph over us in this age, we do earnestly (should that prove the case) call upon all future generations, to renew the glorious struggle for liberty, as oft as Heaven shall afford them any probable means of success.

May this notification by some faithful record be handed down to the yet unborn descendents of Americans, that nothing but the most fatal necessity could have wrested the present inestimable enjoyments from their ancestors.—Let them universally inculcate upon their beloved offspring an investigation of those truths, respecting both civil and religious liberty, which have been so clearly and fully stated in this generation:—May they be carefully taught in all their schools, and may they never rest, until, through a Divine blessing upon their efforts; true freedom and liberty shall reign triumphant over the whole globe.

Signed by Order of the Committees.

Whereas Catharine, the daughter of Hugh Haggerty, of New-town, Sussex-county, East New-Jersey, left her parents in the month of November last, was then placed at Hackensack, where she learned the taylor's business; but being afflicted with the rheumatism went from thence the middle of March, giving out that she was going to consult a Doctor on Staten Island, but not having been heard of since that time, this advertisement is published in hopes of obtaining some information of her.—Therefore as her parents, inexpressibly unhappy, on account of her absence, are exceedingly anxious for her return, they give her this public assurance of their readiness to receive her with the utmost tenderness; and they also intreat those who may know where she now is, to communicate some tidings of her to the said Hugh Haggerty, or to the Printer.

TEN DOLLARS REWARD.

Ran away on the evening of the 28th of July last, from the subscriber in Londonderry township, Chester county, and province of Pennsylvania, an Irish servant man named Dennis M'Mullen, about 22 years of age, 5 feet 9 or 10 inches high, pretty well made, has short brown curling hair, smooth red face, and is fond of spiritous liquor; had on [Etc.]. He came with Capt. M'Cullugh from Ireland in May last, and has been seen in Philadelphia attempting to obtain a pass to travel into New-Jersey, or towards New-England, whither it is likely he will attempt to go. One John Mooney, a journeyman blacksmith, 'tis supposed went with him from Philadelphia, and will no doubt endeavour to represent him as a freeman, as they were countrymen and shipmates. Whoever takes up and secures said servant, so that his master may have him again, shall have the above Reward and reasonable charges, by applying to the subscriber, or to Daniel Montgomery, painter in Philadelphia.

WILLIAM MONTGOMERY.

From The New-York Gazette: and the Weekly Mercury, No. 1195, Sept. 5, 1774.

Two Gentlemen, one from Cumberland county, and the other from Gloucester county, arrived here since our last, and inform that on their journey hither, on Sunday night, the 14th ultimo, they lodged at the Rev. Samuel Peter's house, in Hebron, in Connecticut; and that about sunrise the next morning they were surprized by about 300 men who came to the house on horseback, about ten of which came into the house and informed Mrs. Peters that they were a committee chosen by the body of the people that waited without, to enquire whether he (Mr. Peters) had not wrote to England in a manner unfriendly to the rights and privileges of the colony? Mr. Peters declared to them that he had not wrote in such manner; whereupon they informed him that they expected he would show them the copies of such letters as he had wrote to the Society for propagating the gospel in foreign parts, and copies of such pieces as he had sent and procured to be printed in any of the common news-papers, or had prepared for the press; Mr. Peters perceiving the vengeance that seemed to sit on the brows of the formidable multitude that surrounded the house, thought it prudent to show them all such papers as they requested, and did do it; first reading them to the committee, then permitting the committee to peruse them themselves; after which our intelligencers were examined, to know whether several other letters from Mr. Peters, not shewn to the committee were not in their hands to carry to New-York? and they answered in the negative: the said committee declared themselves satisfied that Mr. Peters was innocent of the crimes he was suspected to be guilty of, and went to their brethren the mob, that surrounded the house, and reported that Mr. Peters was innocent; this was satisfactory to most of them. To the honour of the committee it may justly be said, that they treated Mr. Peters with as much civility as might any way be expected from men who had forgot that it is as indecent, unjust and cruel to terrify a British subject to such a degree, as to force him to lay open to public view his letters, &c. as it is by force and terror to extort from a man all the secrets of his family. Satisfied as this tumultuous people at first seemed to be with the report of their committee, yet they soon afterwards made a fresh demand, that Mr. Peters read to them a certain piece he had prepared for the press, which he did; the whole people now seemed satisfied; but soon after informed Mr. Peters that he must sign with his name at large the same piece, and deliver it to them, for them to print or suppress, as they should think best, on further consideration; and further, that he must give them under his hand, that he had not wrote nor did not intend to write to Great-Britain relating to the controversy between her and the colonies; all which Mr. Peters complied with. The mob now seemed quite satisfied, and a great majority of them mounted their horses to retire, thanking Mr. Peters for his civility, &c. but about the number of twenty of the mob, headed by one Hatch, and one White, tarried and insisted on Mr. Peters asking forgiveness, acknowledging his fault, &c. but as neither he nor a great majority of the people assembled could see that he had done any thing worthy of tar and feathers; he refused to do it; and after suffering much scurrility and abuse from Hatch, White, and their party; a considerable number of Mr. Peters's friends assembled, the appearance of whom struck such terror into Hatch, White and the other creatures that attended them, that they soon followed their more sensible friends, without administering to Mr. Peters, tar, feathers, or any other violence, though it had been for more than an hour every moment expected that he would feel the rage and fury of these twenty more than brutish people. O how dreadful is it for innocence to be arraigned at the bar of infernal furies!

What is very remarkable, this large body of people called themselves Sons of Liberty. O poor degenerate children! Such destroyers of liberty itself are a disgrace to their mother, if she is the goddess of Liberty. For doth not Liberty herself allow every man to enjoy his own sentiments? Doth not she allow him to enjoy his leisure hours in contemplation? Does she forbid him committing by ink to paper his thoughts. Does she deny him the privileges of looking back on his former thoughts committed to writing only for his own use? Does she justify others when they break the cabinet of her sins, and peep into their secrets? Are these burglarians her dutiful sons; or are they the destroyers of her family, the disgrace of their mother? Surely they are cursed children, to whom is reserved the blackness of darkness for ever.

CAPT. CLEVELAND.

Mr. Keys has this moment brought us the news, that the men of war and troops began to fire on the people last night at sunset at Boston; when a post was sent immediately off, to inform the country. He informs, that the artillery play'd all night; that the people were universally rallying from Boston as far as here, and desire all the assistance possible: The first was occasioned by the country's being robbed of their powder from Boston as far as Farmingham, and when found out, the persons that went to take them, were immediately fired on. Six of our number were killed the first shot, and a number wounded. Beg you will collect all the forces you can, and be on the march immediately, for the relief of Boston, and the people that way.

GARRET RAPALJE

Has for sale at his store opposite the Fly-Market, a quantity of shear'd wool, refined iron, warranted good; all sorts of steel, a parcel of castor and felt hats, and sundry sorts of dry goods. Also, the noted farm, late the property of Ryerson and Reading; about eighteen hundred acres of land in New-Jersey, called Squire's-Point, with a good grist mill, with two pair of stones, and sundry good improvements, sold on the most reasonable terms.

TO BE SOLD,

At public vendue, on Tuesday the 4th day of October next, at Rampough, in the township of Franklin, and county of Bergen, and in the eastern division of the province of East New-Jersey, about ten miles distant from Ringwood and Stirling, and 15 miles from a landing, and 20 from Hackensack, a very valuable farm, containing 93 acres, of the best land, either for tillage or pasturage; twenty acres of which are now mowable, yielding heavy burdens of English hay every season, and the whole well wooded and watered; being within good fence. On the premises are a new stone house, of a compleat structure, having four fire places, a good large cellar, and a well of the very best of water, that never fails in the driest seasons, close to the kitchen door. A new large framed barn, an orchard, of various kinds of fruit trees; and also one of the best grist-mills on the continent, with two run of stones, fed by a stream which has proved inexhaustible when most others failed; and all in good repair; the place itself being commodiously situated either for a gentleman, a merchant, or an inn-keeper, as nature has implanted pleasure and health in its level meads, environed by rivulets, and being in the midst of a populous country, with its conveniences renders it a profitable seat.

Also to be sold on said day on the premises, some male slaves, and a strong healthy female slave, all of unexceptionable character, together with horses, cows, sheep and hogs, with many other articles unnecessary to mention here. But as it is hardly prudent to believe all that is said in this respect to what merchants or millers have to vend; and from an apprehension that people may imagine that the premises are described above measure, the public are requested to come and view what is moveable or immoveable, on, or belonging to, the said premises, and in recompense for their curiosity, they may have the conditions of payment made known to them, and an indisputable title shewn, by

THOMAS BOGGS, Living on the premises.

Sept. 1, 1774.

Whereas John Ludeman, of Newark, my supposed husband, has advertised and exposed me in the public news-papers, accusing me with leaving his bed, whereunto I declare the same to be a wilful lie, because I never was bedded by him, it is true I parted from him for the following reasons:

I. He is a liar and a drunkard, and keeping company with those, who, with their flattery to gratify their vicious and drunken appetites, have instilled the spirit of jealousy into his breast, and by reason of his inability to perform the duties of a husband to a wife in the marriage bed, confirmed the same jealousy to be true, and therefore I was ill-treated by him.

II. The unnatural and beastly usage wherewith I was used from the time we were married till now, I thought it proper and lawful for me to part, to avoid future miseries, and the scandal which threatened me. I therefore disclaim all right and title to him as a husband, and likewise free him from all obligations to me as a wife. I shall not trouble his credit, because no body will trust him without an order from Mr. Ogden, I shall only content myself with getting rid of so vile, base, treacherous, unnatural, beastly and drunken fool.

N. B. The above declaration I shall at my return from New-England [to] Newark confirm the same with an oath, and I beg the charity of the public to pardon and justify the indecency of my expressions, the injuries which my unblemished character is like to sustain by a diabolical society, compels me to it, which if otherwise, I should forbear, and I hope all those who are interested in virtue, especially my relations, who are many and credible, will, by their faithful endeavours, and for the sake of their honours, espouse my innocent cause, and avenge my injuries, which call aloud for vengeance, and bring him to public shame.

FRIENDS AND COUNTRYMEN :

In a late address to you, I have endeavored to distinguish between Taxes and Duties; that the former ought to be imposed on our estates, by our own Representatives, that the latter cannot be properly laid by any authority, but that of Great Britain.

That we are a part of the great British Empire, and without losing every idea of a Colony, we cannot claim an exemption from duties and restraints on trade; I now beg leave to add, that this country was settled for the sole purposes of trade, and an absolute submission to the laws of the mother country, in paying customs and duties, was one of the terms our forefathers settled under. When we consider the design in planting colonies, we should not be too fond of our own opinions, but hearken to those men who have made this subject their study, and examined it fully: The great author of the Spirit of Laws, often quoted by our political writers, has given us not only his own sentiments, but the policy in Europe of making these settlements: speaking of colonies in his second vol., book 21st. c. 17, he says, "The colonies they (the European nations) have formed, are under a kind of dependence, of which there is scarcely an instance in all the colonies of the antients; whether we consider them as holding of the state itself, or of some trading company established in the state."

Again, "The design of these colonies is to trade on more advantageous conditions than could otherwise be done with the neighbouring people, with whom all advantages are reciprocal. It has been established, that the Metropolis* alone shall trade in the colonies, and that from very good reason; because the design of the settlement was the extension of commerce, not the foundation of a new city, or a new empire. Thus it is a fundamental law of Europe, that all commerce with a foreign colony shall be regarded as a mere monopoly punishable by the laws of the country."

No man can read these sentiments without perceiving the good policy upon which they are founded; for us to judge rightly of them, we should divest ourselves of those opinions we have been taught to entertain, and that ideal notion of empire, which some men among us who have "no grace but what is founded in dominion," have been but too successful in propagating. When we do this the force of this authors sentiments will appear strongly to us, and if not fully convinced by them, we shall become so, when we reflect that one of the conditions of our forefathers emigrating to this colony, or rather having leave to do so, was among others, that, "in managing and carrying on trade with the people there, and in passing and returning to and fro," the colony "should yield and pay to us our heirs and successors, the customs and duties therefore due and payable, according to the laws and customs of this our realm."

These are the words of the first grant of this colony, made by Charles the second, and by the laws of trade passed in this king's reign, which are looked upon as the palladium of British commerce as well as other acts, the British legislature have always made the trade of the colonies their object, and ever kept in view the first intention of settling them: under these laws our forefathers settled and improved their plantations, under them, they and we ourselves have happily lived and enjoyed all the liberty that men could or can wish, and may yet do it, if we will refuse to hearken to the sedition, nay treason that is daily buzzed into our ears, by men, who do not design our happiness, but only study their own emolument. They tell us we are cramped in our trade, and that if we permit this duty another will follow, and another, until we are ruined and deprived of all liberty.

If we, my countrymen, have not a free trade with every nation; remember that our forefathers settled here with this restraint, and that we are no losers by it, for in return we have been, and now are "visibly compensated by the protection of the mother country," who has, and yet doth defend us, "by her arms, or supports us by her laws;" besides, my countrymen, as trade is the object of the mother country, we should remember, that it is not her interest to destroy it, she will rather encourage it; it is true that duties will be laid for revenue or prohibition, but these will never be calculated to destroy trade, but to encourage beneficial and destroy destructive commerce, by which the smuggler will be restrained, and the fair trader enjoy the fruits of his industry and honesty. But what right have we to enter into a quarrel about it? Let us remember our duty to the parent state, the terms on which our forefathers settled, lived and prospered, under which we ourselves have grown rich, and lived happily. Let us request the parent state to leave the taxation of our estates to our own representatives, and without a doubt we may rely that Great Britain will never abridge us of our liberties, while we act within the sphere of our duty, and pursue not measures destructive of her commerce, and bid defiance to her laws. I have hope (I wish I could say more) that the intended Congress will be productive of good to the colonies, should they calmly and without prejudice enter into a consideration of the dispute with the mother country, they have it in their power to preserve our liberties, and restore harmony between the colonies and mother state, but should they listen to, and be governed by the folly of the times, and think that these colonies were not planted nor protected for the extension of commerce, but for a new empire; then will our once happy country become a scene of blood and destruction, we can have no recourse but to arms, and alas, how shall we face the force of our mother country in the day of trial, when roused by our repeated insults, and enraged by our avowed declarations against her authority, her fleets and armies, siege our cities, stop our trade, and we, by conquest, are reduced to a state, our mother country will even grieve to see. The farmers in and about Allen-Town and Freehold, New-Jersey, having opened a subscription for the relief of Boston, in a very short time collected as much grain as loaded a sloop, which sailed from Elizabeth-Town Point last week for Salem.

PHILADELPHIA.

Notwithstanding the eight Regiments, now at Boston, the General has thought proper to remove the Royal Irish from the city to Amboy, and (it is supposed) from thence to Boston, as well as two Regiments from Quebec, and it is said the troops in New-York and New-Jersey are to move that way in a short time; after which, if Gen. Gage thinks his army strong enough, he will rob the Americans of their lives or liberties.

On Sunday and Monday last, eight Companies of the Royal Regiment of Ireland, marched from hence in two divisions for Amboy and Elizabeth-Town;—The other two Companies being on the Mississippi. We have the pleasure in doing this Regiment the justice to declare, that both officers and soldiers observed the strictest attention to good order and harmony; and notwithstanding there have been constantly some Companies of the Regiment here for seven years, they gave general satisfaction to this peaceable and loyal city.

NEWARK, September 17, 1774.

This day was buried, in the 19th year of his age, Mr. John Evans, son of John Evans, Esq; his funeral was attended by Clergymen of different denominations, and a great number of respectable people. The body was deposited in the Baptist grave-yard at Welsh Tract, and a funeral oration made over it by the Rev. Morgan Edwards. The scene was truly mournful, by reason partly of the unaffected grief painted in the countenances of relations and acquaintances, and partly by the distress of the parents, who lost a son that had greatly endeared himself to their affections, by a dutiful and pretty behaviour, and that had raised high their expectations of his acting in life with propriety and honour, for which he stood qualified, by a good understanding, benign temper, and a liberal education.

By an advertisement lately inserted in Mr. Gaine's Weekly Mercury, it appears, that William M'Donald, sheriff of Somerset county, in the province of East-New-Jersey, by virtue of several writs of fieri facias to him directed and delivered, against the goods and chattels, lands and tenements of Cornelius Van Horne, deceased, had seized and taken the farm or plantation whereon the said Cornelius Van Horne formerly lived, lying on Rariton River, in the said county of Somerset; containing, by estimation, about 1400 acres of land, with the dwelling-house and improvements thereon; and that he should expose the same to sale, at publick vendue, on the premises, the first day of November next, ensuing. Public notice is hereby given for the information of those persons who intend to become purchasers, that the said farm or plantation of the said Cornelius Van Horne, is now the property of the subscribers, and was so prior to any of the judgments on which the above mentioned executions issued; should any persons therefore purchase the same after this notice, and obtain the possession in consequence of such purchase, they may be assured that suit or suits will be immediately commenced for the recovery of the same, by

NEW-BRUNSWICK, October 14th, 1774.

Mr. Matthew Light [Leydt], of New-Brunswick, was the only candidate for the degree of Batchelor of Arts, who delivered orations in Latin, Dutch and English with high applause.

In the afternoon Mr. David Annan, Mr. Jasper Farmer, Mr. James Schurman, Mr. John Van Dike, and Mr. Samuel Vickers, all of the present Senior Class, spoke with gracefulness and propriety on various subjects.

A number of ladies and gentlemen of this town between the exercises entertained the audience with excellent vocal music, and the whole was conducted in a manner that gave satisfaction to a very numerous and respectable assembly.

On Friday preceding the Commencement the Grammar School here was examined, and six of the students were admitted to the Freshmen Class in College.

PHILADELPHIA, October 19. | Last Wednesday the Corporation of the City of Burlington gave his Excellency Governor Franklin an entertainment, before his removal to Perth Amboy, and on Thursday morning presented the following address.

May it please your Excellency.

The Corporation of this city take the liberty of waiting on you to express their regard, and thank your Excellency for that kind deportment and courtesy, which you have shewn them during your stay in Burlington.

We assure you, Sir, that it is with deep concern we think on your departure, both for the affection we bear your Excellency, and for the benefits that we should reap, had this city been continued the seat of government.

We most sincerely wish you and your good lady every happiness that you have in view, and assure you, Sir, that if your inclination should again favour us with your residence here, we shall feel the most sensible satisfaction.

To which his Excellency was pleased to return the following answer.

BURLINGTON, Tenth-Month 17, 1774.

In looking over the last Gazette I noticed an advertisement, signed by Baldwin Wake, in which he describes a certain negroe, named Frank, who lately departed his service at Franklin Park, near Burlington, and calls him his slave. As I know the negroe to be only an indented servant, it becomes my duty (in behalf of a fellow-man, though black) thus publicly to say so, that no person may be induced to purchase him as a slave. Let no one think me wrong on the master's producing a bill of sale for the negroe; it is well known that after he had made the purchase, and after the negroe, upon soon leaving him, was brought back and put into goal, he was so far satisfied that Davan (of whom he bought him) was an impostor, and the negroe not a slave, that he laid aside his bill of sale as indefensible, and having promised the negroe to set him free, on obtaining his money and damages from Davan, or to pay the negroe a certain sum of money for his service, he prevailed on him to execute an indenture for seven years. This Wake himself informed me, and on my mentioning to him, that the bill of sale being founded in wrong ought to be destroyed, he expressly declared that he should not look upon the negroe any more as a slave, but it was necessary to keep the bill of sale, in order to support his remedy against the villain who had committed the fraud. I have no interest in thus appearing to oppose the claim of a neighbour, but, as I have said, the motives of common duty in defence of the rights of mankind, and should have been glad the advertisement had appeared in other terms agreeable to the truth, which would have saved me this trouble. I know little of the negroe's disposition; he may be vicious; I have been told he is laborious, and at times foolish and weak in his understanding. Unjustly held in the servile state of slavery from youth until after the years of manhood (when his liberty was asserted and obtained) without education or example to polish his mind, or stimulate to virtuous actions, it is not so much a matter of wonder that his conduct should be irregular; which indeed is no more than a natural consequence of slavery. But surely all will agree, that running from his masters (which the advertisement mentions, and which is the greatest fault I have known charged against him before now) is not a sufficient cause to make a fellow-man a perpetual slave; for if it may be extended to one, it may to all; and if we can bear in silence to see this practised upon others, why are we complaining of its imposition, though in much less degree upon ourselves.

Whoever secures the said servant, so that he may be had again, or brings him to the subscriber, shall be entitled to the reward of three pounds and reasonable charges.

EXTRACTS FROM THE VOTES AND PROCEEDINGS

Of the American Continental Congress, held at Philadelphia on the 5th of September, 1774. Published by order of the Congress, Friday, October 14, 1774.

The Congress came into the following Resolutions.

The good people of the several colonies of New Hampshire, Massachusetts-Bay, Rhode-Island and Providence plantations, Connecticut, New-York, New-Jersey, Pennsylvania, New-Castle, Kent, and Sussex on Delaware, Maryland, Virginia, North-Carolina, and South-Carolina, justly alarmed at these arbitrary proceedings of Parliament and administration, have severally elected, constituted, and appointed deputies to meet and sit in General Congress in the city of Philadelphia, in order to obtain such establishment, as that their religion, laws, and liberties may not be subverted: Whereupon the deputies so appointed being now assembled, in a full and free representation of these colonies, taking into their most serious consideration the best means of attaining the ends aforesaid, do in the first place, as Englishmen their ancestors in like cases have usually done, for asserting and vindicating their rights and liberties, declare,

THE ASSOCIATION, &c.

We his Majesty's most loyal subjects, the delegates of the several colonies of New-Hampshire, Massachusetts-Bay, Rhode-Island, Connecticut, New-York, New-Jersey, Pennsylvania, the three lower counties of New-Castle, Kent, and Sussex, on Delaware, Maryland, Virginia, North-Carolina, and South-Carolina, deputed to represent them in a continental Congress, held in the city of Philadelphia, on the fifth day of September, 1774, avowing our allegiance to his Majesty, our affection and regard for our fellow subjects in Great-Britain and elsewhere, affected with the deepest anxiety, and most alarming apprehensions at those grievances and distresses, with which his Majesty's American subjects are oppressed, and having taken under our most serious deliberation, the state of the whole continent, find, that the present unhappy situation of our affairs, is occasioned by a ruinous system of colony administration adopted by the British ministry about the year 1763, evidently calculated for enslaving these colonies, and, with them, the British empire. - - -

The foregoing association being determined upon by the Congress, was ordered to be subscribed by the several Members thereof; and thereupon we have hereunto set our respective names accordingly.

AN EPISTLE FROM OUR YEARLY-MEETING, held at Philadelphia, for Pennsylvania and New-Jersey, by Adjournments, from the 24th Day of the 9th Month, to the 1st of the 10th Month, inclusive, 1774.

To our Friends and Brethren in these and the neighboring Provinces.

BELOVED FRIENDS, The Lord, the Master of our assemblies, having been graciously pleased to favour us in this our solemn assembly with the renewings of his love, and united us in a fervent concern for the edification of each other "in the faith which overcometh the world," (1 John 5, 4) "without which it is impossible to please him" (Heb. 11, 6). "Our minds are deeply impressed with sincere and earnest desires, that in this time of probation and affliction, every member of our religious society may seriously consider the foundation of our Christian profession, and by a conduct agreeable thereto, manifest the excellency of that Divine Principle of Light and Truth, which enlighteneth our understandings and influenceth our minds truly to know, and faithfully to perform every duty enjoined us by our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ, the Prince of Peace, who declared "his kingdom was not of this world" (John 18, 36), and of whom one of his apostles testified that "it became him for whom and by whom are all things, in bringing many sons unto glory, to make the Captain of their salvation perfect through sufferings" (Heb. 2. 10).

We beseech you therefore, frequently to commemorate the wonderful manifestation of Divine regard, in thus introducing the glorious dispensation of the Gospel of Peace and Salvation, in a way and manner so contrary to the hope and expectation of the high professors of that age, that they said, "if the people believed on him, the Romans would come and take away their place and nation" (John 11, 48); but his despised disciples faithfully attending to his precepts, were endued with power from on high, qualified to spread his doctrines to distant nations, and after patiently enduring many afflictions, triumphed over all through faith in his name.

And while those who thus obtained the knowledge of God remained stedfast therein, "the multitude of them that believed were of one heart and of one soul" (Acts 4, 32), but when the great and wise men of the earth were brought to the acknowledgment of the Truth, and their favour extended to the professors of it, instead of the denial of self, and love of one another, which were the first marks of discipleship, the love of the world prevailing, schisms, contentions, discord, and a general declension and apostacy ensued, and tho' the name and profession of Christianity was retained, the church remained many ages in the wilderness (Rev. 12, 16); and it hath been manifest that as in these latter times she hath been gradually coming forth from thence, the blessing of Divine Providence hath been granted to the ministers of the reformation, through the steps they pursued while they adhered to, and lived under the peaceable spirit and doctrines of Christ; but as they or their successors departed therefrom, and sought an establishment by human wisdom and strength, "their zeal cooled, their faith decreased, and their piety degenerated" (Barcl. Apol. 568). and the progress of the reformation was obstructed.

This appears to have been the state of the church near the middle of the last century, when, by the renewed manifestation of Divine favour, the Light of the Gospel again broke forth in Great-Britain, and a dispensation thereof was committed to a few men of low stations in life, and unlearned in human literature; who, being endued with heavenly wisdom and fortitude, were thereby enabled to preach the doctrines of the kingdom of Christ in the demonstration of his Spirit and Power, to the convincing and converting many thousands to the knowledge of the saving truths of the Gospel; and thus our forefathers and predecessors were raised to be a people in a time of great commotions, contests and wars, began and carried on for the vindication of religious and civil liberty, in which many of them were zealously engaged, when they received the knowledge of the truth; but through the influences of the love of Christ in their minds, they ceased from conferring with flesh and blood, and became obedient to the heavenly vision, in which they clearly saw that all wars and fightings proceed from the spirit of this world, which is enmity with God (Jas. 4, 4), and that they must manifest themselves to be the followers of the Prince of Peace, by meekness, humility, and patient sufferings; and tho' for a time they were evilly intreated and spoken against as evil doers, by the uprightness of their conduct and conversation "they put to silence the ignorance of foolish men" (I Pet. 2, 15), and through the divers revolutions of the government, were the Rulers, and to lay before them the injustice of the laws which were made and enforced against the innocent; for as they could freely appeal to their oppressors, that they were never concerned in any plots, insurrections, or conspiracies, they thereby added a convincing force to the reasons they offered in support of their rights and liberties; the truth of which was so evident, that even while persecution and oppression were permitted and exercised against them in England, those of them who inclined to remove from thence and settle in New-Jersey and Pennsylvania, were entrusted with as full enjoyment of religious and civil liberty, as the solemn sanction of the charters granted by the King, could assure to them and their posterity. "This was the Lord's doing, and was marvellous in their eyes" (Ps. 118. 23), and remains to be so in the eyes of all who duly consider it: may the sense thereof be frequently revived in our minds with thankfulness and reverence!

And as our forefathers were often led to commemorate these and the many instances of Divine favour conferred on them, thro' the difficulties they encountered in settling in the wilderness, let us be like minded with them—and if after a long time of enjoying the fruits of their labours, and partaking of the blessings of peace and plenty, we should be restrained or deprived of some of our rights and privileges, let us carefully guard against being drawn into the vindication of them, or seeking redress by any measures which are not consistent with our religious profession and principles, nor with the Christian patience manifested by our ancestors in such times of trial; and we fervently desire all may impartially consider whether we have manifested that firmness in our love to the cause of truth, and universal righteousness which is required of us, and that we may unite in holy resolutions to seek the Lord in sincerity, and to wait upon Him daily for wisdom, to order our conduct hereafter in all things to his praise.

And, beloved Friends, we beseech you in brotherly affection to remember, that as under Divine Providence we are indebted to the King and his royal ancestors, for the continued favour of enjoying our religious liberties, we are under deep obligations to manifest our loyalty and fidelity, and that we should discourage every attempt which may be made by any to excite disaffection or disrespect to him, and particularly to manifest our dislike of all such writings as are, or may be published of that tendency.

And as it hath ever been our practice since we were a people, frequently to advise all professing with us to be careful not to defraud the King of his customs or duties, nor to be concerned in dealing in goods unlawfully imported; we find it necessary now most earnestly to exhort that the same care may be continued with faithfulness and diligence, and that Friends keep clear of purchasing any such goods, either for sale or private use; that so we may not be any way instrumental in countenancing or promoting the iniquity, false swearing, and violence, which are the common consequences of an unlawful and clandestine trade. May we therefore wisely determine rather to forbear the use of such things, as we have just grounds to believe are imported in that manner, and by this and every other part of our conduct, give a public testimony of our sincere desire that we may submit to the just administration of the laws, agreeable to our Christian principles, and that our submission to any measures imposed by the violence of parties, is not with our consent; for some we fear have not sufficiently considered the imminent danger of allowing any temporal considerations to influence them to depart from the wholesome regulations and limitations of the laws, under which we have enjoyed protection and peace.

And, dear Friends, by the aboundings of the love of Christ, experienced at this time, we are led into deep sympathy with such who are now most immediately exposed to sufferings, and our minds are deeply bowed in an awful concern that our ancient peaceable testimony may be maintained and exalted, that all who have known the truth, may steadfastly abide therein with our eye single to our Holy Head, by a circumspect conduct demonstrating, that we are following Him under the influences of his "wisdom, which is pure, peaceable, gentle, and full of mercy and good fruits;" that thus we may happily experience "the fruits of righteousness sown in peace of them who made peace" (Jas. 3, 18).

When any man throws a shade that may in the least degree darken another's character, I presume your Gazette is always open to the person injured, upon which supposition I request you to publish the following Letter.

To Mr. Samuel Allinson, Editor of the New-Jersey Laws.

LEARNED SIR: Your generous disinterestedness and noble motives, together with your great abilities to stand forth the advocate for humanity, must not only intitle you to a place in the esteem of your "fellow-men," as well for the goodness of your heart, as for the probability of success which generally waits upon a man of eminence; but, Sir, if your zeal for that liberty "which we all love," and pious detestation of "the servile state of slavery," which you emphatically distinguish, should carry you beyond the bounds of reason and truth, into the abominable liberty of abusing me, I would advise you to keep it in some measure restrained.

Your profession may preserve you from reaping the fruits of the liberty you have already taken, but it can never justify your ungentlemanly insinuation, that I should offer an imposition on the Public, by selling a free man as a slave. Did I ever deceive you, Sir? Can you mention a single instance wherein my honesty has been impeached? I believe not. If you can, I call upon you publicly to do it: If not, 'tho you have the appearance of a Friend, your conduct is unfriendly.

I bought the negroe as a slave, and paid £70 for him; which is a larger sum than we commonly pay for a few years servitude. In a little time [I] understood that he was a free man, and that I had been imposed upon by the joint artifices of his former master and himself. - - - Soon after his elopement the first time, he was apprehended and brought to Burlington, I sent him to goal, there he continued but one night before he was released, and in the presence of the sheriff voluntarily offered to bind himself as a servant to me for the term of eight years; I accepted of seven. From my first knowledge of this circumstance, notwithstanding he deceived me, I have ever treated him with the utmost humanity, and have spared no pains to find out the impostor who sold him, in order to do justice to the negroe.

Without the least sense of gratitude for all this lenity and friendship, he has again left me, and under these circumstances I looked on myself justifiable in advertising him as a slave, by which means I stood a better chance of having him secured, tho' I assure you, Sir, it was never with an intention of selling him in that character.

I should be surprized, if I had not some knowledge of your abilities, to know what you mean towards the bottom of your concise advertisement, by asserting, "all will agree, that fellow men running from their masters, is not a sufficient cause to make them perpetual slaves;" what a strange jumble of eloquence is here! I would not mean to point out to the Editor of our Laws, that there is such a thing as perpetual servitude for perpetual runaways, or that there is perpetual meddlers, who, like Monkeys, are perpetually doing mischief, and shewing their sides by exposing themselves to the view of the world.

Dear Sir, you have undertaken a task that might employ your time to more advantage than your weak attack upon me. I wish you success, and am, Sir,

Your most humble Servant, BALDWIN WAKE.

NEW-YORK, Nov. 3. | Last Week, at Philadelphia, ended the Grand Continental Congress, of Delegates from all the British American Colonies from New-Hampshire to South Carolina, inclusively,—they having, in a manner highly honourable to themselves and their constituents, and serviceable to their country, finished the important business on which they were appointed, and met to deliberate and determine for a great and increasing Nation.

The world has hardly ever seen any Assembly that had matters of greater consequence before them; that were chosen in a more honourable manner; were better qualified for the high trust reposed in them; executed it in a more faithful, judicious and effectual manner, or were more free and unanimous in their conclusions, than this.

We hear the Journal of their whole proceedings, is in the press at Philadelphia, and in a few days may be expected; meantime the following particulars published by their order, are reprinted in a pamphlet, and to be had of the printer hereof in (Dock or) Water Street, near the Coffee House, viz. . . .

[We are obliged to a correspondent for the following copy, and are sorry it is not in our power to gratify the curiosity it will doubtless excite in our readers, to see the charge that occasioned, and was the subject of the address. To which we hear the Chief Justice made a very complaisant and conciliating reply.]

To the Hon. Frederick Smyth, Esq; Chief Justice, of the province of New Jersey.

The address of the grand-jury, for the body of the county of Essex, at a Court of Oyer and Terminer and General Goal Delivery, held at Newark, in the said county, the first Tuesday of November, 1774.

May it please your Honour, As your Honour's charge from the bench was not so properly directory to us, with respect to our duty, as the grand inquest of this county, as matter of instruction for the regulation of our own personal conduct amidst the present commotions of the continent; we think ourselves obliged, from the singularity of the charge, and its paternal tenderness for our welfare, to express our gratitude for your honour's friendly admonitions, (which doubtless derived great solemnity from the place in which they were delivered) and at the same time to inform you, how far we have the misfortune to differ from you in sentiment, both as to the origin and tendency of the present uneasiness, so generally diffused through all the colonies. If we rightly understood a particular part of your Honour's charge, you were pleased to tell us, that while we were employed in guarding against "imaginary tyranny, three thousand miles distant;" we ought not to expose ourselves to a "real tyranny at our own doors." As we neither know, Sir, nor are under the least apprehension of any tyranny at our own doors, unless it should make its way hither from the distance you mention, and then we hope, that all those whom the constitution has entrusted with the guardianship of our liberties, will rather strive to obstruct than accelerate its progress; we are utterly at a loss for the idea thereby intended to be communicated. But respecting the tyranny at the distance of three thousand miles, which your Honour is pleased to represent as imaginary, we have the unhappiness widely to differ from you in opinion. The effect, Sir, of that tyranny is too severely felt to have it thought altogether visionary. We cannot think, Sir, that taxes imposed upon us by our fellow subjects, in a legislature in which we are not represented, is an imaginary, but that it is a real and actual tyranny; and of which no nation whatsoever can furnish a single instance. We cannot think, Sir, that depriving us of the inestimable right of trial by jury—seizing our persons, and carrying us for trial to Great-Britain, is a tyranny merely imaginary. Nor can we think with your Honour, that destroying charters, and changing our forms of government, is a tyranny altogether ideal. That an act passed to protect, indemnify and screen from punishment such as may be guilty even of murder is a bare idea. That the establishment of French laws and popish religion in Canada, the better to facilitate the arbitrary schemes of the British ministry, by making the Canadians instruments in the hands of power, to reduce us to slavery, has no other than a mental existence.

In a word, Sir, we cannot persuade ourselves that the fleet now blocking up the Port of Boston, consisting of ships, built of real English oak and solid iron, and armed with cannon and ponderous metal, with actual powder and ball; nor the army lodged in the town of Boston, and the fortifications thrown about it (substantial and formidable realities) are all creatures of the imagination. These, Sir, are but a few of the numerous grievances, under which America now groans. These are some of the effects of that deliberate plan of tyranny, concerted at "three thousand miles distance," and which, to your Honour, appears only like the baseless fabrick of a vision. To procure redress of those grievances, which to others assume the form of odious and horrid realities; the continent, as we learn, has very naturally been thrown into great commotions, and as far as this county in particular has taken part in the alarm—we have the happiness to represent to your Honour, that in the prosecution of measures for preserving American Liberties, and obtaining the removal of oppressions, the people have acted in all their popular assemblies, (which it is the right of Englishmen to convene whenever they please) with the spirit, temper, and prudence becoming freemen and loyal subjects.

To trespass no longer on your Honour's patience, we conclude with our hearty wishes, that while the great cause of liberty is warmly, and at the same time so peaceably vindicated, by all honest Americans, as essentially necessary to public happiness, no bias of self interest, no fawning servility towards those in power, no hopes of future preferment, will induce any man to damp their laudable and patriotic ardour; nor lend his helping hand to the unnatural and diabolical work, of rivetting those chains which are forging for us, by the same actual tyranny, at the distance of three thousand miles.

TO THE PEOPLE OF NEW-JERSEY.

My Friends and Countrymen,

I had once some hope that the resolutions of the Congress, would have been such as to produce some good to the colonies, but I find my fears verified by their proceedings: chosen, on one side, they seem to have had no other view, than to please their electors, and to forward confusion amongst us. They have formed no system by which the present differences might be solved, and future contentions avoided, but deliberately have made bad worse, left us no retreat, nor the mother country any opening to advance to a reconciliation.

With sovereign contempt, they have overlooked the legislature of Great Britain, and appealed to the people; will not this people take offence at the indignity so manifestly shewn to their legislature, and receive the appeal with disgust? especially when they see that we have forbid all intercourse with them, and that with as much seeming authority as if we were an independent state, and determining on a rupture with them. Nay, will not this conduct be construed as open enmity to the British name? Again, with the greatest assurance they have arraigned the Lords and Commons of the highest injustice, in altering the form of our government, though perhaps for the better, and yet have taken upon themselves, to declare the old established forms in others, unconstitutional, dangerous and destructive to the freedom of American legislation, because they have a Legislative Council. Thus by raising new contentions, and drawing us into new controversies, what end can this serve, but to create confusion? From confusion, my Countrymen, is to be reared the new republic.

Again, they have warmly resolved against the laws of trade, the officers of the customs, the authority of Judges of the Admiralty, &c. perhaps in some instances the laws of trade may be severe, and the appointment, and exercise of the offices of Judges of the Admiralty and of the customs may be real matter of complaint; but why did they not ask redress of the Legislature of Great-Britain? I suspect that feeling their influence, and elated with power, new and unconstitutional, they apprehended the application would be successful, and their authority at an end; they therefore have made their appeal to the people, hoping to stir up rebellion and strife again; they have tickled you by increasing the number of your committees, that you may appear to have a great share in this new government, and at the same time that they hold out to you an abhorrence of the laws of trade, and take upon themselves to give power to Heaven knows who, to inspect the entries at the custom-house, and by the eleventh article of the association, these committee men have a large field to range in, and may hold up the most respectable character among us to contempt, and turn him over to be treated as an enemy of his country.

Had an Act of Parliament formed such an Inquisition, by giving power to any man or set of men; to observe the conduct of their fellow-subjects, and as a majority should determine, their neighbour should be exposed insult and contempt at their pleasure, how should we have heard of the liberty of the subject, his right to trial by his peers, &c. &c. Yet these men, at the same time they arraign the highest authority on earth, insolently trample on the liberties of their fellow-subjects; and without the shadow of a trial, take from them their property, grant it to others, and not content with all this, hold them up to contempt, and expose them to the vilest injuries.

View again the conduct of these men while they declare a non-importation from Great Britain and Ireland, of any goods, wares and merchandizes; of molasses, &c. from the West Indies, of wines from the Madeira and Western-Islands, and thereby in effect prohibit an exportation of the iron, lumber, wheat, pork, beef, flour, and corn, of the middle colonies, and particularly of this, as the places to which all these are shipped, can give us no return but in the articles our congress prohibited us to import; - - - yet rice, the staple of Carolina is to be exported without restraint or limitation. Why this distinction? Is it because the delegates of that colony had more regard for the interest of the people they represented? Or, that our delegates could take what liberties they pleased with us? Or, what was the reason? When unreasonable partiality appears in men—when they take much pains, use studied language and appeal to Heaven for the uprightness of their intentions, we have just cause to suspect; for the sincerity of our intentions is best shewn by our actions, it wants not the parade of words; the plainest language is best, and requires no appeal to Heaven to induce our belief.

Yet this congress, in all their publications, (except the letter to General Gage) have paid more attention to sounding words, and taken more pains to convince the world that they are scholars, than to shew a disposition to settle our differences. In short, when they appear averse to conciliating measures, and shew a disposition to create confusion, and hum us into war and bloodshed, it is manifest they are actuated by motives inconsistent with the peoples interest: For examples of their inclination to war, let me appeal to their adopting the Suffolk Resolves, and to their own inconsistent minutes for a determination upon confusion and mischief, particularly upon that arrogant resolve, wherein they require the repeal of many laws of trade, &c. "as essentially necessary in order to restore harmony, between Great-Britain and the American colonies." Can the people who they stile spirited and brave, stoop to such humiliating terms? Could this resolve then have been made with any other view than to affront a brave people, and prevent them from hearing and redressing real grievances? It is natural, my countrymen, for men who feel themselves suddenly clothed with unlimited powers to have a desire to continue that authority they have by accident acquired, and to keep the ball up, for if once it comes to the ground, then authority vanishes, and the people will no longer be dupes to their ambition.

All changes in government, my Countrymen, are dangerous to the people—we have insensibly and in the hurry of our zeal, departed from our constitution, and entered a new mode of governing, as inconsistent with liberty, as it is opposite to monarchy; in short, we have slid into a republic, when we did not mean it, and out of fear of a distant and ideal tyranny, we have created a dangerous and real one among ourselves. We have no instances of laws so severe, or any regulations so inimical to liberty as the resolves of this Congress, who themselves double-faced on every occasion: read their cajoling letter to the Canadians; again, see how these Canadians are painted in another place as fit tools, from "antient prejudices to act with hostility against" the true protestant colonies, whenever a wicked "ministry shall choose to direct them." See the article that is used through the whole of their proceedings to keep you in a ferment, and you will trace the thirst of dominion thro' every page. It is not so much, my Countrymen, that the mother country is inclined to tyranny, as it is to those among us, who desire rule, and who want to lord it over us, and therefore keep up a controversy that sooner or later will end in our ruin.

As we have already done what we ought not to have done, and left undone those things which we ought to have done, let us shun the rock these pilots would run us upon; let us in time return to our constitution, and by our representatives, like honest men, state our grievances, and ask relief of the mother state; let us do this with that plainness and decency of language that will shew at once our sincerity, and remove every suspicion that we have the least intention or desire to be independent. Let us remember that our burden has been light, that the mother state has ever protected us, by her arms, and her renown among the nations of the world—nay, let us remember, that these men who are most forward and noisy patriots in the great towns, have acquired wealth, in forbidden trade, and have even in that trade been protected by the name of Britain, and ought to be suspected and detested by us, as we have too long been duped by them.

Let us shun an association artfully designed to entangle us, and fear not the threats contained in it. - - - Let us remember ourselves, our children, our country; and while we are attentive to our liberties, let us not forget our duty. Z.

MARRIED. Doctor Henry of Woodberry, to Miss Betsy Bowman of Gloucester, New-Jersey.

From The New-York Gazette: and The Weekly Mercury.
No. 1208, Dec. 5, 1774.

To the Freeholders of the County of Essex, in the Province of New-Jersey, qualified to vote for Representatives in the Legislature.

Gentlemen, The zeal you have hitherto manifested in support of the constitutional liberties of our country, will unquestionably prompt you to carry into execution, with firmness and unanimity, the wise and prudent resolutions, lately entered into by the delegates of this continent in General Congress. In the eleventh article of the Association formed in behalf of themselves and their constituents, it was agreed "That a committee be chosen in every county, city and town, by those who are qualified to vote for representatives in the legislature; whose business it shall be to observe the conduct of all persons, touching the said association." We your Committee of Correspondence, cannot in the least doubt your ready and immediate compliance with the article: For as the salutary effects to arise from this association, must, under God, depend upon the fidelity of individuals, in carrying it precisely into execution; so should any inhabitant of this colony, be found so lost to a sense of public virtue, as to violate the same in any instance, such person, pursuant to the said article, may by your committees 'be held up to public notice, as unfriendly to the liberties of his country, and all dealings with him, or her, be thenceforward broken off.' We have therefore thought fit to recommend to you, that for the more extensive observation of the conduct of individuals, committees be chosen for each of the three precincts, into which the county is divided, viz. Elizabeth-Town, Newark, and Achquakanung. And we do hereby give notice to, and request the Freeholders of the respective precincts to convene for that purpose, as follows—For the borough of Elizabeth, at the Court House in Elizabeth Town, on Tuesday, the 6th day of December next, at 2 o'clock p. m. For Newark, at the Court House in Newark, on Wednesday the 7th day of December; and for Achquakanung, on Monday the 12th day of December, at the bridge, opposite the house of Timothy Day. And we do also recommend to you, that ten, at least of the most reputable inhabitants, for Achquakanung; fifteen for Newark and twenty for Elizabeth Town, be elected for the above purpose.

As delegates from the several colonies are again to be appointed, to meet at Philadelphia on the tenth day of May next, it will be farther expedient, that the inhabitants make choice of a new Committee of Correspondence; with power to instruct the representatives for this county, when convened in General Assembly, to join in the appointment of delegates for the colony, to meet in the said Congress: But if the said General Assembly shall not appoint delegates for that purpose, by the first day of April next, then the said Committee of Correspondence, to meet with the several county-committees of this colony, and appoint the said delegates at such time and place, as shall be agreed upon by the said committees.

Bridge-Town, 11th Month 16th, 1774.

NEW-YORK, Dec. 5. | On Monday evening arrived the Sloop Raven, Capt. William Nixon, from Curacoa, who on the 26th of last Month, (November) 8 Leagues E. S. E. off Sandy Hook, met with a wreck of a small sloop, which appeared to have no person on board, her jib much torn and flying about, and the sea which ran very high making a continual breach over her. As it was impossible to send a boat on board, Captain Nixon, who was very near, hailed the wreck, but received no answer, however, being determined not to leave her till he had examined her thoroughly, if possible before he altered his course, came near and hailed her a second time, when there came crawling from the cabin, a man who held up a book in his hand as a token of distress. After many fruitless attempts to throw a rope on board, the poor man at last threw himself into the sea and providentially got hold of a rope which was thrown to him; by the help of which, almost spent, he was taken on board Capt. Nixon's Sloop; his name was Tucker Tabor, and in the sloop in which he was found, which belonged and was bound to New-York from Barnegat, was on the 16th of the same month, driven out to sea from Sandy Hook, together with Halder Anthony, the Master, both belonging to Shrewsbury. They had been 5 days without sustenance, when the skipper died with grief and hunger, leaving a wife and child at Shrewsbury, to lament his loss.

Capt. Nixon could not possibly save anything from the wreck.

To the Freeholders of the County of SOMERSET.

Whereas the Continental Congress for obtaining redress of our common grievance, have recommended certain measures to be taken by the people in the several colonies, and have, among other things, advised that a committee be chosen in each county, city and town, to observe the conduct of all persons respecting their agreement; we your Committee of Correspondence have thought proper to appoint Thursday the 15th inst. at ten o'clock in the forenoon, for the meeting of this county at Somerset court-house, when and where all persons who are qualified to vote for representatives in assembly, are desired to choose a Committee of Observation, and a new Committee of Correspondence, and for adopting such other measures as may be thought necessary and adviseable, for the promoting the cause of American freedom. That disputes may be avoided, we have appointed Stephen Hunt, Benjamin Morgan, Nathaniel Ayers, William Verbryck, Jacob Bergen, and Hendrick Vandike, Esqrs. to superintend the election and see that the votes are fairly taken.

By Order of the Committee,

HENDRICK FISHER, Chairman.

N. B. It is expected the election will be finished in one day, without being removed to any other place: The friends of liberty are therefore desired to be punctual in their attendance.

From The Pennsylvania Gazette, No. 2398, Dec. 7, 1774.

Public notice is hereby given, by the Proprietors of Andover Iron-works, in the county of Sussex, and province of New-Jersey, that they intend to apply to the General Assembly of that province, at their next meeting, for an act to vest in them, the said Proprietors, the legal title to sundry tracts of land, and Proprietary Rights, in the said province, which were purchased by John Hackett, Esq; in his life time, in trust for them, at their request, and with their money, although the deeds and conveyances for the same were taken by the said John Hackett, in his own name. If therefore the heirs or representatives of the said John Hackett, or any others concerned in interest in the above matter, intend to oppose the passing any such Act of Assembly, they are requested to give their attendance at the time aforesaid.

GLOUCESTER, December 1, 1774.

The inhabitants of the county of Gloucester, "qualified to vote for representatives in the Legislature," are desired to meet at the Court-house in the said county, on the 12th of this instant, by 10 o'clock in the forenoon, in order to choose a Committee of Observation, pursuant to the 11th article of the association entered into by the General American Congress, lately held at Philadelphia, in behalf of themselves and these Colonies in general.

And as carrying the said association properly and faithfully into execution, is the only peaceable way that we can hope to obtain relief from the arbitrary and detestable measures of the British Parliament, so truly alarming to these colonies; and as carrying it so into execution will very much depend upon the vigilance, prudence and firmness of the said Committee, when appointed; and as the said Committee ought also to be large, consisting of trusty members from every part of the county; it is hoped that the inhabitants, qualified as aforesaid, will generally attend and assist in electing the same.

By order of the County Committee,

JOSEPH HUGG, Clerk.

NEW-TOWN, Sussex county. Nov. 24, 1774.

Yesterday a certain David Campbell, a pedlar, was discovered in offering to sale a pamphlet, entitled "A friendly address to all reasonable Americans, on the subject of our political contentions," &c. a work highly injurious to the cause of American liberty; speciously recommending the base principles of passive obedience to tyranny; calculated to excite jealousies and divisions among the inhabitants of the different colonies, and to terrify weak minded persons into submission to the late oppressive acts of Parliament. The man, as soon as questioned, protested his innocence; and, the dangerous tendency of the pamphlet being declared to him, he promised to sell no more of them (one only having been disposed of).

This day the county committee called him before them, when he declared, that these infamous pamphlets were delivered to him, by James Rivington, of New-York, printer, who recommended them as excellent pamphlets, and very saleable; and, upon his assuring the printer, he had already expended all his money, Rivington urged him to take a dozen upon trust; in confirmation of which he produced the original invoice, in the hand-writing of Rivington himself. Previous to his appearance before the committee, the man, being convinced of his offence, and desirous to satisfy the people, had voluntarily consented to their being burnt by the hands of the common hangman, and they were burnt accordingly, in presence of a numerous concourse of people, from the different parts of this extensive county. The committee being informed of this, the pedlar discovering great candour and the appearance of innocence, and having most heartily promised to be more cautious in future he was dismissed.

[The following letter then appears in print.—EDITOR.]

MR. JAMES RIVINGTON.

SIR, When I purchased a gross of the proceedings of the Congress, and two dozen almanacks, for which I paid you 4l. 17s. you at that time solicited me to take along to sell, a dozen of what you called a friendly address, I knew no other than its being an address to the good people of this land, to exert themselves for the preservation of their ancient liberties and privileges. But how was I surprised to find them the reverse, and were sufficient to expose me to the prejudice of every gentleman in the county. Well! they have been publickly burned here. I aided and assisted in performing the same, and have been had up and examined before the gentlemen and the committee of this county: Thus, Mr. Rivington's friendship has turned out to be the highest vexation and trouble to me.

Well, your account against me, is 1l. 8s. and when I come to either Morris or Hackett's Town, I shall send you sixteen shillings, and expect you will send me a receipt in full, otherwise Mr. Rivington cannot expect me to lay out any more money with him. I am Sir, in the mean while,

Your very humble servant,

DAVID CAMPBELL.

The place whereon the subscriber formerly lived at Pracaness, in the county of Bergen, containing 9 acres of good land, on which is a fine bearing orchard, besides one of a hundred trees, set out two years ago, with a good dwelling house, barn, stables, summer house, garden, and many other conveniences too tedious to mention. The situation exceeds any one in that part of the country, being on a rising ground, commanding the prospect of a spacious well cultivated plain below, for a considerable distance. It would suit a doctor, merchant, tavern-keeper, saddler, or almost any public business, but more especially a doctor, as the people are now entirely destitute. Likewise two acres of meadow land, about a quarter of a mile distant; also one other tract of thirty six acres, three or four of which is in good fence, with an agreeable situation for building. STEPHEN CRANE, Esq; in the Chair.

The Committee of Correspondence for the county of Essex, having produced the Association lately entered into by the delegates of the American colonies, met in General Congress; the same was read to and then unanimously approved and adopted by the whole assembly: who were pleased at the same time, to signify their thanks to the delegates of this colony, for their faithful services.

It was then proposed, that pursuant to the eleventh article of the said Association, a large committee should be now chosen for the purposes therein mentioned: which was also agreed to, and the following persons were accordingly appointed, viz. Jonathan Hampton, Matthias Williamson, Elias Dayton, Isaac Woodruff, William Barnet, William Herriman, Oliver Spencer, George Ross, Edward Thomas, Cornelius Hetfield, John Blanchard, Ephraim Tyrrel, Abraham Clarke, Robert Ogden, jun. Jeremiah Smith, Richard Townly, jun. Samuel Shotwell, David Miller, Thomas Woodruff, John Clawson, Jonathan Dayton, Ephraim Marsh, Recompence Stanbury, Jedediah Swan, William Parsons, Samuel Potter, William Bott, Jonathan Williams, Christopher Marsh, Isaac Wynants, Daniel Halsey.

After which the Committee of Correspondence informed the assembly, that having executed the services for which they had been particularly appointed they had thought proper to dissolve themselves; in order that the inhabitants of the respective precincts of the county might have the opportunity of a new choice. Whereupon Stephen Crane, John De Hart, William Livingston, William P. Smith, Elias Boudinot, and John Chetwood, Esqrs, being of the late committee, were unanimously re-elected for the borough of Elizabeth; and at the same time authorized to instruct the representatives of this county, when convened in General Assembly, to join in the appointments of delegates for this colony, to meet in General Congress at Philadelphia: But if the said Assembly should not appoint delegates for that purpose by the first day of April next, then the said Committee of Correspondence to meet with the several county committees of this colony, and appoint the said delegates, at such time and place as shall be agreed upon by the said committees.

The above business being finished, the assembly unanimously voted—That two certain pamphlets lately published; the one entitled. A Friendly Address &c. and the other under the signature of A Farmer, as containing many notorious falshoods, evidently calculated to sow the seeds of disunion among the good people of America; grossly misrepresenting the principle of the present opposition to parliamentary taxations; vilifying the late Congress; and intended to facilitate the scheme of the British ministry for enslaving the colonies, be publicly burnt, in destestation and abhorrence of such infamous publications: and the same were accordingly committed to the flames, before the court-house, with the universal approbation of a numerous concourse of people.

Stolen out of the pasture of the subscriber, at Hanover, in Morris County, East New-Jersey, on the night of the 26th of November, a sorrel horse about 14 hands high, rising six years old, in good order, paces altogether, carries his fore feet very low, his hind feet very wide apart, and his tail very straight, has been steadily work'd in gears, but has no mark or brand. Supposed to be taken by one Joseph Bettes, who was born in New-England, and lately deserted from one of his Majesty's ships of war at Rhode-Island. He is about five feet ten inches high, well set, with brown hair: Had on when he went away a nankeen coat and vest, and a pair of brown broad cloth breeches; took with him a spotted swanskin jacket. Whoever takes up said horse and returns him to the owner, and secures said thief so that he may be brought to justice, shall have ten dollars reward, and five dollars for the horse alone, and all reasonable charges paid by me. JONATHAN FORD.

NEW-YORK, December 19. | The names of the Committee of Observation chosen at Mr. Timothy Day's at Acquacanonk, in Essex County, New-Jersey, for the purposes mentioned in the Association entered into by the Continental Congress, came too late for this day's Paper, but shall be in our next.

From The Pennsylvania Gazette, No. 2400, Dec. 21, 1774.

TO THE PRINTERS.

At a time when the Colonies are likely to have occasion for all the wool they can raise, I expect the following observations will need no apology.

A farmer of reputation in New-Jersey, whose stock of sheep commonly consists of near one hundred head, gives it as his opinion, after twenty years experience, that sheep are the most profitable animal raised upon a farm in this country. He says, that if farmers in general would raise three sheep where they now commonly raise one, and raise only one hog where they now raise two, they would find their account in it.—The annual profit upon sheep, in the round of seven years, would be rather greater than upon the hogs. Those who raise hogs always find their lands grow poorer, while on the contrary by keeping as large a flock of sheep as a farm can anyhow support, and properly pen-folding them, the poor soils in New-Jersey, which seldom bring more than eight bushels of wheat per acre, will produce from twenty to twenty-five bushels per acre. He observes that some farmers have objected to the keeping of sheep, because they destroy their pasture. This objection (he says) is so far from being well founded, that it is directly contrary to the fact; for that he always found the pasture on his plantation grow better, from year to year, in proportion as he increased the number of his sheep—but he grants, that this does depend upon their being regularly pen-folded, the trouble of which is abundantly repaid, not only by the advantage already mentioned, but by several other very considerable ones, and particularly these; by keeping them pen-folded in the morning till the dew is off the ground, they are effectually preserved from the rot, they avoid the damage done by the herb St. John's Wort, which is greatly injurious to sheep while the dew is upon it, and as perfectly innocent when the dew is gone off; they are also much less liable to be hurt by dogs in the night, who are many times induced to run after and destroy sheep, merely because the sheep run from them.

At a General Meeting of the inhabitants of the county of Gloucester, in New-Jersey, held at the Court-house, on the 12th of December, 1774; the association formed and entered into by the General American Congress, held at Philadelphia on the 5th of September last, in behalf of themselves and these Colonies in general, being read and approved, it was

I. Resolved unanimously, That the said association be adopted and carried into execution throughout this county.

The Committee of Correspondence appointed on the 18th of July last, then desiring to be dismissed, the same was taken under consideration, and on the question being put, it was

II. Resolved unanimously, That they be thanked for the faithful discharge of the trust reposed in them, and dismissed agreeable to their request.

III. Resolved unanimously, That a Committee of Observation, consisting of 77 members, be chose by a majority of electors "qualified to vote for representatives in the legislature;" and they were accordingly chose, viz. Samuel Spicer, Michael Fisher, Alexander Randall, Samuel Harrison, Robert F. Price, John Hinchman, James Hinchman, Thomas Clark, Richard Somers, George Vanleer, and Joseph Hugg, Esqrs. and Messrs. Joseph Morgan, Joshua Stokes, Kendal Coles, Abraham Inskeep, Isaac Mickle, Samuel Clement, John Gill, William Cooper, Dr. Benjamin Vanleer, Marmaduke Cooper, Benjamin Cathrall, Joseph Ellis, William Hugg, jun. James Dundass, Peter Cheesman, Isaac Tomlinson, John Hider, jun. Benjamin Pittfield, Josiah Hillman, Robert Mattocks, Jacob Roberts, John Hedger, John Cooper, John Sparks, James Whitall, sen. John Hopkins, Thomas Denny, Joseph Low, James Wilkins, Dr. Thomas Hendry, Charles Fisher, John Wilkins, jun. Israel Shreve, Restore Lippincott, Dr. Bodo Otto, Daniel Cozens, Archibald Maffet, Thomas Taber, John Barns, John Steelman, Matthew Gill, Robert Brown, James Talman, Constantine Wilkins, John Killey, William Guest, John Rambo, John Cozens, William Zane, Samuel Hewes, Elijah Clark, Richard Westcott, John Somers, Benjamin Brush, Thomas Clark, Joseph Johnson, John Somers, jun. Thomas Stites, Lemuel Sayre, Robert Morss, Robert Smith, Richard Price, and David Clark; to see that the said Association is properly carried into execution, and, in all respects, duly and punctually observed.

IV. Resolved unanimously, That it is the will and desire of the people here met, that the said Committee do execute the said trust with firmness and fidelity; and that they do, in every respect, as carefully attend to, and pursue the rules and directions for their government expressed and set forth in the said association, as they would if the same had been enacted into a law by the legislature of this province: And particularly, that they publicly advertise, without fear, favour or partiality, all such persons as shall, within the limits of their jurisdiction, be guilty of a breach thereof, in order that we may all know, and sufficiently detest the covetous and deceitful Achans of our days, who can thus sordidly trouble us, and give our enemies cause to rejoice.

V. Resolved, unanimously, That it will be proper, and is the desire of the electors here convened, that the said Committee of Observation do appoint a sufficient number of its members to act as a Committee of Correspondence, with the Committees in this and the neighbouring colonies, as occasion may require: And that the said Committee of Correspondence, when so appointed, do appoint three or more of its members to attend the next provincial meeting for choosing delegates to represent this province at the General Congress, to be held at Philadelphia on the 10th of May next.

VI. Resolved unanimously, That it will be proper, and appears to this meeting absolutely necessary, that our farmers should, as much as possible, apply their grounds to raising of flax and hemp; and that our young women, instead of trifling their time away, do prudently employ it in learning the use of the spinning wheel. - - The time calls for diligence, and no hand ought to be idle, that is capable of contributing, in the least degree, to the support of the public cause.

VII. Resolved unanimously, That the said Committee of Observation do stand and remain a Committee for the purposes aforesaid, until the 12th of December next, unless our grievances are before that time redressed, or such new resolutions entered into by the General Congress, as shall render a fresh choice necessary: and that, should the latter of these cases happen, they do then immediately convene the county, in order that such fresh choice may accordingly take place.

By order of the Committee,

JOSEPH HUGG, Clerk.

Notice is hereby given, that the Subscribers intend to apply to the General Assembly of the Province of New-Jersey, at their next Sessions, for an Act to erect a dam, and other water-works, across the South Branch of Penshaukin Creek, at or near a place called the Poplar Landing, in the township of Chester, county of Burlington.

At a special Meeting of the Board of General Proprietors of the Western Division of New-Jersey, at the City of Burlington, on Thursday and Friday, the 10th and 11th Days of November, 1774, it was Resolved,

That as it is evident the Eastern Proprietors are not disposed to come into the equitable measures, proposed by this Board, for settling a true line of partition between them, this Board will assert and maintain their right to the lands lying to the westward of a line, to be run from the Mouth of Machackamack, lately established as the northern boundary of this Province, to the Station Point at Little Egg-harbour, and to the eastward of the ex parte line, run by Mr. John Lawrence.

Also resolved and ordered, That every Proprietor, or others holding under them, who have a right to locate lands within any of the first four dividends, may be allowed to survey the same on any part of the lands within the angle, lying to the westward and eastward of the lines before mentioned, subject to the resolutions of this Board already agreed upon. And provided also, That those who have warrants now to locate, shall locate and return the same to the Surveyor-General, within six months from this time, and all others who may obtain warrants hereafter, within six months from the date of such warrants. Resolved also, That a sixth dividend be granted, to be located within the angle only, at the rate of 1500 Acres to each Propriety, the warrants therefor to be granted by the Council of Proprietors, at their Meeting in February next, or any subsequent meeting.

At another special Meeting of the said Board, on the fifth of December, 1774.

This Board having understood that very ungenerous and undue means have been taken by the Eastern Proprietors, or their agents, to induce such persons living within the angle, and who are actually bona fide purchasers under the said Eastern Proprietors, to believe that the Western Proprietors mean and intend to disturb their possessions and improvements, and to take their lands from them; this Board do resolve and agree, that they have no such sinister intention, but mean to give to every such purchaser, or those under whom they hold, the full opportunity of covering such their possessions and improvements with West Jersey Rights, at a reasonable and moderate price; and that, in the mean time, such possessions and improvements be secured to them without interruption or disturbance, or until an Act of Assembly can be obtained to regulate the same, and finally determine all matters in controversy between the said Proprietors; but that it is nevertheless to be understood, that no such favour is intended or can be shewn to any person whatever, who may hereafter chuse to run the risque of making any future purchases of the Eastern Proprietors, of any of the lands that are contained within the said angle, this Board protesting against any sales of the Eastern Proprietors, which they may hereafter think proper to make.

The above Resolves are directed to be published, for the information of the General Proprietors, and all others who may be concerned.

By Order of the Board,

DANIEL ELLIS, Register.

ELIZABETH-TOWN, Dec. 19. The committee of observation for the free borough and town of Elizabeth, taking into consideration, that James Riving [ton], printer of one of the New-York Gazettes, having published many pieces in his paper, and divers pamphlets, inimical to the liberties of America; by which we have reason to suspect that he is a vile ministerial hireling, employed to disunite the colonies and calumniate all their measures, entered into for the publick good, in order, therefore, to discountenance the attempts of every person unfriendly to American liberty.

Resolved unanimously, by this committee, that they will take no more of said Rivington's Gazettes, nor send any advertisements to be inserted therein, or have any further dealings or commerce with him: And that we will recommend it to our constituents to observe the same conduct towards said Rivington, or any other printer who shall publish or print any pieces or pamphlets tending to break the happy union now subsisting throughout the American colonies.

That from thence he went to Barrington, thence on the road to Boston, through Springfield, and to Spencer, thence took the post road back through Hartford, &c. to New-York. That at Springfield he swapped his horse with one Joseph Glover, for an iron grey horse, which at Leicester, he swapped with John Steins, for a white horse; which at Dudley, he swapped with Luke Noble, for a black horse; which at Thompson in Connecticut, he swapped with John French, for a sorrel, with a star in his forehead; which at Hartford, he swapped with Joseph Peters, for a black horse; which at Rye, he swapped with Joseph Brewer, for a large black horse; which at Woodbridge, he (said was the riding horse of his late father in Massachusetts-Bay, and) swapped with Samuel Jaquess for the horse in his custody when apprehended. He said the piece of velverets, he had in exchange for his horse of Mr. Brewer, at Rye; that he bought the linen and shaloon of Mr. James Harris, a shop-keeper in Hartford, and the pillow-case of a blacksmith, whose name and place of abode he had forgot: He said he was going to York in Pennsylvania.

TO BE SOLD,

The healthy and pleasantly situated farm known by the name of Brown's Point in Middletown, East New-Jersey, late the property of James Kearny, deceased, it contains in the whole upwards of 1050 acres, about 60 of it salt meadow, there is and may be made as much of fresh; the land is naturally kind for grain, level and of easy tillage, about 300 acres of it cleared, and may with 200 pannels of fence be inclosed, a good outlet for cattle. There is on it a new house and kitchen, and a stone cellar under the house, a barn and out-houses, with the half of a good new saw-mill joining the premises, distant about one mile from a landing. Two orchards of good fruit, one of them in its prime, the other beginning to bear, and in a common fruit year, may produce at least 150 barrels of excellent cider, a large peach orchard, and sundry other fruit trees:—Its bounds, on the east and west sides, are confined within two creeks and streams of water to the rear, which fixes the limits, not to be disputed, and on the north by the bay, which in their seasons afford a plenty of shad, a variety of other fish, fowl, a plenty of excellent oysters and clams. It is near to a church of England, and of sundry of the different dissenters, where divine service is performed:—lies distant 10 miles from Sandy Hook, 7 from Amboy, 12 from Shrewsbury, and $1\frac{1}{2}$ from Middletown Point, which is the principal landing in the county, and the most advantageously formed for navigation, of which this place is seated at the entrance, where a vessel of 100 tons can lie in a safe harbour, and may be at sea in one hour, Staten Island, the narrows, and Long-Island in sight, and gives a prospect of vessels going out and coming in from sea to New-York and Amboy; it is more particularly formed from its natural qualities, for New-York and Amboy markets, as its distance don't exceed three hours sail from the former, and but one from the latter, much may be made with a moderate expence; a great plenty of manure without much labour may be yearly got; there are mills near, both by land and water. Within three hundred yards distance of the house, there is a very convenient place for erecting a tide-mill, with almost every advantage, little expence and great safety, with water enough, in common, for two pair of stones. It will be sold altogether or a part of it, as it is so situated that it can very conveniently be divided into two or three farms, and may be entered on next spring; the title indisputable; to be sold by the subscriber, living within two miles of the premises, on reasonable terms, as to price and payment.
